Work Uncovers Old Construction

Remnants of old iron hinges on a beam under the Old Senate House kitchen have led to the belief that the beam was once the jam of a Dutch door, according to Myron S. Teller, local architect and authority on Colonial hardware. The beam was found after workmen installing a new heating system uncovered foundation walls under the present kitchen. The walls, enclosing an area smaller than the present kitchen, indicate that the original kitchen was smaller and perhaps was enlarged after the building was burned by the British in 1777 or at some later date. The mortar used in laying up the walls was of a very old type containing fine hair. (Freeman photo)

Wilson Has Senate Bye, Gets Advice

Vote Is 77 to 6 for His Confirmation; Some Problems Still Remain for Eisenhower

Lehman Opposes

Senator Says Wilson Appointment Not Good for Department

Washington, Jan. 27 (AP)—President Eisenhower today nominated Roger M. Kyes of Michigan to be deputy secretary of defense.

At the White House today, Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said Eisenhower planned to send some nominations to the Senate later in the day. But he added that he was unable to say whether the controversial nominations of Talbott and Stevens would be included.

Hagerty also said he had no information as to when Wilson would be sworn into office.

Confirmation Is Given

Washington, Jan. 27 (AP) — Charles E. Wilson won 77 to 6 confirmation by the Senate yesterday—along with some sharp advice on how to conduct himself in his new assignment as secretary of defense.

That action by the Senate gave President Eisenhower a full cabinet but apparently left him some political problems.

Wilson was approved, after a 10-day controversy, by the votes of 47 of the Senate's 48 Republicans and 30 of 46 Democrats.

Sen. Morse (Ind-Ore.) and five Democrats—Johnston of South Carolina, Kilgore and Neely of West Virginia, Lehman of New York and Willis Smith of North Carolina—voted against confirmation of the former General Motors president.

Wilson's agreement to sell more than 2½ million dollars worth of GM stock paved the way for his confirmation but it was causing trouble for two men he has proposed as defense department aides.

They are Robert T. B. Stevens, named informally as army secretary, and Harold E. Talbot, air secretary.

Back to Eisenhower

This situation was thrown back onto Eisenhower's desk for a decision.

Stevens and Talbott have said they can't afford to sell some financial holdings. The prevailing Senate opinion seemed to be that they will sell or they won't be confirmed.

Eisenhower may move slowly in giving them formal nominations, which the Senate Armed Services Committee has ruled must be forthcoming before they can be summoned to testify again. They appeared with Wilson at closed hearings on Jan. 15 and 16.

The understanding of Armed Services Committee members was that the names of Wilson's proposed assistants will be sent to the Senate one at a time, with that of Roger M. Kyes, chosen deputy secretary, to be submitted first.

Denies Any Holdings

Second on the list may be Robert B. Anderson, designated for secretary of the Navy He has testified he does not have any industrial holdings. Kyes said he would sell about 3,000 shares of General Motors stock. He thus is regarded as likely to get speedy Senate approval along with Anderson.

Whether Eisenhower ever formally submits the names of Talbott and Stevens appeared to depend on whether they can satisfy senators informally in advance that they ought to be confirmed under the stock disposal rule applied to Wilson.

Stevens has contended he can't sell his large holdings in a family-owned textile firm which

After Allied Attack Fails

An American soldier, wounded in futile assault on "Spud" hill in Korea, is carried by four buddies toward first aid station while in background other wounded are being helped from a personnel carrier. They were caught in a vicious crossfire and forced to give up the attack. (AP Wirephoto via radio from Tokyo).

Clifford Lost $100 To Attackers, Report

Woman, 32, Involved in Allegations Also Naming Two Men—'Break' Is Attributed to Trooper Lisman

How an aged Kingston man was beaten, robbed of more than $100 and left unconscious along a back road near Highland was revealed today with the filing of first degree robbery charges against two men and a woman.

State police said the victim of the alleged attack was LeRoy Clifford, 72, of 85 Cedar street.

Charges were placed early today against James E. Raymo, Sr., 34, of 514 Main street, Poughkeepsie, a mason's helper, and Helen M. Chambers, 32, of 9 Mansion street, Poughkeepsie, telephone operator, and a Roy Weeks, said to be in the Dutchess county jail awaiting grand jury action on another charge.

'Break' Came Last Night

The "break" came late Monday night in the case which began with the finding of Clifford's unconscious form along the Chodikee road near Highland the night of Sept. 6, 1952.

The passing motorist who found Clifford notified state police of the Highland station, and Troopers Michael Lisman and Elliot Johnson were assigned.

They reported they took Clifford to Vassar Hospital, where he was treated for wounds about his head and mouth.

Clifford's Story

Clifford's story as related today by the troopers was that he met three people in a bar and grill in Kingston about 10 p. m. on Sept. 6. After having a few drinks together, Clifford was invited to make a "tour of the bars" by the trio, troopers said.

After visiting several places, the group decided to go to Poughkeepsie in an automobile driven by one of the younger men, the story continues.

Turned off at Highland

At Highland, they turned off on the back road, and Weeks was reported to have asked Raymo to stop the automobile for a moment. He then was said to have asked Clifford if he wanted to get out, which the older man did.

As he got out, Clifford related to authorities he was struck on the head, grabbed and then struck in the mouth, after which he lost consciousness.

Clifford later told troopers his wallet containing $117 was missing.

Enlisted Poughkeepsie Aid

With no leads except a sketchy description and nicknames, troopers made little headway until this week when Trooper Lisman enlisted the aid of Poughkeepsie detectives. They pulled out various photographs from the file of the Poughkeepsie police department, one of which was identified as the woman involved by Clifford, who had recovered, Lisman reported.

Detectives and Trooper Lisman immediately picked up Helen Chambers.

After questioning, Mrs. Chambers named Raymo, who was also picked up, and Roy Weeks, who was found to be in the Dutchess county jail on a grand larceny charge, according to the report.

Poughkeepsie detectives who were active on the case included Robert Schuyler, James Murphy, John Doss and LeRoy Stoothoff.

Arraigned in Lloyd

Mrs. Chambers and Raymo were arraigned on first degree robbery charges before Justice of the Peace William J. Upright of the town of Lloyd. Raymo waived examination and was ordered held for grand jury action. Mrs. Chambers requested a preliminary hearing at a date to be set. When booked at the Ulster county jail, she said she was married and was employed as a telephone operator. She was described as woman five feet four inches tall, of medium build and with dark brown hair.

A warrant was filed by troopers against Weeks to be served when the current charge against him is concluded.

U. S. Pilot Tells Of Flying Disc in Sweep at Plane

Incident Occurs in Bright, Cloudless Day—Made 'Pass' at F-84 Thunderjet

U. S. Air Base, Northern Japan, Jan. 27 (AP)—The U. S. Air Force tonight reported a small, metallic, disc-shaped object made a controlled, sweeping pass at an American jet fighter-bomber and was observed at very close range by another pilot.

The report from air force intelligence files, said the sighting was made over northern Japan at 11:20 a. m., March 29, 1952, by Lt. David C. Brigham of Rockford, Ill.

It was a bright, cloudless day. Brigham said he got a very good look at the object from about 30 to 50 feet for about 10 seconds.

The pilot described it as "about eight inches in diameter, very thin, round, and as shiny as polished chromium; had no apparent projections and left no exhaust trails or vapor trails."

He said it caught up with an F-84 Thunderjet, hovered a while and then shot out of sight. The

Schutzer Says Rent Aide Member of Real Estate Firm

Albany, Jan. 27 (AP) — The American Labor party today urged Gov. Dewey to remove D. Mallory Stephens from the state's temporary rent commission on the ground Stephens was an official of a private real estate firm.

Arthur Schutzer, the ALP's state executive secretary, said in a statement that Stephens, a former Republican legislative leader who retired last year, was vice chairman of the board and director of the City Title Insurance Company, New York.

Schutzer said that "surely, it does not require too much inquiry to conclude that the private interests of Mr. Stephens as an officer of a leading realty insurance outfit render him not quite the most impartial person to decide the fate of state rent control."

He said that Stephens "has long been a foe of effective rent control."

The ALP has been accused by opponents of being Communist-dominated.

As an assemblyman, Stephens was chairman of the temporary rent commission, which has authored the Dewey administration's rent-control measures.

Gen. Taylor Leaves

Travis Air Force Base, Calif., Jan. 27 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor left this morning for Korea to take command of the U. S. Eighth Army from Gen. James A. Van Fleet, who is retiring. He is going via Hickam Field, Hawaii, in a Lockheed Constellation.

Flemming Is Member of Group Ordered to Improve U. S. Efficiency

Washington, Jan. 27 (AP)—President Eisenhower issued his first executive order today. It gives official status to a three-man committee studying ways to streamline the executive branch of the government.

The committee was instructed to find ways "to promote economy and efficiency" in the executive agencies.

Still bothered by a slight cold, Eisenhower stayed in his room at the White House today, but aides said he was up early working on his state of the union message, to be delivered to Congress Monday.

Eisenhower's press chief, James C. Hagerty, said the President's cold—he called it "the sniffles"—developed yesterday and that his condition definitely was improved today.

President Works Solo

But, Hagerty said, Eisenhower decided to confine himself to his living quarters as a precautionary measure. His study, at which he worked today, adjoins his bedroom.

The committee studying methods of streamlining the executive branch has been in existence unofficially since Nov. 30. Today's order put it on an official basis and instructs it to report back to the President within a year.

Nelson A. Rockefeller, former assistant secretary of state, is chairman of the committee. The other members are Arthur S. Flemming, president of Ohio Wesleyan University and former

Bridges, Ferry Show Increase in Travel for 1952

Boost on Spans 474,572 Over 1951, Ferry Has Gain of 2,517, Is Report

Travel over the three Hudson river bridges under control of the New York State Bridge Authority in 1952 was 474,572 vehicles above 1951, the authority reported today.

The bridges clocked 6,369,457 in 1952 as against 5,894,885 in 1951.

The Rip Van Winkle bridge carried 1,503,549 vehicles in 1952 and 1,373,177 in 1951 for a gain of 130,372; the Mid-Hudson clocked 3,382,883 in 1952 and 3,116,817 in 1951 for a gain of 266,066, and the Bear Mountain carried 1,483,025 in 1952 as against 1,404,891 in 1951, a gain of 78,134.

The Kingston-Rhinecliff ferry, which ran two weeks longer in 1952 carried 75,986 vehicles against 73,469 in 1951 for a gain of 2,517. It carried 25,891 pedestrians compared to 22,529 in 1951, a gain of 3,362.

Record Flight Planned

London, Jan. 27 (AP)—Britain's record breaking twin jet Canberra bomber flashed into the skies early today in an attempt to fly from England to Australia in less than 24 hours. The sleek blue bomber will try to cover the 8,608 miles to Darwin with only three refueling stops—at Fayid in the Suez Canal zone, Karachi, Pakistan, and Singapore. The plane took off at 8:36 a. m. (3:36 a. m. EST), carrying a pilot and a navigator. The present London-to-Darwin record was set in August, 1946, by a Royal Air Force Lancaster, which made the trip in 45 hours 35 minutes.

O'Neill Estate Appraised

New York, Jan. 27 (Special)—The late Mrs. Mary O'Neill, formerly of Kingston but later of New York, left the bulk of her estate to her daughter, Mrs. Estelle Bonner, of 865 West End avenue, New York, it was revealed here Monday. Mrs. O'Neill, who died on March 27, 1952, was buried in Kingston. Her estate was appraised by the New York State Transfer Tax Department at $90,991 gross value, and $85,903 net value. Stocks and bonds amounted to $86,746. Her daughter receives the entire estate except for about $800 which was specifically bequeathed.

Allied Planes Pound Red Supplies, Front in Korea

Last Minute Rush Is Seen for 1953 Licenses as Feb. 1 Nears

A last minute rush for passenger car plates is indicated at the Ulster County Motor Vehicle Bureau.

Up until this morning a total of 17,343 licenses for 1953 had been issued. During 1952 there was issued in Ulster county a total of 25,624 passenger tags. This leaves still 8,281 registrations to be issued to equal that of last year. The bulk of these must be issued before the dead line which is midnight next Monday, February 2.

Two windows are being used but by early morning the line of applicants was beginning to form.

County Clerk Sutton has issued an appeal to get plates as early as possible to avoid the rush which will develop during the last day or two.

Monday Is Deadline

After midnight on Monday 1952 plates will be illegal and operators of vehicles which do not display the new tags will be subject to attention by the police. It has been announced that there will be no extension of time granted to passenger car operators.

Monday night the legislature passed the Manning bill which will extend from February 2 to March 2 the deadline for registration of motor trucks and the measure was sent to Governor Dewey for signature.

It is expected that this legislation will become effective in order to extend the time for securing motor truck licenses pending a determination in the controversy over the registration fee for trucks. Meanwhile truckers are cautioned to refrain from securing their new licenses until the matter has been fully determined.

Dulles Gives Praise

Washington, Jan. 27 (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles said today The Netherlands should be "warmly congratulated" for its decision to forego American economic aid.

Light Ground Action Reported — Taylor Leaves U. S. for Far East

Outnumbered U. S. Sabre jets damaged two Communist MIG-15 Fighters over MIG alley in far northwest Korea.

Only light ground action was reported as Gen. J. Lawton Collins, U. S. Army chief of staff, began his seventh tour of the battlefront since the Korea War began 2½ years ago.

Damaged in Battle

The Russian-built MIG-15's were damaged in a battle between four Sabres and 20 Communist Jets 20 miles south of the Suhio reservoir in northwest Korea. Allied losses, if any, will be announced in a weekend summary.

Farther south, F-84 Thunderjet fighter-bombers for the second straight day blasted the once attack-free Communist supply route from the capital at Pyongyang to the Red truce camp at Kaesong.

Since November, 1951, the UN command had permitted the Reds to send daily supply convoys to their truce delegation at Kaesong free from attack.

But on Jan. 15, the allies limited the immunity to Sundays only. They charged the Reds were using

Hospital Reports Ambulance Costs

Total Cost Was $16,053 With Loss of $1,204—Workers Added

Kingston Hospital's first year of operating an ambulance service cost $16,053.17 and resulted in a loss of $1,204.75, said the hospital's annual report released today.

The hospital listed a gross income from operation of the ambulance of $14,848.42 since the two ambulances and equipment were bought from the W. N. Conner ambulance service and started in operation by the hospital on Jan. 1, 1952.

The ambulance was taken over, said the report, upon request of the medical staff, when it was learned that the service might discontinue.

Seven Workers Added

To operate the service, it said, "It was necessary to add four

Colonial Gardens Would Get Share in Housing Subsidy

Kingston's housing project, Colonial Gardens, off Flatbush avenue, would share in a $1,500,000 increase in state public housing subsidies proposed today by Governor Thomas E. Dewey, the Associated Press said.

The new money would help "keep rents low" in the Kingston and 10 other projects.

Arthur A. Davis, Jr., chairman of the local housing authority said today that it will advertise within the next two or three weeks for landscaping bids. The buildings will be finished in the early spring, he said, but the landscaping must be finished and sidewalks built before the apartments are ready for occupancy.

The rentals here, on a general basis will range from $35 a month for 3½ rooms to $45 for 5½ rooms. The size of apartments will depend upon the number of persons in a family.

Gov. Dewey said the additional money was needed in the state's 1953-54 budget to furnish subsidies to localities for projects, with a total of 5,544 units, that are expected to be completed in the coming year.

The increase, detailed in Gov. Dewey's new state-aid budget today, would boost the state's subsidy payments to $8,900,000 in the coming fiscal year.

The subsidy payments are made to help localities underwrite the projects. This, in turn, keeps rents lower.

The Kingston project has 98 units, and the others are New York city, 3,770 units; Buffalo, 826; Rochester, 392; Newburgh, 206; North Hempstead, 168, and Elmira, 84. The units in some cities represent more than one project.

Landscaping of the local project will include considerable more fill than that now available for grading, and the planting of shrubbery and grass.

Dewey Marks $603,419,780 of His Budget For Aid to Localities for $18,589,715 Boost

Albany, Jan. 27 (AP) — Gov. Dewey today allocated $603,419,780 of his billion-dollar state budget for 1953-54 to financial aid for localities, to give them $18,589,715 more than in current fiscal year.

The actual amount that went to localities in the current budget is $572,118,363. This compares with $590,708,078 proposed by Dewey for the new fiscal year, which begins April 1.

The proposed state assistance appropriation of $603,419,780 actually is $7,647,417 less than the $611,067,197 appropriated for the 1952-53 fiscal year. But both totals include deficiency appropriations from preceding years, which must be included in the succeeding budget to satisfy a bookkeeping requirements.

The seven million dollar drop in appropriations stirred speculation that Dewey's overall budget total for the coming fiscal year might drop below the current year's $1,109,000,000.

In any case, there was no likelihood of any new or higher taxes.

The governor will send his complete budget to the legislature Thursday. But he disclosed the "state aid" section today to emphasize that more than 50 per cent of the state's tax revenues are returned to lesser political sub-divisions for education, welfare and other public programs.

Dewey noted that the amount of local assistance distributed by the state had climbed steadily in recent years. He said that "in terms of the dollars involved, the main government today is collecting and paying out to the localities more than 600 million dollars a year.

"We must recognize that there is a point beyond which increased payments of state funds to the localities will almost certainly weaken local government by contributing to poor financial management and making it more dependent on centralized state authority," the governor said.

The governor's program killed any hope of Mayor Vincent P. Impellitteri to win more state aid for tax-hungry New York city. The mayor asked for $62,700,000 in additional aid.

Dewey noted that his program allocated $266,801,176 to the city. This was a drop of $3,936,931 from the current year's total. It would give the city 44.2 per cent of the state aid budget, compared with 46.3 per cent this year.

The largest single increase in the new state aid budget was for education, which climbed $15,625,000 — from $286,760,000 to $302,385,000. This is an all-time high for this purpose, and repre-

Wicks Sets Deadline For Introducing Bills

Albany, Jan. 27 (AP)—February 17 has been set as the deadline for the introduction of bills and resolutions in the Senate.

Arthur H. Wicks, Republican majority leader of that house, fixed the date last night. The only exceptions will be measures introduced by the rules committee, of which Wicks is chairman.

Wicks said that he was shooting for a mid-March adjournment.

Remington Is Found Guilty Of Perjury in Federal Court

New York, Jan. 27 (AP)—William W. Remington, former government economist, was convicted today of perjury in denying he ever gave secret government data to Elizabeth Bentley for relay to Russia.

He also was convicted on a second perjury count for falsely denying knowledge of the existence of a unit of the Young Communist League at Dartmouth College when he was a student there in the 1930s.

Remington was shaky on his feet after the verdict. Before it was announced, he sat pale and nervous at the defense counsel table, fidgeting and aimlessly picking at the leaves of a pocket dictionary.

Remington, 35, could be sentenced up to 10 years in prison and $4,000 in fines on the two counts. This would be twice the penalty he drew on a previous conviction — which he got reversed on appeal.

The federal court jury's verdict —announced at 3:30 a. m.—left further charges hanging over his head.

The jury acquitted the handsome one-time $10,000-a-year Department of Commerce employe on one count of a five-count indictment. This charged him with falsely denying he ever recruited any one into the Communist party.

On two other counts the jury of 11 men and one woman reported it was unable to agree. These involved his denials that he ever attended Communist party meetings at Nashville, Tenn., when he was employed by the Tennessee Valley Authority, or that he ever paid Communist party dues.

Miss Bentley, admitted former courier for a Soviet spy ring, was a prosecution witness against Remington at both trials. She said

Incident Occurs in Bright, Cloudless Day—Made 'Pass' at F-84 Thunderjet

U. S. Air Base, Northern Japan, Jan. 27 (AP)—The U. S. Air Force tonight reported a small, metallic, disc-shaped object made a controlled, sweeping pass at an American jet fighter-bomber and was observed at very close range by another pilot.

The report from air force intelligence files, said the sighting was made over northern Japan at 11:20 a. m., March 29, 1952, by Lt. David C. Brigham of Rockford, Ill.

It was a bright, cloudless day. Brigham said he got a very good look at the object from about 30 to 50 feet for about 10 seconds.

The pilot described it as "about eight inches in diameter, very thin, round, and as shiny as polished chromium; had no apparent projections and left no exhaust trails or vapor trails."

He said it caught up with an F-84 Thunderjet, hovered a while and then shot out of sight. The

Hospital Reports Ambulance Costs

Total Cost Was $16,053 With Loss of $1,204—Workers Added

Kingston Hospital's first year of operating an ambulance service cost $16,053.17 and resulted in a loss of $1,204.75, said the hospital's annual report released today.

The hospital listed a gross income from operation of the ambulance of $14,848.42 since the two ambulances and equipment were bought from the W. N. Conner ambulance service and started in operation by the hospital on Jan. 1, 1952.

The ambulance was taken over, said the report, upon request of the medical staff, when it was learned that the service might discontinue.

Seven Workers Added

To operate the service, it said, "It was necessary to add four

Schutzer Says Rent Aide Member of Real Estate Firm

Albany, Jan. 27 (AP) — The American Labor party today urged Gov. Dewey to remove D. Mallory Stephens from the state's temporary rent commission on the ground Stephens was an official of a private real estate firm.

Arthur Schutzer, the ALP's state executive secretary, said in a statement that Stephens, a former Republican legislative leader who retired last year, was vice chairman of the board and director of the City Title Insurance Company, New York.

Schutzer said that "surely, it does not require too much inquiry to conclude that the private interests of Mr. Stephens as an officer of a leading realty insurance outfit render him not quite the most impartial person to decide the fate of state rent control."

He said that Stephens "has long been a foe of effective rent control."

The ALP has been accused by opponents of being Communist-dominated.

As an assemblyman, Stephens was chairman of the temporary rent commission, which has authored the Dewey administration's rent-control measures.

Gen. Taylor Leaves

Travis Air Force Base, Calif., Jan. 27 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor left this morning for Korea to take command of the U. S. Eighth Army from Gen. James A. Van Fleet, who is retiring. He is going via Hickam Field, Hawaii, in a Lockheed Constellation.

Flemming Is Member of Group Ordered to Improve U. S. Efficiency

Washington, Jan. 27 (AP)—President Eisenhower issued his first executive order today. It gives official status to a three-man committee studying ways to streamline the executive branch of the government.

The committee was instructed to find ways "to promote economy and efficiency" in the executive agencies.

Still bothered by a slight cold, Eisenhower stayed in his room at the White House today, but aides said he was up early working on his state of the union message, to be delivered to Congress Monday.

Eisenhower's press chief, James C. Hagerty, said the President's cold—he called it "the sniffles"—developed yesterday and that his condition definitely was improved today.

President Works Solo

But, Hagerty said, Eisenhower decided to confine himself to his living quarters as a precautionary measure. His study, at which he worked today, adjoins his bedroom.

The committee studying methods of streamlining the executive branch has been in existence unofficially since Nov. 30. Today's order put it on an official basis and instructs it to report back to the President within a year.

Nelson A. Rockefeller, former assistant secretary of state, is chairman of the committee. The other members are Arthur S. Flemming, president of Ohio Wesleyan University and former

Bridges, Ferry Show Increase in Travel for 1952

Boost on Spans 474,572 Over 1951, Ferry Has Gain of 2,517, Is Report

Travel over the three Hudson river bridges under control of the New York State Bridge Authority in 1952 was 474,572 vehicles above 1951, the authority reported today.

The bridges clocked 6,369,457 in 1952 as against 5,894,885 in 1951.

The Rip Van Winkle bridge carried 1,503,549 vehicles in 1952 and 1,373,177 in 1951 for a gain of 130,372; the Mid-Hudson clocked 3,382,883 in 1952 and 3,116,817 in 1951 for a gain of 266,066, and the Bear Mountain carried 1,483,025 in 1952 as against 1,404,891 in 1951, a gain of 78,134.

The Kingston-Rhinecliff ferry, which ran two weeks longer in 1952 carried 75,986 vehicles against 73,469 in 1951 for a gain of 2,517. It carried 25,891 pedestrians compared to 22,529 in 1951, a gain of 3,362.

Record Flight Planned

London, Jan. 27 (AP)—Britain's record breaking twin jet Canberra bomber flashed into the skies early today in an attempt to fly from England to Australia in less than 24 hours. The sleek blue bomber will try to cover the 8,608 miles to Darwin with only three refueling stops—at Fayid in the Suez Canal zone, Karachi, Pakistan, and Singapore. The plane took off at 8:36 a. m. (3:36 a. m. EST), carrying a pilot and a navigator. The present London-to-Darwin record was set in August, 1946, by a Royal Air Force Lancaster, which made the trip in 45 hours 35 minutes.

O'Neill Estate Appraised

New York, Jan. 27 (Special)—The late Mrs. Mary O'Neill, formerly of Kingston but later of New York, left the bulk of her estate to her daughter, Mrs. Estelle Bonner, of 865 West End avenue, New York, it was revealed here Monday. Mrs. O'Neill, who died on March 27, 1952, was buried in Kingston. Her estate was appraised by the New York State Transfer Tax Department at $90,991 gross value, and $85,903 net value. Stocks and bonds amounted to $86,746. Her daughter receives the entire estate except for about $800 which was specifically bequeathed.

Allied Planes Pound Red Supplies, Front in Korea

Light Ground Action Reported — Taylor Leaves U. S. for Far East

Outnumbered U. S. Sabre jets damaged two Communist MIG-15 Fighters over MIG alley in far northwest Korea.

Only light ground action was reported as Gen. J. Lawton Collins, U. S. Army chief of staff, began his seventh tour of the battlefront since the Korea War began 2½ years ago.

Damaged in Battle

The Russian-built MIG-15's were damaged in a battle between four Sabres and 20 Communist Jets 20 miles south of the Suhio reservoir in northwest Korea. Allied losses, if any, will be announced in a weekend summary.

Farther south, F-84 Thunderjet fighter-bombers for the second straight day blasted the once attack-free Communist supply route from the capital at Pyongyang to the Red truce camp at Kaesong.

Since November, 1951, the UN command had permitted the Reds to send daily supply convoys to their truce delegation at Kaesong free from attack.

But on Jan. 15, the allies limited the immunity to Sundays only. They charged the Reds were using

Last Minute Rush Is Seen for 1953 Licenses as Feb. 1 Nears

A last minute rush for passenger car plates is indicated at the Ulster County Motor Vehicle Bureau.

Up until this morning a total of 17,343 licenses for 1953 had been issued. During 1952 there was issued in Ulster county a total of 25,624 passenger tags. This leaves still 8,281 registrations to be issued to equal that of last year. The bulk of these must be issued before the dead line which is midnight next Monday, February 2.

Two windows are being used but by early morning the line of applicants was beginning to form.

County Clerk Sutton has issued an appeal to get plates as early as possible to avoid the rush which will develop during the last day or two.

Monday Is Deadline

After midnight on Monday 1952 plates will be illegal and operators of vehicles which do not display the new tags will be subject to attention by the police. It has been announced that there will be no extension of time granted to passenger car operators.

Monday night the legislature passed the Manning bill which will extend from February 2 to March 2 the deadline for registration of motor trucks and the measure was sent to Governor Dewey for signature.

It is expected that this legislation will become effective in order to extend the time for securing motor truck licenses pending a determination in the controversy over the registration fee for trucks. Meanwhile truckers are cautioned to refrain from securing their new licenses until the matter has been fully determined.

Dulles Gives Praise

Washington, Jan. 27 (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles said today The Netherlands should be "warmly congratulated" for its decision to forego American economic aid.

Remington Is Found Guilty Of Perjury in Federal Court

New York, Jan. 27 (AP)—William W. Remington, former government economist, was convicted today of perjury in denying he ever gave secret government data to Elizabeth Bentley for relay to Russia.

He also was convicted on a second perjury count for falsely denying knowledge of the existence of a unit of the Young Communist League at Dartmouth College when he was a student there in the 1930s.

Remington was shaky on his feet after the verdict. Before it was announced, he sat pale and nervous at the defense counsel table, fidgeting and aimlessly picking at the leaves of a pocket dictionary.

Remington, 35, could be sentenced up to 10 years in prison and $4,000 in fines on the two counts. This would be twice the penalty he drew on a previous conviction — which he got reversed on appeal.

The federal court jury's verdict —announced at 3:30 a. m.—left further charges hanging over his head.

The jury acquitted the handsome one-time $10,000-a-year Department of Commerce employe on one count of a five-count indictment. This charged him with falsely denying he ever recruited any one into the Communist party.

On two other counts the jury of 11 men and one woman reported it was unable to agree. These involved his denials that he ever attended Communist party meetings at Nashville, Tenn., when he was employed by the Tennessee Valley Authority, or that he ever paid Communist party dues.

Miss Bentley, admitted former courier for a Soviet spy ring, was a prosecution witness against Remington at both trials. She said

Colonial Gardens Would Get Share in Housing Subsidy

Kingston's housing project, Colonial Gardens, off Flatbush avenue, would share in a $1,500,000 increase in state public housing subsidies proposed today by Governor Thomas E. Dewey, the Associated Press said.

The new money would help "keep rents low" in the Kingston and 10 other projects.

Arthur A. Davis, Jr., chairman of the local housing authority said today that it will advertise within the next two or three weeks for landscaping bids. The buildings will be finished in the early spring, he said, but the landscaping must be finished and sidewalks built before the apartments are ready for occupancy.

The rentals here, on a general basis will range from $35 a month for 3½ rooms to $45 for 5½ rooms. The size of apartments will depend upon the number of persons in a family.

Gov. Dewey said the additional money was needed in the state's 1953-54 budget to furnish subsidies to localities for projects, with a total of 5,544 units, that are expected to be completed in the coming year.

The increase, detailed in Gov. Dewey's new state-aid budget today, would boost the state's subsidy payments to $8,900,000 in the coming fiscal year.

The subsidy payments are made to help localities underwrite the projects. This, in turn, keeps rents lower.

The Kingston project has 98 units, and the others are New York city, 3,770 units; Buffalo, 826; Rochester, 392; Newburgh, 206; North Hempstead, 168, and Elmira, 84. The units in some cities represent more than one project.

Landscaping of the local project will include considerable more fill than that now available for grading, and the planting of shrubbery and grass.

Dewey Marks $603,419,780 of His Budget For Aid to Localities for $18,589,715 Boost

Albany, Jan. 27 (AP) — Gov. Dewey today allocated $603,419,780 of his billion-dollar state budget for 1953-54 to financial aid for localities, to give them $18,589,715 more than in current fiscal year.

The actual amount that went to localities in the current budget is $572,118,363. This compares with $590,708,078 proposed by Dewey for the new fiscal year, which begins April 1.

The proposed state assistance appropriation of $603,419,780 actually is $7,647,417 less than the $611,067,197 appropriated for the 1952-53 fiscal year. But both totals include deficiency appropriations from preceding years, which must be included in the succeeding budget to satisfy a bookkeeping requirements.

The seven million dollar drop in appropriations stirred speculation that Dewey's overall budget total for the coming fiscal year might drop below the current year's $1,109,000,000.

In any case, there was no likelihood of any new or higher taxes.

The governor will send his complete budget to the legislature Thursday. But he disclosed the "state aid" section today to emphasize that more than 50 per cent of the state's tax revenues are returned to lesser political sub-divisions for education, welfare and other public programs.

Dewey noted that the amount of local assistance distributed by the state had climbed steadily in recent years. He said that "in terms of the dollars involved, the main government today is collecting and paying out to the localities more than 600 million dollars a year.

"We must recognize that there is a point beyond which increased payments of state funds to the localities will almost certainly weaken local government by contributing to poor financial management and making it more dependent on centralized state authority," the governor said.

The governor's program killed any hope of Mayor Vincent P. Impellitteri to win more state aid for tax-hungry New York city. The mayor asked for $62,700,000 in additional aid.

Dewey noted that his program allocated $266,801,176 to the city. This was a drop of $3,936,931 from the current year's total. It would give the city 44.2 per cent of the state aid budget, compared with 46.3 per cent this year.

The largest single increase in the new state aid budget was for education, which climbed $15,625,000 — from $286,760,000 to $302,385,000. This is an all-time high for this purpose, and repre-

Kaye Makes Room For Work Clothes

Alterations intended to provide additional room for expanding business and also to provide additional room for installation of a new work clothes department are now going on the Kaye Sportwair store of the Kantrowitz brothers at 46 North Front street.

A partial new front is being placed where one of the two main entrances formerly was. One large new display window will be installed with three unit windows. The main entrance will be at the upper end of the store frontage.

To Carry Full Line

New cases will be installed together with new display tables and new fixtures.

The new work clothes department will be at the rear of the store, stocked with a complete line of work clothes. This new department will be opened in the spring after the alterations are completed and the new fixtures and cases have been installed, Harold L. Kantrowitz explained. The new fixtures and cases have been ordered and will be installed as soon as they are received. Meanwhile business is going on as usual in the store.

Public Health Official and Nurses Visit Local Office

The Ulster County Department of Health is being visited by a Pennsylvania Health Department sanitarian and by three apprentice public health nurses from New York state. From left, Joseph Zappia, of DuBois, Pa.; the Misses Janet Dinardo, Troy; Helen Thoren, Brooklyn; Marian McCoubrey, Windham; Charles Shultis Sr., UC sanitary inspector; and Miss Amelia Dowd, superintendent public health nurse.

The Sanitarian Zappia is here for six weeks to study how the county health unit operates. He explained that Pennsylvania at present does not have county units but is contemplating setting them up. Zappia is a graduate of the Pittsburgh Field Training Center conducted by the U. S. Public Health Service.

The three apprentice public health nurses, all registered nurses, are serving seven month field training periods here prior to going on to some college or university to study toward a degree in public health nursing. They are: Miss Helen Thoren of Brooklyn, a 1949 graduate of Long Island College Hospital, Brooklyn; Miss Marion McCoubrey, Windham, 1950 graduate of Hartwick College School of Nursing, Oneonta, and Miss Janet Dinardo, Troy, 1952 graduate of Samaritan Hospital in Troy. Each has been assigned to a staff nurse who will serve as her senior advisor. Miss Dinardo is working from the Kingston headquarters, Miss Thoren from Milton and Miss McCoubrey from Saugerties.

Heart, TB Groups Discuss Projects

A committee to study further needs for the Heart and School Health Program was held at the office of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association on January 26 at 8 p. m.

Dr. Bernard E. Hughes, Administrative Assistant of the State Committee on TB and Public Health and John Connolly, assistant in heart work for the State Committee on TB and Public Health discussed with the members projects carried on throughout the state in various health associations.

It was planned to consult with school administrators and physicians about possible projects in school health which were suggested.

A program of weight control, consultation service for diagnosis of heart disease, professional and lay education and a survey to further the study of rheumatice infection in school children of Ulster county were among the possible projects considered by the committee.

Members serving on this committee with Mrs. Vincent Connelly, chairman, are: Dr. Henry L. Bibby, the Rev. Charles Brieant, Stone Ridge; Percy Bush, Sam Davis, Mrs. Joseph Deegan, N. Jansen Fowler, Harry T. Gumaer, Dr. D. W. Hargrave, Dr. F. W. Holcomb, Sr., Mrs. William McNamee, West Hurley; Mrs. Donald Schoonmaker, Accord; Mrs. Randolph Winston, Saugerties.

Martin announced that the President will deliver his State of the Union speech before a joint session, next Monday, Feb. 2.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Jan. 27 (AP) — The stock market advanced today without much enthusiasm.

The gains ran from fractions to around a point. Scattered minus signs served to restrain the rise.

The trading pace was around a million and a half shares for the entire day. That compared with yesterday's 1,420,000 shares.

Major groups out in front included railroads, steels, motors, rubbers, chemicals, and utilities, but in each of these sections there were backward spots.

U. S. Steel, which reports after the market close on dividends and earnings, was out in front of the other advancing steels early in the session. It faltered later, however, and fell back while the others held closely to their gains.

Consolidated Edison added a major fraction after directors declared a quarterly dividend of 55 cents as against 50 cents previously paid. The company reported 1952 earnings equal to $2.63 a share as compared with $2.26 the previous year.

Burlington Mills lost around a point when directors declared a dividend of 15 cents as compared with 25 cents paid quaterly previously.

Late Bulletins

Washington, Jan. 27 (AP) — The Senate confirmed Harold E. Stassen as mutual security director today.

Aiken, S. C., Jan. 27 (AP)—Leaking gas blasted one store to bits, set fires raging through four more and spread death and destruction in the heart of this atomic boom town today.

Mayor C. M. Jones estimated that 10 persons perished and the damage totaled two million dollars. Several persons were injured.

The explosion in the Jones Electrical Company trapped several people in two stores, the mayor said. Hours later the number of dead had not been definitely established but the mayor said tersely:

"I'm afraid at least 10 have perished."

At least five injured persons were treated at the Aiken General Hospital.

Gold Standard Asked

Washington, Jan. 27 (AP)—Chairman Reed (R.-N. Y.) of the House Ways and Means Committee has introducted legislation proposing a return to the gold standard. The measure, identical to one Reed introduced in the last Congress would: "Restore the right of American citizens to freely own gold and gold coins; return control over the public purse to the people; restrain further deterioration of our currency; enable holders of paper money to redeem it in gold coin on demand; and establish and maintain a domestic gold-coin standard."

Jury Fails to Agree

New York, Jan. 27 (AP) — The perjury trial of William Spivey, one-time All-America basketball great from the University of Kentucky, ended early today with the jury unable to agree whether he had a role in the big college sports scandal of two years ago. The jury of eight men and four women, after deliberating more than 10½ hours, reported itself deadlocked and then was dismissed by General Sessions Court Judge Saul S. Streit. The trial began Jan. 14.

Laborious Task

Silkworms can be cultivated in the United States as well as in other countries, but the tedious, exacting, and hardly profitable hand labor of unwinding the cocoons does not appeal to American laborers.

The Ulster County Department of Health is being visited by a Pennsylvania Health Department sanitarian and by three apprentice public health nurses from New York state. From left, Joseph Zappia, of DuBois, Pa.; the Misses Janet Dinardo, Troy; Helen Thoren, Brooklyn; Marian McCoubrey, Windham; Charles Shultis Sr., UC sanitary inspector; and Miss Amelia Dowd, superintendent public health nurse.

The Sanitarian Zappia is here for six weeks to study how the county health unit operates. He explained that Pennsylvania at present does not have county units but is contemplating setting them up. Zappia is a graduate of the Pittsburgh Field Training Center conducted by the U. S. Public Health Service.

The three apprentice public health nurses, all registered nurses, are serving seven month field training periods here prior to going on to some college or university to study toward a degree in public health nursing. They are: Miss Helen Thoren of Brooklyn, a 1949 graduate of Long Island College Hospital, Brooklyn; Miss Marion McCoubrey, Windham, 1950 graduate of Hartwick College School of Nursing, Oneonta, and Miss Janet Dinardo, Troy, 1952 graduate of Samaritan Hospital in Troy. Each has been assigned to a staff nurse who will serve as her senior advisor. Miss Dinardo is working from the Kingston headquarters, Miss Thoren from Milton and Miss McCoubrey from Saugerties.

Kaye Makes Room For Work Clothes

Alterations intended to provide additional room for expanding business and also to provide additional room for installation of a new work clothes department are now going on the Kaye Sportwair store of the Kantrowitz brothers at 46 North Front street.

A partial new front is being placed where one of the two main entrances formerly was. One large new display window will be installed with three unit windows. The main entrance will be at the upper end of the store frontage.

To Carry Full Line

New cases will be installed together with new display tables and new fixtures.

The new work clothes department will be at the rear of the store, stocked with a complete line of work clothes. This new department will be opened in the spring after the alterations are completed and the new fixtures and cases have been installed, Harold L. Kantrowitz explained. The new fixtures and cases have been ordered and will be installed as soon as they are received. Meanwhile business is going on as usual in the store.

Martin announced that the President will deliver his State of the Union speech before a joint session, next Monday, Feb. 2.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Jan. 27 (AP) — The stock market advanced today without much enthusiasm.

The gains ran from fractions to around a point. Scattered minus signs served to restrain the rise.

The trading pace was around a million and a half shares for the entire day. That compared with yesterday's 1,420,000 shares.

Major groups out in front included railroads, steels, motors, rubbers, chemicals, and utilities, but in each of these sections there were backward spots.

U. S. Steel, which reports after the market close on dividends and earnings, was out in front of the other advancing steels early in the session. It faltered later, however, and fell back while the others held closely to their gains.

Consolidated Edison added a major fraction after directors declared a quarterly dividend of 55 cents as against 50 cents previously paid. The company reported 1952 earnings equal to $2.63 a share as compared with $2.26 the previous year.

Burlington Mills lost around a point when directors declared a dividend of 15 cents as compared with 25 cents paid quaterly previously.

Late Bulletins

Washington, Jan. 27 (AP) — The Senate confirmed Harold E. Stassen as mutual security director today.

Aiken, S. C., Jan. 27 (AP)—Leaking gas blasted one store to bits, set fires raging through four more and spread death and destruction in the heart of this atomic boom town today.

Mayor C. M. Jones estimated that 10 persons perished and the damage totaled two million dollars. Several persons were injured.

The explosion in the Jones Electrical Company trapped several people in two stores, the mayor said. Hours later the number of dead had not been definitely established but the mayor said tersely:

"I'm afraid at least 10 have perished."

At least five injured persons were treated at the Aiken General Hospital.

Gold Standard Asked

Washington, Jan. 27 (AP)—Chairman Reed (R.-N. Y.) of the House Ways and Means Committee has introducted legislation proposing a return to the gold standard. The measure, identical to one Reed introduced in the last Congress would: "Restore the right of American citizens to freely own gold and gold coins; return control over the public purse to the people; restrain further deterioration of our currency; enable holders of paper money to redeem it in gold coin on demand; and establish and maintain a domestic gold-coin standard."

Jury Fails to Agree

New York, Jan. 27 (AP) — The perjury trial of William Spivey, one-time All-America basketball great from the University of Kentucky, ended early today with the jury unable to agree whether he had a role in the big college sports scandal of two years ago. The jury of eight men and four women, after deliberating more than 10½ hours, reported itself deadlocked and then was dismissed by General Sessions Court Judge Saul S. Streit. The trial began Jan. 14.

Kheel Has Parley

New York, Jan. 27 (AP)—Theodore W. Kheel, drafted as peacemaker in the 27-day-old bus strike, conferred with representatives of both sides for several hours last night and early today seeking an arbitration formula. He declined comment to newsmen when the session ended after midnight. Kheel, former impartial chairman of the private transit industry here, had been quoted several hours earlier as saying he was hopeful that agreement on "language difficulties" was imminent.

Korea Ferry Sinks

Pusan, Korea, Jan. 27 (AP)—A crowded ferry boat sank off the west coast of Korea Sunday and Korean newspapers reported 30 Koreans were drowned. The Korean Transportation Ministry put the toll at "slightly more than 10." A preliminary investigation indicated the tragedy may have been caused by overloading. An estimated 249 persons drowned Jan. 9 when a Korean passenger ship sank off Pusan.

Mothers' March Is Scheduled Jan. 29 For Polio Drive

Approximately 200 men volunteers from Kingston will take part in the Mothers' March on Polio in Kingston Thursday, Jan. 29, between 7 and 8 p. m., it was announced today by Mrs. John Hogan, chairman.

Monday's mobilization meeting at the Court House was attended by mothers from every section of the city who represented dozens of women's organizations and church groups, while many others attended as individuals.

These marching mothers, Mrs. Hogan explained, will be organized into a well-integrated volunteer army led by about 20 district captains.

They will be ready for the signal to start at 7 p. m.—the signal being the turning on of porch lights in most of the homes of the city. A light burning on the porch or in the window of any home that night will be an invitation to the marching mothers to ring the doorbell and receive a contribution to the March of Dimes, Mrs. Hogan said.

"The local Mothers' March on Polio is a part of a vast, nationwide effort on the part of mothers to strike a telling blow against polio," Mrs. Hogan commented. "The fruits of this hour of mercy," she added, "will be the improved health and well-being of thousands of boys and girls and men and women, not only in our own county, but throughout the nation."

Although a new feature of the polio drive in this area, the Mothers' March on Polio has been a successful affair in many other cities throughout the nation in former years.

Mothers' Marches have proven successful in such cities as Detroit, Miami, which this year plans to have 10,000 marchers ready; Denver, New York, San Francisco, Syracuse, Cleveland and many others.

In Los Angeles, Calif., a big parade of marchers has set the goal of $500,000 this year in the march alone. Cleveland marchers hope to raise $400,000 this year.

Child's Custody Given to Mother

Chicago, Jan. 27 (AP)—A circuit court judge has awarded custody of 7-year-old Mary Louise Judd to her mother, who once was jailed for taking the child to New York.

A bitter 10-day court battle for custody of Mary Louise ended Jan. 16 but Judge Robert Jerome Dunne reserved his decision until yesterday.

Judge Dunne awarded custody to Mrs. Lina Manca Judd, 33, an instructor in literature and the Italian language at Vassar College, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

The court gave visiting privileges to the father, Dr. Maurice H. Judd, 43, physician in suburban Oak Park, who sued for custody.

Served 43 Days

Last year, Mrs. Judd served 43 days of a two-year sentence for contempt of court. She was charged with taking her daughter to Vassar in 1951 in violation of a court order giving custody of Mary Louise to a court-appointed legal guardian.

The Judds were divorced Nov. 5, 1948.

During the court hearing of the case, Mrs. Judd testified the physician had taken indecent liberties with his daughter on several occasions between 1947 and 1951.

Judd, who denied these accusations, was acquitted in 1950 of a criminal indecent liberties charge resulting from his former wife's accusations.

Under terms of today's decision, Mrs. Judd must post $1,000 bond assuring that she will return the child to Chicago every summer for a visit with her father. Dr. Judd was given permission to visit Mary Louise on Saturdays and Sundays during Vassar's summer recesses.

Maps first were printed in the second half of the 15th century.

Guston Exhibition Reviewed by Tribune

Woodstock, Jan. 27—The following review of an exhibition of paintings by Philip Guston, of this village, appeared in the New York Herald Tribune last Saturday under the Art Exhibition Notes:

"Philip Guston, a few years ago won celebrity as a first rate exponent of fantasy and symbolism in American painting. At present, however, he has abandoned all of that. Developing a non-objective process of his own, he is showing his new work at the Egan gallery, in a series of uniformly styled canvasses of exceptional painterly quality which draw their motivation from the cubist process as the latter appeared in is early twentieth century development. Brushwork plays inwardly, toward the center of the canvas in an intensely developed patterning whose edges are bare of painting substance other than background. Each canvas is a subtle variation of the formal context of its neighbor. Beautiful as these forms and textures generally appear there is too little in the present material to give Guston's new art work much merited acclaim."

Two Cubs Are Awarded Their Silver Arrows

Woodstock, Jan. 27—A meeting of Cub Pack 34 was held Monday night at the home of Dave Mellert in Zena. The West Hurley Den under Mrs. Betsy Saxe, according to Mellert, has already completed the work necessary for the awarding of silver arrows. The boys are Robert Saxe and Richard Bartsch.

The Zena Den, with Mrs. Ruth Holumzer as den mother, has two winners of awards, Albert Holumzer, wolf badge, gold arrow and silver arrow, and Richard Mellert, wolf badge.

All of the above awards will be presented at the next meeting which will be held at the home of Mrs. Betsy Saxe in West Hurley on Monday, Feb. 23, at 7:30 p. m.

The den chief's for Cub Pack 34 are Steward DeWitt and John Mellert, both of Zena.

The Cubs have been at work on various projects including miniature airplanes, bird-feeding stations, book jackets and scrap books.

Consultations Set

Woodstock, Jan. 27 — Walter Van Wagenen, principal of the Woodstock School, has announced that the parent-teacher consultations for this term will probably be held Thursday and Friday. Letters will be sent to parents of school pupils giving the time and dates for the appointments.

Daughters to Meet

Woodstock, Jan. 27—The Kings Daughters of Shady will meet at 8 p. m. Monday, Feb. 2, at the home of Miss Evelyn Stone, president of the organization.

Suggestions Sought For P-TA Fund Drive

Woodstock, Jan. 27—Ideas for a fund raising campaign for the Woodstock Parent-Teacher Association are being considered. Suggestions for the annual drive for funds for the P-TA may be sent to Mrs. Thomas Dendy who will present them at a future meeting.

Mrs. Hans J. Cohn will present a slate of new officers at the meeting Thursday, Feb. 5, which will be voted upon at the March meeting of the association.

Village Notes

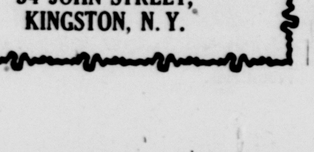

Woodstock, Jan. 27—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mollenhauer and Mr. and Mrs. William Stelling celebrated their respective wedding anniversaries last Sunday with dinner at the White Horse Inn.

Mrs. Katherine Lehner and Mrs. William Meisten, of New York are visiting with their sisters, Mrs. Stelling and Mrs. Mollenhauer.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Perlmutter gave a surprise party Sunday evening for Erwin Ruff. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. William Hand, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Leshen, Phyllis Smith, Diane Smith and Mrs. Ruff.

Child's Custody Given to Mother

Chicago, Jan. 27 (AP)—A circuit court judge has awarded custody of 7-year-old Mary Louise Judd to her mother, who once was jailed for taking the child to New York.

A bitter 10-day court battle for custody of Mary Louise ended Jan. 16 but Judge Robert Jerome Dunne reserved his decision until yesterday.

Judge Dunne awarded custody to Mrs. Lina Manca Judd, 33, an instructor in literature and the Italian language at Vassar College, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

The court gave visiting privileges to the father, Dr. Maurice H. Judd, 43, physician in suburban Oak Park, who sued for custody.

Served 43 Days

Last year, Mrs. Judd served 43 days of a two-year sentence for contempt of court. She was charged with taking her daughter to Vassar in 1951 in violation of a court order giving custody of Mary Louise to a court-appointed legal guardian.

The Judds were divorced Nov. 5, 1948.

During the court hearing of the case, Mrs. Judd testified the physician had taken indecent liberties with his daughter on several occasions between 1947 and 1951.

Judd, who denied these accusations, was acquitted in 1950 of a criminal indecent liberties charge resulting from his former wife's accusations.

Under terms of today's decision, Mrs. Judd must post $1,000 bond assuring that she will return the child to Chicago every summer for a visit with her father. Dr. Judd was given permission to visit Mary Louise on Saturdays and Sundays during Vassar's summer recesses.

Maps first were printed in the second half of the 15th century.

Guston Exhibition Reviewed by Tribune

Woodstock, Jan. 27—The following review of an exhibition of paintings by Philip Guston, of this village, appeared in the New York Herald Tribune last Saturday under the Art Exhibition Notes:

"Philip Guston, a few years ago won celebrity as a first rate exponent of fantasy and symbolism in American painting. At present, however, he has abandoned all of that. Developing a non-objective process of his own, he is showing his new work at the Egan gallery, in a series of uniformly styled canvasses of exceptional painterly quality which draw their motivation from the cubist process as the latter appeared in is early twentieth century development. Brushwork plays inwardly, toward the center of the canvas in an intensely developed patterning whose edges are bare of painting substance other than background. Each canvas is a subtle variation of the formal context of its neighbor. Beautiful as these forms and textures generally appear there is too little in the present material to give Guston's new art work much merited acclaim."

Two Cubs Are Awarded Their Silver Arrows

Woodstock, Jan. 27—A meeting of Cub Pack 34 was held Monday night at the home of Dave Mellert in Zena. The West Hurley Den under Mrs. Betsy Saxe, according to Mellert, has already completed the work necessary for the awarding of silver arrows. The boys are Robert Saxe and Richard Bartsch.

The Zena Den, with Mrs. Ruth Holumzer as den mother, has two winners of awards, Albert Holumzer, wolf badge, gold arrow and silver arrow, and Richard Mellert, wolf badge.

All of the above awards will be presented at the next meeting which will be held at the home of Mrs. Betsy Saxe in West Hurley on Monday, Feb. 23, at 7:30 p. m.

The den chief's for Cub Pack 34 are Steward DeWitt and John Mellert, both of Zena.

The Cubs have been at work on various projects including miniature airplanes, bird-feeding stations, book jackets and scrap books.

Consultations Set

Woodstock, Jan. 27 — Walter Van Wagenen, principal of the Woodstock School, has announced that the parent-teacher consultations for this term will probably be held Thursday and Friday. Letters will be sent to parents of school pupils giving the time and dates for the appointments.

Daughters to Meet

Suggestions Sought For P-TA Fund Drive

Woodstock, Jan. 27—Ideas for a fund raising campaign for the Woodstock Parent-Teacher Association are being considered. Suggestions for the annual drive for funds for the P-TA may be sent to Mrs. Thomas Dendy who will present them at a future meeting.

Mrs. Hans J. Cohn will present a slate of new officers at the meeting Thursday, Feb. 5, which will be voted upon at the March meeting of the association.

Village Notes

Woodstock, Jan. 27—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mollenhauer and Mr. and Mrs. William Stelling celebrated their respective wedding anniversaries last Sunday with dinner at the White Horse Inn.

Mrs. Katherine Lehner and Mrs. William Meisten, of New York are visiting with their sisters, Mrs. Stelling and Mrs. Mollenhauer.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Perlmutter gave a surprise party Sunday evening for Erwin Ruff. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. William Hand, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Leshen, Phyllis Smith, Diane Smith and Mrs. Ruff.

PEACEFUL TRANSFER OF POWER

Millions of American citizens had cause to be grateful for the electronic miracles that allowed them a seat at the side of history in the first coast-to-coast telecast of a presidential inauguration.

But the real marvel of that day was not a scientific but a distinctly human triumph. It was the simple inaugural ceremony caught in the lens of the television camera.

This marvel began to unfold when the then still President-elect, Mr. Eisenhower, drove up to the White House steps in a black car just half an hour before his scheduled inaugural. He had come to pick up President Truman.

At the steps, Mr. Eisenhower and his wife, Mamie, climbed out of the car. Mr. Truman and his wife and daughter came briskly out from the White House. Warm, smiling greetings were exchanged. Then Mr. Eisenhower asked: "Shouldn't we be going?"

The womenfolk drifted off to another car. Ike and Mr. Truman got back into the black convertible, smiling and waving, and started down Pennsylvania Avenue to the Capitol. As they rode, there was little talking. But both looked cheerful and relaxed.

Up on Capitol Hill, the two men disappeared inside the Capitol to wait while lesser dignitaries arrived. Then the wondrous moment was at hand, the magic seconds that held all the mystery and majesty and simplicity of the democratic process.

Down the steps to the platform came Mr. Truman, as a band played "Hail to the Chief" in his honor for the last time. Quietly he stepped aside to take a seat to the right of the speaker's lectern. In that unobstrusive act was the whole essence of the laying down of power in America.

The hands of the clock inched forward. Mr. Eisenhower stepped into view with his escort, while a band played "Stars and Stripes Forever." He took a seat to the left. It seemed but an instant until the preliminaries were over and he was on his feet, taking the oath of office from Chief Justice Vinson.

Thirty-six words, uttered in a firm voice edged with emotion, and he had picked up the reins of power laid aside by Mr. Truman so short a time before.

Now he was voicing the prayer he had written for this occasion, and then the new President plunged into his brief address. As he spoke, the old President sat thoughtfully in his chair, here and there applauding, always respectfully attentive.

Then it was ended. Mr. Eisenhower turned, acknowledged congratulations from those on the platform, and walked back up the steps he had come down. As he did, the band struck up once more, playing "Hail to the Chief" for him for the first time.

Mr. Truman, knowing well his time on the stage had gone by, slipped quickly off the platform, almost unnoticed. Down wooden stairs he went to the street, to a waiting closed car and thence out of the turblent current of American government.

What a pity it is that the whole world could not have watched as Americans did. For this graceful, ungrudging, peaceful transfer of power bespeaks perfectly the real meaning of democracy—the right of free men to choose, and to change, their leaders by non-violent processes whose ultimate verdict is accepted by all with good will.

WEIGHTS PERMITTED ON ROADS

The Supervisors' Association of the State has called upon the legislature to strengthen the enforcement of the vehicle and traffic law by setting up a scale of penalties that would take the profit out of overloading, particularly by out-of-state trucks.

The county officials are seeking a sharp reduction in the state's allowable truck loads. They want the state to lower its truck load limit per axle to 18,000 pounds to reduce the damage to the roads. New York currently permits loads as high as 22,400 pounds per axle. This weight limit is higher than the limit set in forty other states.

The supervisors declare that much of the blame for widespread damage and excessive road costs can be attributed to New York's usually liberal truck weight limits.

The cost of road repairs and construction today are the concern of all taxpayers, who want the laws governing weights permitted on the roads and streets of New York strictly enforced. The public's investment in roads and streets is estimated at one and one-half billion dollars.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

A BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

The Eisenhower Administration starts with a Cabinet that includes a number of businessmen of proved ability. The design is for a business administration operated by competent managerial capacity.

However, these businessmen have, none of them, been trained in the political operations which are normal to American life. The difficulties that C. E. Wilson encountered could have been avoided had he prepared himself to meet the type of questioning characteristic of a Congressional committee. The law stands and he should have known it and been adequately prepared to meet it prior to his hearing before the Armed Services Committee. It is often difficult for a man who has managed a super billion dollar concern to realize that once he accepts a government post, he is subordinate to a $12,500 a year member of Congress. If he cannot accept that stipulation, he will fail in whatever he undertakes in public life.

The more effective a man has been in business, the more competent he has been in management, the more difficulties he will face in government. And the reasons are so obvious that it is difficult to understand why the businessmen, who are usually so flexible, do not grasp the psychology of the situation.

Ours is a representative republic, the core of authority being vested in Congress, which gets its power from the Constitution and from the people. It was never intended that Congress should be subordinate to the President or to his Cabinet. The Congress exists and functions by its own right and expects to report back to the people, every two years for a Representative and every six years for a Senator.

Therefore, a member of Congress, in either house, is most concerned with public opinion and those who have had considerable and prolonged tenure in Congress have developed great skill in assessing public reactions. Their major concern is what the reactions to their conduct and their voting record will be in November, 1954.

It is this longer view that controls their present reactions to immediate situations. Whereas the businessman may know about finance and production, the politician is likely to add into that equation the factor of public sentiment. For instance, the law that was passed to prevent dishonorable men from getting government jobs to feather their own nests and strengthen their companies does not apply to Mr. Wilson morally or psychologically, but two years from now, in a campaign, the issue may be that members of the Senate permitted violations of the law in the interest of big business.

Such a campaign argument might be very telling. During the next two years, each of these Cabinet officers and all the other top officials—some 600 of them—will have to appear before Congressional committees to testify in favor of or against legislation, to explain the operations of their departments, to defend policies pursued. This will be a novel experience for many of them. A Congressional committee is not a board of directors. On such committees will be not only the friendly Republicans but the antagonistic Democrats.

The success of this administration will, in a measure, depend upon how effectively these men appear to the public in the circumstances of a Congressional hearing. They will not be protected by expensive counsel and public relations men. They will not be permitted to believe that a good job done is a criterion for courteous consideration. The Democrats will be working to win the campaigns of 1954 and 1956 and the Cabinet members and their associates will have to be very fast on their feet, as it were, to make the grade. There will be no "yes, sir!" attitude in a Congressional committee.

It is an advantage to this country that the top men of management should transfer their services to the government. They can accomplish a great deal in developing efficient and competent administration. They can save the country billions of dollars.

But they will have to learn to adjust their minds from business management to government management, which is altogether different. They are entitled to a grace of time to make such an adjustment. And such an adjustment has to be made if the Eisenhower Administration is to hold its popularity with the people. For even as industry would say "the customer is always right," so, in politics, it is correct to say that the voters have the final say.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

NEGATIVE ATTITUDE TOWARD ELDERLY

One of the great humanitarian results of this war-torn age is the deep interest now being shown, by the medical profession and the public, in the health and happiness of our older folk. For many years we have watched the respect shown to the elderly by races other than our own, but now it can be said that no other peoples are giving as much thought to this matter.

In "Geriatrics," the magazine devoted to research and clinical study of the diseases and processes of aging, Dr. Raphael Ginsberg, director, Gerontological Unit, Mental Health Institute, Cherokee, Iowa, discusses the "negative" attitude toward the elderly.

"By negative attitude we understand an approach based on a feeling and conviction that the elderly are lost causes, that those advanced in age are doomed to regression and degeneration tending to such loss of vitality that they are placed outside any working active social group whether family, tribe or society."

Because the number of elderly in retirement is increasing steadily, community, state and federal agencies are showing more and more interest in the problems and welfare of old people. It is known that a few who are active and creative continue to work and are a part of the community, but for the great majority, active life ends long before their physical abilities have vanished.

"These older people constitute a group of depressed, bitter, easily offended persons who live in a hopelessness which makes life hardly tolerable." Although as a class the elderly are healthier today than at any previous period, they suffer with chronic diseases. These diseases come on slowly and "treacherously." But the diseases themselves do not cause depression of spirits; that results from negative approach of family and others toward them. Dr. Ginsberg points out that during hard times or lack of a "security" feeling, the family may cause the elderly member to feel that he is a burden.

By understanding that this feeling of not being wanted may be hidden by the elderly, it is often present, and accounts for their continued illness and unhappiness, the family can, by showing interest and kindly care when they are ill, lift their morale.

Added to the family reaction, welfare organizations by courteous methods can be of great help to the elderly and to their families.

Afraid of the Plunge

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA)—An organized campaign to secure Republican administration relaxation on anti-trust suit prosecutions is now headed for a showdown in the new Congress.

This campaign has been going on actively for nearly a year. It will probably reach a climax this spring when the American Law Institute meets in Washington. One of the principal topics for consideration will be whether a helpful study can be made by Congress, looking toward a restatement of national policy on anti-trust law.

Business leaders have been critical of what they considered harassment by the Department of Justice Anti-Trust Division, ever since the early days of the New Deal. This criticism was intensified in the last eight months of the Truman administration, when the outgoing attorney general, James P. McGrannery, tried to get the anti-trust docket on a more current basis.

The drive against overzealousness in anti-trust prosecutions may have had its beginnings in an article by Prof. S. Chesterfield Oppenheim in the Michigan University Law Review last June. He urged a re-examination of policy to determine where the government was headed in its enforcement of anti-trust laws. He declared there were overlaps in jurisdiction between Department of Justice and Federal Trade Commission.

Professor Oppenheim suggested that a privately financed "committee on revision" should advise Congress on writing a new anti-trust policy. He suggested that a new statement be written to include three things:

Definite the fundamental ideology of private competitive enterprise under American capitalism. Declare that competition under the anti-trust laws should be "workable competition." Adopt a "rule of reason" as the master yardstick in interpreting anti-trust law.

Oppenheim Proposition

This Oppenheim article was introduced in the proceedings of the American Bar Association in San Francisco last fall. An anti-trust section of the ABA held its first sessions at this convention.

Shortly before, the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce had begun a study of Oppenheim's proposition. The California chamber took it up and tried to get the U. S. Chamber of Commerce to do likewise.

Finally, the Business Advisory Council of the U. S. Department of Commerce in December issued a lengthy report on "effective competition," which was a detailed study of anti-trust law enforcement.

The 19 recommendations in the report included a restatement of the need for new definitions of competition and application of the rule of reason. It also suggested creation of a conference section in Department of Justice where businessmen could get guidance on anti-trust matters in advance of and perhaps in place of costly law suits.

Supporters of the principle of protecting trade and commerce from unfair competition see in all these activities an effort to further limit effective enforcement of the Sherman, Clayton and Federal Trade Commission acts which are the base of anti-trust law.

These acts have already been limited in at least three ways by congressional action in recent years. One is the Bulwinkle bill. It exempts the railroads from anti-trust prosecution for their rate-making conference activities. In December the Department of Justice was forced to abandon a suit against 47 western railroads because of this immunity.

A second limitation is provided through another McCarran act of several years ago. It put a moratorium on prosecution of insurance companies under the anti-trust laws, to the extent that their business was regulated by state law.

A third limitation is provided in the McGuire Act. It amends the so-called fair-trade laws. In effect it prevents price-cutting by retail merchants in states which have price-maintenance laws.

Fear Making Laws Ineffective

It is felt that any further "clarification" of the anti-trust laws might serve to make them totally ineffective.

The Sherman Act states as its purpose the protection of trade and commerce from unfair competition. This has been taken as the essence of the free enterprise system. When it is destroyed or modified by "workable" competition or "rules of reason" the danger is that it will license monopoly, minimum price-fixing and all the other evils usually identified with state socialism.

It is generally forgotten that the Sherman, Clayton and Federal Trade Acts were all passed in Republican administrations. Forty-four anti-trust suits were begun in the administration of Theodore Roosevelt, often considered the original "trust buster."

But 78 anti-trust suits were initiated in the presidency of William Howard Taft. Later, when Taft was chief justice of the U.S., some of his opinions became classic statements of anti-trust law philosophy.

The outgoing Truman administration and particularly Attorney General McGrannery, who ran his anti-trust division without a duly-appointed head, has now laid in the GOP lap a basketful of nearly 140 anti-trust suits. Some of them may be bad. But for the new attorney general, Herbert Brownell, to abandon them all might be considered a retreat from what used to be considered sound and conservative Republican policy.

Ripley's Believe It or Not!

The First Real Estate Record!

In Babylon there is a four-sided obelisk which acts as an abstract of title for four different properties, or fields as they were called then. It was erected in about 3,000 B.C. which was some time after the invasion of Babylon by the Asiatics. This obelisk is located on what we would call a section corner. On the four sides are written 69 columns of heiroglyphics giving the ownership, his antecedents, the dimensions of each tract, together with the amount paid. It was known as the obelisk of Manishtusu, discovered in the excavations of M. de Morgan, a Frenchman, in 1897.

Stopping of Monopolistic Practices Is Seen as Big Chance for Eisenhower Administration

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 27—What is the biggest opportunity that the administration of President Eisenhower may have to improve the economic welfare of the United States?

This question is being asked as members of the new regime prepare to fulfill the pledge of the campaign to give the country a better administration than before.

The answer lies in a simple pronouncement of policy—to stop the monopolistic practices which have prevented real competition in America.

For the New Deal and Fair Deal of the last 21 years have done more to foster monopoly and prevent the growth of smaller businesses, and thus to aid so-called "big business" to bigger gains, than all the Republican administrations in history.

An examination of the effects of the present tax laws will reveal the manner in which business of intermediate size have been stunted in growth or strangled while the larger businesses have been favored.

An examination also of the alliance between "big business" and "big labor" will reveal how the rates of wages paid by the largest companies have been imposed on the smaller companies and how many of the latter have been driven to sell or quit the battle as a result of such wage rates.

The New Deal and Fair Deal have rendered lip service to "small business," but their concept of "small business" ranged from $25,000 to $100,000-a-year volume of receipts. Today "small business" is the company which does a business of somewhere between $1,000,000 and $5,000,000, while "big business" is the class in which $50,000,000 to $1,000,000,000 or more a year is the gross income. These larger companies are allowed all sorts of privileges by way of a "tax base," while the smaller businesses actually pay a higher percentage of their net income in taxes than do the truly big businesses.

The big businesses today can readily float their loans or their stock issues by public financing. The smaller businesses, however, must get the money out of their yearly earnings, and the net income they have left after taxes is too small to give them any opportunity for anything except the slowest rate of expansion.

Any study of the operations of smaller business—the companies in the $1,000,000 to $10,000,000 range of receipts, as contrasted with what is really "big business," from $5,000,000 to a billion dollars a year—would show the handicaps under which the smaller enterprises try to operate.

It is labor costs, however, which are the death-dealing items in the economic structure. The nation-wide bargaining system, whether conducted by one union across the country or by local unions governed strictly by the instructions of a national union, brings about higher and higher costs everywhere, regardless of the differences in living costs, rents and other items.

An investigation of the economic effects of New Deal and Fair Deal legislation as it has cut down opportunity in America and given the big businesses a higher percentage of the volume of sales in particular industries would also be very revealing.

The Democratic administration has sought to give the impression that it has had the interests of the smaller companies at heart when it investigated what it called "oligopoly"—a situation in which not one but three or four companies did a preponderant share of the business in any industry. What was rarely examined was the situation that kept the smaller businesses from ever being able to compete with the "Big Four" or the "Big Three" in any industry due to lack of capital and the small additions annually to surplus caused by the heavy tax drain.

The record reads as if there has been a conspiracy in progress aided by the Democratic administration to prevent smaller businesses from becoming real competitors with large ones. The CIO for example, which has been the biggest single political influence in the New Deal and Fair Deal was largely responsible for the passage of the excess-profits-tax law which permitted big businesses actually to pay a lower percentage of taxes than smaller businesses. This abuse of the principle of "capacity to pay" in taxation was fostered by timid members of Congress who feared to stand up against the demagoguery of the words "excess profits." This law is scheduled to expire next July but, unless smaller businesses get the right in a new tax law to reinvest their earnings and to take substantial deductions for capital investment in new plant and equipment, the days of business competition will be numbered in America.

President Eisenhower has a chance to increase the payroll in the smaller cities and towns and actually to enable them to meet the equivalent of the wage rates of larger companies by reason of the lower cost of living in the country areas—but this cannot be accomplished if New York's scale of wages has to be paid by small companies located far away from the metropolis. It's an interesting opportunity for the new administration—not to penalize big business but to give small business a better chance to finance itself and become a effective competitor.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Washington, Jan. 26—I am going to start fresh and try being patient with President Eisenhower and kind to him. Instead of tearing into him on a proposition which he stated in his inaugural speech, I am going to explain the bitter fallacy of it.

President Eisenhower said: "We have a right to the reward of our own toil."

Now somebody (an anonymous rewrite man for Henry Luce's magazines, I understand) put those words on paper and Ike fell for them. They sound real nice, but they aren't true.

The people of the United States have absolutely no right to any portion of the reward of their own toil. That is a terrible thing to have to say. But no man can deny a word of it.

Our right to the reward of our own toil was absolutely revoked by the sixteenth amendment, the income tax amendment. A few wise objectors of the day said, "wait a minute. Let us put a ceiling on this income tax because otherwise we surrender to Congress the right to take every last dollar of all the earnings of all the people and all industry and even the churches. Congress can take it all."

But the advocates of the income tax said the time would never come when Congress would take more than 10 per cent of any person's income. So they refused to put any limitation into the proposed amendment. The barefoot and blue-jeaned states acclaimed it because it would make the city dudes of New York and Chicago and them swells at Newport and Bar Harbor give up some of their ill-gotten wealth for distribution among the poor folks.

When Ike said, "we have a right to the reward of our own toil" he showed a blank ignorance of one of the worst facts of life in our distorted republic today. As a matter of right we have no claim on a single five cent piece of our earnings for the entire year. Any year. Congress lets us keep a little of it, but not as a matter of right. That is generosity by Congress toward the people.

This amendment changed the fundamental relationship between the people and Congress. Originally, the people were sovereign and Congress was our representative and servant. But when that simple little passage was slipped into the Constitution Congress became the master and it has been a pathetic absurdity ever since to speak of ours as a government "of the people by the people." Since Roosevelt's war it has been equally silly to speak of ours as a government "for" the people, if you mean by that only the people of the United States.

In the days before the 16th Congress had to raise money by little taxes. But since then, Congress decides arbitrarily and extravagantly to spend billions and then takes it away from us with a threat of prison for concealment of income or "fraudulent" statements. No other duty of citizenship is supported by such fearsome power. Al Capone got 11 years in prison for not reporting income. True, he was reputed to be guilty of a lot of murders and other crimes, but we didn't even try him for those other things. We tried him for deceit in his tax returns and not only sent him to prison for 11 years but made him spend most of the time on Alcatraz which is about to be abandoned because, for one reason, the regime and the situation represent vindictive cruelty.

It should not be necessary to argue the obvious fact that a people who have abandoned all right to the fruit of their toil have surrendered themselves into slavery. And slavery is not a government of the people. If there is any comfort in the fact that the people elect Congress it still does not affect the fact that we are slaves of Congress.

When we speak of ours as a government "for" the people, we have to include many people of Europe and other parts of the world. Our government takes the rewards of

PEACEFUL TRANSFER OF POWER

Millions of American citizens had cause to be grateful for the electronic miracles that allowed them a seat at the side of history in the first coast-to-coast telecast of a presidential inauguration.

But the real marvel of that day was not a scientific but a distinctly human triumph. It was the simple inaugural ceremony caught in the lens of the television camera.

This marvel began to unfold when the then still President-elect, Mr. Eisenhower, drove up to the White House steps in a black car just half an hour before his scheduled inaugural. He had come to pick up President Truman.

At the steps, Mr. Eisenhower and his wife, Mamie, climbed out of the car. Mr. Truman and his wife and daughter came briskly out from the White House. Warm, smiling greetings were exchanged. Then Mr. Eisenhower asked: "Shouldn't we be going?"

The womenfolk drifted off to another car. Ike and Mr. Truman got back into the black convertible, smiling and waving, and started down Pennsylvania Avenue to the Capitol. As they rode, there was little talking. But both looked cheerful and relaxed.

Up on Capitol Hill, the two men disappeared inside the Capitol to wait while lesser dignitaries arrived. Then the wondrous moment was at hand, the magic seconds that held all the mystery and majesty and simplicity of the democratic process.

Down the steps to the platform came Mr. Truman, as a band played "Hail to the Chief" in his honor for the last time. Quietly he stepped aside to take a seat to the right of the speaker's lectern. In that unobstrusive act was the whole essence of the laying down of power in America.

The hands of the clock inched forward. Mr. Eisenhower stepped into view with his escort, while a band played "Stars and Stripes Forever." He took a seat to the left. It seemed but an instant until the preliminaries were over and he was on his feet, taking the oath of office from Chief Justice Vinson.

Thirty-six words, uttered in a firm voice edged with emotion, and he had picked up the reins of power laid aside by Mr. Truman so short a time before.

Now he was voicing the prayer he had written for this occasion, and then the new President plunged into his brief address. As he spoke, the old President sat thoughtfully in his chair, here and there applauding, always respectfully attentive.

Then it was ended. Mr. Eisenhower turned, acknowledged congratulations from those on the platform, and walked back up the steps he had come down. As he did, the band struck up once more, playing "Hail to the Chief" for him for the first time.

Mr. Truman, knowing well his time on the stage had gone by, slipped quickly off the platform, almost unnoticed. Down wooden stairs he went to the street, to a waiting closed car and thence out of the turblent current of American government.

What a pity it is that the whole world could not have watched as Americans did. For this graceful, ungrudging, peaceful transfer of power bespeaks perfectly the real meaning of democracy—the right of free men to choose, and to change, their leaders by non-violent processes whose ultimate verdict is accepted by all with good will.

WEIGHTS PERMITTED ON ROADS

The Supervisors' Association of the State has called upon the legislature to strengthen the enforcement of the vehicle and traffic law by setting up a scale of penalties that would take the profit out of overloading, particularly by out-of-state trucks.

The county officials are seeking a sharp reduction in the state's allowable truck loads. They want the state to lower its truck load limit per axle to 18,000 pounds to reduce the damage to the roads. New York currently permits loads as high as 22,400 pounds per axle. This weight limit is higher than the limit set in forty other states.

The supervisors declare that much of the blame for widespread damage and excessive road costs can be attributed to New York's usually liberal truck weight limits.

The cost of road repairs and construction today are the concern of all taxpayers, who want the laws governing weights permitted on the roads and streets of New York strictly enforced. The public's investment in roads and streets is estimated at one and one-half billion dollars.

'These Days'

A BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

The Eisenhower Administration starts with a Cabinet that includes a number of businessmen of proved ability. The design is for a business administration operated by competent managerial capacity.

However, these businessmen have, none of them, been trained in the political operations which are normal to American life. The difficulties that C. E. Wilson encountered could have been avoided had he prepared himself to meet the type of questioning characteristic of a Congressional committee. The law stands and he should have known it and been adequately prepared to meet it prior to his hearing before the Armed Services Committee. It is often difficult for a man who has managed a super billion dollar concern to realize that once he accepts a government post, he is subordinate to a $12,500 a year member of Congress. If he cannot accept that stipulation, he will fail in whatever he undertakes in public life.

The more effective a man has been in business, the more competent he has been in management, the more difficulties he will face in government. And the reasons are so obvious that it is difficult to understand why the businessmen, who are usually so flexible, do not grasp the psychology of the situation.

Ours is a representative republic, the core of authority being vested in Congress, which gets its power from the Constitution and from the people. It was never intended that Congress should be subordinate to the President or to his Cabinet. The Congress exists and functions by its own right and expects to report back to the people, every two years for a Representative and every six years for a Senator.

Therefore, a member of Congress, in either house, is most concerned with public opinion and those who have had considerable and prolonged tenure in Congress have developed great skill in assessing public reactions. Their major concern is what the reactions to their conduct and their voting record will be in November, 1954.

It is this longer view that controls their present reactions to immediate situations. Whereas the businessman may know about finance and production, the politician is likely to add into that equation the factor of public sentiment. For instance, the law that was passed to prevent dishonorable men from getting government jobs to feather their own nests and strengthen their companies does not apply to Mr. Wilson morally or psychologically, but two years from now, in a campaign, the issue may be that members of the Senate permitted violations of the law in the interest of big business.

Such a campaign argument might be very telling. During the next two years, each of these Cabinet officers and all the other top officials—some 600 of them—will have to appear before Congressional committees to testify in favor of or against legislation, to explain the operations of their departments, to defend policies pursued. This will be a novel experience for many of them. A Congressional committee is not a board of directors. On such committees will be not only the friendly Republicans but the antagonistic Democrats.

The success of this administration will, in a measure, depend upon how effectively these men appear to the public in the circumstances of a Congressional hearing. They will not be protected by expensive counsel and public relations men. They will not be permitted to believe that a good job done is a criterion for courteous consideration. The Democrats will be working to win the campaigns of 1954 and 1956 and the Cabinet members and their associates will have to be very fast on their feet, as it were, to make the grade. There will be no "yes, sir!" attitude in a Congressional committee.

It is an advantage to this country that the top men of management should transfer their services to the government. They can accomplish a great deal in developing efficient and competent administration. They can save the country billions of dollars.

But they will have to learn to adjust their minds from business management to government management, which is altogether different. They are entitled to a grace of time to make such an adjustment. And such an adjustment has to be made if the Eisenhower Administration is to hold its popularity with the people. For even as industry would say "the customer is always right," so, in politics, it is correct to say that the voters have the final say.

That Body of Yours

NEGATIVE ATTITUDE TOWARD ELDERLY

One of the great humanitarian results of this war-torn age is the deep interest now being shown, by the medical profession and the public, in the health and happiness of our older folk. For many years we have watched the respect shown to the elderly by races other than our own, but now it can be said that no other peoples are giving as much thought to this matter.

In "Geriatrics," the magazine devoted to research and clinical study of the diseases and processes of aging, Dr. Raphael Ginsberg, director, Gerontological Unit, Mental Health Institute, Cherokee, Iowa, discusses the "negative" attitude toward the elderly.

"By negative attitude we understand an approach based on a feeling and conviction that the elderly are lost causes, that those advanced in age are doomed to regression and degeneration tending to such loss of vitality that they are placed outside any working active social group whether family, tribe or society."

Because the number of elderly in retirement is increasing steadily, community, state and federal agencies are showing more and more interest in the problems and welfare of old people. It is known that a few who are active and creative continue to work and are a part of the community, but for the great majority, active life ends long before their physical abilities have vanished.

"These older people constitute a group of depressed, bitter, easily offended persons who live in a hopelessness which makes life hardly tolerable." Although as a class the elderly are healthier today than at any previous period, they suffer with chronic diseases. These diseases come on slowly and "treacherously." But the diseases themselves do not cause depression of spirits; that results from negative approach of family and others toward them. Dr. Ginsberg points out that during hard times or lack of a "security" feeling, the family may cause the elderly member to feel that he is a burden.

By understanding that this feeling of not being wanted may be hidden by the elderly, it is often present, and accounts for their continued illness and unhappiness, the family can, by showing interest and kindly care when they are ill, lift their morale.

Added to the family reaction, welfare organizations by courteous methods can be of great help to the elderly and to their families.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA)—An organized campaign to secure Republican administration relaxation on anti-trust suit prosecutions is now headed for a showdown in the new Congress.

This campaign has been going on actively for nearly a year. It will probably reach a climax this spring when the American Law Institute meets in Washington. One of the principal topics for consideration will be whether a helpful study can be made by Congress, looking toward a restatement of national policy on anti-trust law.

Business leaders have been critical of what they considered harassment by the Department of Justice Anti-Trust Division, ever since the early days of the New Deal. This criticism was intensified in the last eight months of the Truman administration, when the outgoing attorney general, James P. McGrannery, tried to get the anti-trust docket on a more current basis.

The drive against overzealousness in anti-trust prosecutions may have had its beginnings in an article by Prof. S. Chesterfield Oppenheim in the Michigan University Law Review last June. He urged a re-examination of policy to determine where the government was headed in its enforcement of anti-trust laws. He declared there were overlaps in jurisdiction between Department of Justice and Federal Trade Commission.

Professor Oppenheim suggested that a privately financed "committee on revision" should advise Congress on writing a new anti-trust policy. He suggested that a new statement be written to include three things:

Definite the fundamental ideology of private competitive enterprise under American capitalism. Declare that competition under the anti-trust laws should be "workable competition." Adopt a "rule of reason" as the master yardstick in interpreting anti-trust law.

Oppenheim Proposition

This Oppenheim article was introduced in the proceedings of the American Bar Association in San Francisco last fall. An anti-trust section of the ABA held its first sessions at this convention.

Shortly before, the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce had begun a study of Oppenheim's proposition. The California chamber took it up and tried to get the U. S. Chamber of Commerce to do likewise.

Finally, the Business Advisory Council of the U. S. Department of Commerce in December issued a lengthy report on "effective competition," which was a detailed study of anti-trust law enforcement.

The 19 recommendations in the report included a restatement of the need for new definitions of competition and application of the rule of reason. It also suggested creation of a conference section in Department of Justice where businessmen could get guidance on anti-trust matters in advance of and perhaps in place of costly law suits.

Supporters of the principle of protecting trade and commerce from unfair competition see in all these activities an effort to further limit effective enforcement of the Sherman, Clayton and Federal Trade Commission acts which are the base of anti-trust law.

These acts have already been limited in at least three ways by congressional action in recent years. One is the Bulwinkle bill. It exempts the railroads from anti-trust prosecution for their rate-making conference activities. In December the Department of Justice was forced to abandon a suit against 47 western railroads because of this immunity.

A second limitation is provided through another McCarran act of several years ago. It put a moratorium on prosecution of insurance companies under the anti-trust laws, to the extent that their business was regulated by state law.

A third limitation is provided in the McGuire Act. It amends the so-called fair-trade laws. In effect it prevents price-cutting by retail merchants in states which have price-maintenance laws.

Fear Making Laws Ineffective

It is felt that any further "clarification" of the anti-trust laws might serve to make them totally ineffective.

The Sherman Act states as its purpose the protection of trade and commerce from unfair competition. This has been taken as the essence of the free enterprise system. When it is destroyed or modified by "workable" competition or "rules of reason" the danger is that it will license monopoly, minimum price-fixing and all the other evils usually identified with state socialism.

It is generally forgotten that the Sherman, Clayton and Federal Trade Acts were all passed in Republican administrations. Forty-four anti-trust suits were begun in the administration of Theodore Roosevelt, often considered the original "trust buster."

But 78 anti-trust suits were initiated in the presidency of William Howard Taft. Later, when Taft was chief justice of the U.S., some of his opinions became classic statements of anti-trust law philosophy.

The outgoing Truman administration and particularly Attorney General McGrannery, who ran his anti-trust division without a duly-appointed head, has now laid in the GOP lap a basketful of nearly 140 anti-trust suits. Some of them may be bad. But for the new attorney general, Herbert Brownell, to abandon them all might be considered a retreat from what used to be considered sound and conservative Republican policy.

Stopping of Monopolistic Practices Is Seen as Big Chance for Eisenhower Administration

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 27—What is the biggest opportunity that the administration of President Eisenhower may have to improve the economic welfare of the United States?

This question is being asked as members of the new regime prepare to fulfill the pledge of the campaign to give the country a better administration than before.

The answer lies in a simple pronouncement of policy—to stop the monopolistic practices which have prevented real competition in America.

For the New Deal and Fair Deal of the last 21 years have done more to foster monopoly and prevent the growth of smaller businesses, and thus to aid so-called "big business" to bigger gains, than all the Republican administrations in history.

An examination of the effects of the present tax laws will reveal the manner in which business of intermediate size have been stunted in growth or strangled while the larger businesses have been favored.

An examination also of the alliance between "big business" and "big labor" will reveal how the rates of wages paid by the largest companies have been imposed on the smaller companies and how many of the latter have been driven to sell or quit the battle as a result of such wage rates.

The New Deal and Fair Deal have rendered lip service to "small business," but their concept of "small business" ranged from $25,000 to $100,000-a-year volume of receipts. Today "small business" is the company which does a business of somewhere between $1,000,000 and $5,000,000, while "big business" is the class in which $50,000,000 to $1,000,000,000 or more a year is the gross income. These larger companies are allowed all sorts of privileges by way of a "tax base," while the smaller businesses actually pay a higher percentage of their net income in taxes than do the truly big businesses.

The big businesses today can readily float their loans or their stock issues by public financing. The smaller businesses, however, must get the money out of their yearly earnings, and the net income they have left after taxes is too small to give them any opportunity for anything except the slowest rate of expansion.

Any study of the operations of smaller business—the companies in the $1,000,000 to $10,000,000 range of receipts, as contrasted with what is really "big business," from $5,000,000 to a billion dollars a year—would show the handicaps under which the smaller enterprises try to operate.

It is labor costs, however, which are the death-dealing items in the economic structure. The nation-wide bargaining system, whether conducted by one union across the country or by local unions governed strictly by the instructions of a national union, brings about higher and higher costs everywhere, regardless of the differences in living costs, rents and other items.

An investigation of the economic effects of New Deal and Fair Deal legislation as it has cut down opportunity in America and given the big businesses a higher percentage of the volume of sales in particular industries would also be very revealing.

The Democratic administration has sought to give the impression that it has had the interests of the smaller companies at heart when it investigated what it called "oligopoly"—a situation in which not one but three or four companies did a preponderant share of the business in any industry. What was rarely examined was the situation that kept the smaller businesses from ever being able to compete with the "Big Four" or the "Big Three" in any industry due to lack of capital and the small additions annually to surplus caused by the heavy tax drain.

The record reads as if there has been a conspiracy in progress aided by the Democratic administration to prevent smaller businesses from becoming real competitors with large ones. The CIO for example, which has been the biggest single political influence in the New Deal and Fair Deal was largely responsible for the passage of the excess-profits-tax law which permitted big businesses actually to pay a lower percentage of taxes than smaller businesses. This abuse of the principle of "capacity to pay" in taxation was fostered by timid members of Congress who feared to stand up against the demagoguery of the words "excess profits." This law is scheduled to expire next July but, unless smaller businesses get the right in a new tax law to reinvest their earnings and to take substantial deductions for capital investment in new plant and equipment, the days of business competition will be numbered in America.

President Eisenhower has a chance to increase the payroll in the smaller cities and towns and actually to enable them to meet the equivalent of the wage rates of larger companies by reason of the lower cost of living in the country areas—but this cannot be accomplished if New York's scale of wages has to be paid by small companies located far away from the metropolis. It's an interesting opportunity for the new administration—not to penalize big business but to give small business a better chance to finance itself and become a effective competitor.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Washington, Jan. 26—I am going to start fresh and try being patient with President Eisenhower and kind to him. Instead of tearing into him on a proposition which he stated in his inaugural speech, I am going to explain the bitter fallacy of it.

President Eisenhower said: "We have a right to the reward of our own toil."

Now somebody (an anonymous rewrite man for Henry Luce's magazines, I understand) put those words on paper and Ike fell for them. They sound real nice, but they aren't true.

The people of the United States have absolutely no right to any portion of the reward of their own toil. That is a terrible thing to have to say. But no man can deny a word of it.

Our right to the reward of our own toil was absolutely revoked by the sixteenth amendment, the income tax amendment. A few wise objectors of the day said, "wait a minute. Let us put a ceiling on this income tax because otherwise we surrender to Congress the right to take every last dollar of all the earnings of all the people and all industry and even the churches. Congress can take it all."

But the advocates of the income tax said the time would never come when Congress would take more than 10 per cent of any person's income. So they refused to put any limitation into the proposed amendment. The barefoot and blue-jeaned states acclaimed it because it would make the city dudes of New York and Chicago and them swells at Newport and Bar Harbor give up some of their ill-gotten wealth for distribution among the poor folks.

When Ike said, "we have a right to the reward of our own toil" he showed a blank ignorance of one of the worst facts of life in our distorted republic today. As a matter of right we have no claim on a single five cent piece of our earnings for the entire year. Any year. Congress lets us keep a little of it, but not as a matter of right. That is generosity by Congress toward the people.

This amendment changed the fundamental relationship between the people and Congress. Originally, the people were sovereign and Congress was our representative and servant. But when that simple little passage was slipped into the Constitution Congress became the master and it has been a pathetic absurdity ever since to speak of ours as a government "of the people by the people." Since Roosevelt's war it has been equally silly to speak of ours as a government "for" the people, if you mean by that only the people of the United States.

In the days before the 16th Congress had to raise money by little taxes. But since then, Congress decides arbitrarily and extravagantly to spend billions and then takes it away from us with a threat of prison for concealment of income or "fraudulent" statements. No other duty of citizenship is supported by such fearsome power. Al Capone got 11 years in prison for not reporting income. True, he was reputed to be guilty of a lot of murders and other crimes, but we didn't even try him for those other things. We tried him for deceit in his tax returns and not only sent him to prison for 11 years but made him spend most of the time on Alcatraz which is about to be abandoned because, for one reason, the regime and the situation represent vindictive cruelty.

It should not be necessary to argue the obvious fact that a people who have abandoned all right to the fruit of their toil have surrendered themselves into slavery. And slavery is not a government of the people. If there is any comfort in the fact that the people elect Congress it still does not affect the fact that we are slaves of Congress.

When we speak of ours as a government "for" the people, we have to include many people of Europe and other parts of the world. Our government takes the rewards of

Three Men Held On Damage Charge

New York, Jan. 27 (AP)—Three men who described themselves as union officials were arrested in their homes late last night after the owner of a lower east side pickle works complained they had broken into the premises and damaged this property, police reported.

The three, who denied the accusations of Sam Rosen, owner of the French Pickle Works, at 365 Cherry street, were charged with burglary and malicious mischief.

They are David Lustigman, 35, Al Pfeffer, 40, both of Laurelton, Queens; and Milton Pillinger, 37, of Manhattan. They were taken into custody by Detective Isidore Schlerer.

Rosen told police he saw the three drive off in an automobile from in front of his plant at 9 p. m. last night as he approached the one-story building.

Works Broken Into

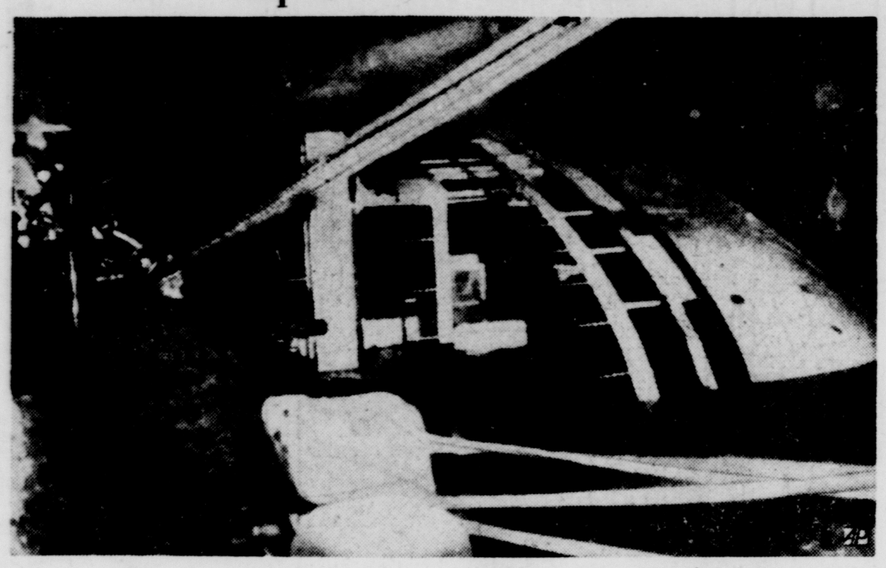

Rosen said he found that the works had been broken into, vats had been overturned and bottles broken, police said. In the rear of the building, Rosen reported that two trucks had been damaged, their windows smashed, and that sugar had been placed in the gasoline tanks.

Rosen told police the trio recently had made attempts to have him join an association. Pickets had been placed in front of his establishment last week, he said.

The three suspects denied inflicting the damage and said they had not been at the pickle works last night. They did not give the name of their union, police said.

Capsized Liner After Blaze

The Canadian ocean liner Empress of Canada lies on her side, a smoldering ruin, after a raging fire which left her a total wreck at her Liverpool, England, berth early Jan. 26. Firemen stand by at left after a hopeless eight-hour battle to save the liner. The fire, of undetermined origin, broke out while the ship was undergoing her annual overhaul at the British port. Suspended Man Is Found Dead

New York, Jan. 27 (AP)—Capt. John M. Bou, one of the 30 suspended policemen accused in the Harry Gross bookmaking graft scandal, was found dead early today in his home garage.

Staten Island police said he apparently died of carbon monoxide poisoning. Detectives were assigned to investigate.

The body was found by his wife, Ann, at 5:50 a. m.

Bou, formerly in command of a Staten Island precinct, was suspended Jan. 20, 1952.

A departmental trial of Bou and the other suspended policemen accused of sharing in graft paid by Gross ended last Tuesday before Deputy Police Commissioner James A. Delahanty. Delahanty said at that time he expected to make his recommendations to Police Commissioner George P. Monaghan within two weeks.

The suspended officers, if found guilty, could be fired from the force and lose their pension rights.

Allegedly Paid Million

Gross allegedly paid one million dollars a year graft for protection of his gambling business, which had a handle estimated at 20 million dollars a year.

He has served two years of a 12-year sentence for bookmaking and conspiracy.

Gross, a star prosecution witness at the departmental trial, testified about Bou: "I paid him about 20 times. I paid him about $100 a month."

Bou denied taking money from Gross "or any one else." He said he tried to arrest Gross on numerous occasions, but could not find necessary evidence.

Wicks Says Tax On Betting Invalid

Albany, Jan. 27 (AP)—Local taxes on pari-mutuel betting on thoroughbred horse races in Queens, Nassau and Saratoga counties are unconstitutional, Republican leader Arthur H. Wicks of the Senate contends.

Wicks assailed the local levies last night on the Senate floor, as he rejected a demand by Sen. Louis Friedman, Brooklyn Democrat, that the Legislature restore the power of localities to levy a 5 per cent tax on such betting.

The local taxing power was cut to 4 per cent last year, and will be cut to 3 per cent this season. The reduction will continue each year until the authority expires in 1955.

Wicks argued that the Legislature, in approving the pari-mutuel bill 12 years ago, had intended that the taxing power be reserved exclusively to the state.

Friedman said the 5 per cent rate brought New York city about 13 million dollars a year, and that the hard-pressed city needed the revenue to help balance its budget.

Blast Riddles Pipe

Gerry, Jan. 27 (AP)—An explosion in a natural gas well yesterday blew 246 feet of six inch iron pipe high in the air and into a dozen pieces, but nobody was hurt. The pieces plunged 10 feet into the earth as they fell. One struck a utility pole, knocking it down. Another snapped a high tension power line, cutting off power for an hour and a half in this Chautauqua county community. Warren Langworthy, who was supervising a crew of five men drilling the 600 feet deep well on his property, said the immediate cause of the explosion had not been determined.

Pope Is Much Better

Vatican City, Jan. 27 (AP)—Pope Pius XII was reported "much improved today from the attack of influenza and bronchial pneumonia which has kept him in bed since last Thursday. The 76-year-old pontiff's temperature "has gone down to normal," his doctor reported. There still was no indication when he would be able to leave his apartment or resume his duties. The Pope's condition over the weekend had caused grave concern in the Vatican.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

With the Inauguration of a President of the United States and a Coronation of a Queen in England the best historical writers are bringing forth bits of historical data which are very interesting. In the January Coronet there is a page devoted to The Presidential Touch. Some of the best humorous stories are given on various presidents. Following on George Washington: "He was one of our thriftiest Presidents. There is a yellowed requisition slip calling for one chain for a navy shop. Across the paper, faded but still legible, appear the words: "Approved, but cannot something be realized from the old chain? G. Washington." Perhaps some of that spirit will come back to the White House now.

Another story reads: "Ex-President Grover Cleveland leased his Princeton home and took his lovely wife on a trip. Finally a letter from the lessee caught up with the travelers. There was, it said, water in the basement. Immediately Cleveland sent an answering cable to his harassed tenant, "What do you expect? Champagne?"

During the recent stage tour of the play Apple of His Eye, Edward Arnold, the famous movie star, attended a White House reception and ex-President Truman asked him how the show was going. Arnold reported that everything was fine except for nasty notices by a couple of movie critics. The President smiled as he said: "Would you like me to write them a letter?"

One day, Calvin Coolidge lay down for a nap in the executive offices of the White House. It was one of those busy days when important visitors and matters of state piled up while the President slept peacefully on, past the time he should have been back at work. His secretary tiptoed in anxiously several times, but each time hesitated to awaken the chief. At length, Mr. Coolidge awakened, and seeing the concern in his secretary's face asked, "Is the country still here?"

The late Franklin D. Roosevelt practiced a psychological trick of his own on visitors. Passing through the crowded reception room on the way to his own office, FDR would pause long enough to tell an old but clever joke. He would then make a mental note of those who laughed uproariously and those who merely smiled politely and impatiently. The laughers, he once explained to a friend, were there to seek favors—the others were there on business, which should be attended to first.

The February Pageant, not to be outdone has several pages devoted to The Fifteen Ladies At Ike's New House. Reproductions of paintings of the "first ladies" of the land are shown with a few words about them. It was arranged by Hazel Markel, Washington correspondent. Mamie Eisenhower's portrait which will have its place of honor was painted by her husband, President Eisenhower. The reproductions are excellent of the paintings which hang in the Executive Mansion, but why aren't the names of the artists given. Perhaps one was painted by our own Kingston born Vanderlyn. The one of Mrs. Andrew Jackson, Jr., looks so much like the work of Vanderlyn. History says that Vanderlyn painted several presidential portraits, but so far I do not know about wives of Presidents. Who knows.

Why We Say--

. . . Center of an arch

We call someone in an important position a "keystone" in allusion to the center stone of an arch which acts to wedge the entire arch in position. Without the keystone the arch will collapse. The state of Pennsylvania is called the "Keystone State" because it was in the center of the 13 original states.

As Pegler Sees It

our toil from us, under threat of prison for monkey-business, and spends it all over the globe, except in Russia, and the lesser Iron-Curtain countries.

What can anyone say for the proposition that we should be willing to toil and give up the "reward" of that toil so that the people of France, for example, may go untaxed or, anyway, go free of income-tax? We may go to prison for trying to evade payment of taxes for the comfort and support of Frenchmen.

I think it would have been better for General Eisenhower's understanding if he had not taken the benefit of a technicality in the tax on the profits from his war memoirs. This book brought him about half a million dollars. He was allowed to declare his receipts as a "capital gain." The rate of tax on a "capital gain" is only 25 per cent and the total tax was hundreds of thousands of dollars below that which he would have had to pay on the same amount of money classed as "income."

If Ike had said: "We should have a right ——" that would have been better. And if he had pursued that theme to say, "and I recommend that our right to the reward of our labor shall be restored to us" then he would have been talking.

Judge Warns Men Against Four Types

Penzance, Cornwall, Eng., Jan. 27 (AP)—Judge J. Scobell Armstrong, 75-year-old divorce court veteran, warned men last night against four kinds of women:

1—Cats. "Let him see whether her eyes are warm, bright and kind, or whether they are catty. If they are catty, let him sheer off."

2—Saintly women. "Saints are wonderful, but rather difficult for sinners to live with."

3—The fun-mad type. "The wife who is always wanting you to go to dances, however tired you are, can be very trying."

4—Stupid women. "Marriage with a fool, however sweet and lovely she may be, is a drab affair for the cleverer partner—and she will give him stupid children."

Judge Armstrong delivered this distillation of his long experience to members of the Church of England Men's Society here.

His qualifications?

"I have put asunder between 1,000 and 1,500 couples."

Beware of 1953! Warn Great Prophecies of the World

A strange man in Los Angeles, known as "The Voice of Two Worlds," is offering, free of charge to the public, an astounding 64 page book analyzing the great world prophecies covering these times. It shows that four of the greatest prophecies could not come true until the present time. But now they can, and world-shaking events are due. He believes everyone should prepare at once for the fateful crisis. Thus many people will avoid catastrophe.

"The Voice of Two Worlds," a well known explorer and geographer, tells of a remarkable system that often leads to almost unbelievable improvement in power of mind, achievement of brilliant business and professional success and new happiness. Others tell of increased bodily strength, magnetic personality, courage and poise.

These strange methods were found in far-off and mysterious Tibet, often called the land of miracles by the few travelers permitted to visit it. He discloses how he learned rare wisdom and long hidden practices, closely guarded for three thousand years by the sages, which enabled many to perform amazing feats. He maintains that these immense powers are latent in all of us, and that methods for using them are now simplified so that they can be used by almost any person with ordinary intelligence.

The 64 page book he is now offering free to the public offers guidance for those who wisely wish to prepare themselves and their affairs for the great crisis ahead. It gives details of what to anticipate, and when. Those who do pull through will have little to fear, because a glorious era will follow. Meantime, it says "Beware of These Days!"

The book formerly sold for a dollar, but as long as the present supply lasts, it is offered free to readers of this notice. This liberal offer is made because he expects that many readers will later become interested in the entire system of mind power he learned in the Far East and which is now ready to be disclosed to the western world.

For your free copy of the astonishing prophecies covering these momentous times, as reveled in this 64 page book, address the Institute of Mentalphysics, 213 South Hobart Blvd., Dept. F-123, Los Angeles 4, Calif. Send no money. Just your name and address on a postcard or in an envelope will do. No obligation. Readers are urged to write promptly, as only a limited number of the free books have been printed.

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Every experienced bridge player has heard the rule "Lead up to weakness" but only a very fine player knows when to break the rule. In today's hand, Leo J. Seewald, president of the Minnesota Unit of the American Contract Bridge League, properly broke the rule in a practice session for the big winter tournament scheduled to be held in St. Paul Feb. 6-8.

West opened the five of clubs, and Seewald, who sat East, won with the ace. When South dropped the king, East did a little careful planning.

Obviously there was going to be only one club trick for the defenders. Three additional tricks were needed to set four spades—and it was hard to see where those three tricks were going to come from.

If West had two defensive tricks, well and good. But there was a way to set the contract if West had only one defensive trick—provided he also held the queen of hearts. So Seewald returned the five of hearts right up to dummy's strength!

Declarer played the seven of hearts, West put up the queen, and dummy won with the king. South's best chance was the trump finesse, but that lost to West's king.

This was Wests' only defensive trick, but he was now in position to lead a heart through the dummy. This made it possible for Seewald to win both the ace and the ten of hearts, setting the contract.

Seewald hadn't known, of course, whether his partner held a trump trick, the ace of diamonds, or both. He just knew that a heart lead at the second trick could not cost anything and might well be the only way to set the game contract.

Three Men Held On Damage Charge

New York, Jan. 27 (AP)—Three men who described themselves as union officials were arrested in their homes late last night after the owner of a lower east side pickle works complained they had broken into the premises and damaged this property, police reported.

The three, who denied the accusations of Sam Rosen, owner of the French Pickle Works, at 365 Cherry street, were charged with burglary and malicious mischief.

They are David Lustigman, 35, Al Pfeffer, 40, both of Laurelton, Queens; and Milton Pillinger, 37, of Manhattan. They were taken into custody by Detective Isidore Schlerer.

Rosen told police he saw the three drive off in an automobile from in front of his plant at 9 p. m. last night as he approached the one-story building.

Works Broken Into

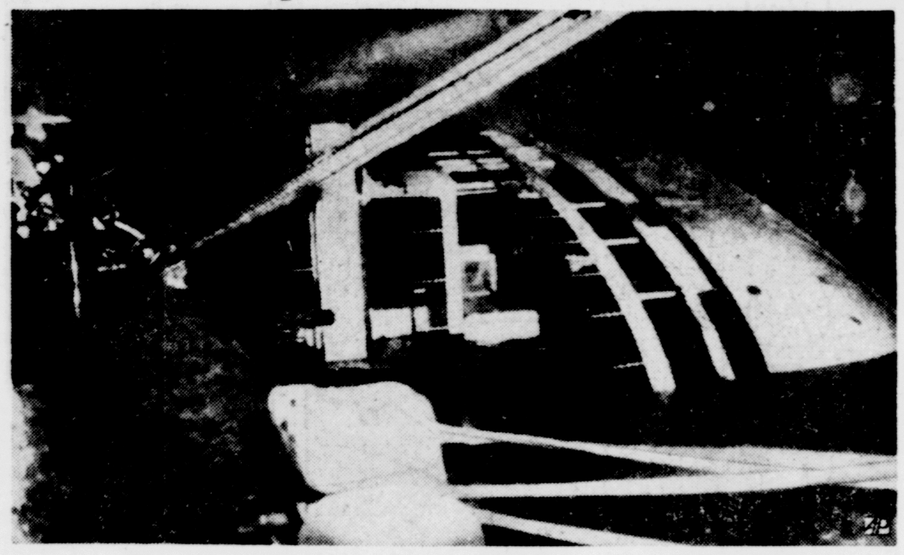

Rosen said he found that the works had been broken into, vats had been overturned and bottles broken, police said. In the rear of the building, Rosen reported that two trucks had been damaged, their windows smashed, and that sugar had been placed in the gasoline tanks.

Rosen told police the trio recently had made attempts to have him join an association. Pickets had been placed in front of his establishment last week, he said.

The three suspects denied inflicting the damage and said they had not been at the pickle works last night. They did not give the name of their union, police said.

Capsized Liner After Blaze

The Canadian ocean liner Empress of Canada lies on her side, a smoldering ruin, after a raging fire which left her a total wreck at her Liverpool, England, berth early Jan. 26. Firemen stand by at left after a hopeless eight-hour battle to save the liner. The fire, of undetermined origin, broke out while the ship was undergoing her annual overhaul at the British port. Suspended Man Is Found Dead

New York, Jan. 27 (AP)—Capt. John M. Bou, one of the 30 suspended policemen accused in the Harry Gross bookmaking graft scandal, was found dead early today in his home garage.

Staten Island police said he apparently died of carbon monoxide poisoning. Detectives were assigned to investigate.

The body was found by his wife, Ann, at 5:50 a. m.

Bou, formerly in command of a Staten Island precinct, was suspended Jan. 20, 1952.

A departmental trial of Bou and the other suspended policemen accused of sharing in graft paid by Gross ended last Tuesday before Deputy Police Commissioner James A. Delahanty. Delahanty said at that time he expected to make his recommendations to Police Commissioner George P. Monaghan within two weeks.

The suspended officers, if found guilty, could be fired from the force and lose their pension rights.

Allegedly Paid Million

Gross allegedly paid one million dollars a year graft for protection of his gambling business, which had a handle estimated at 20 million dollars a year.

He has served two years of a 12-year sentence for bookmaking and conspiracy.

Gross, a star prosecution witness at the departmental trial, testified about Bou: "I paid him about 20 times. I paid him about $100 a month."

Bou denied taking money from Gross "or any one else." He said he tried to arrest Gross on numerous occasions, but could not find necessary evidence.

Wicks Says Tax On Betting Invalid

Albany, Jan. 27 (AP)—Local taxes on pari-mutuel betting on thoroughbred horse races in Queens, Nassau and Saratoga counties are unconstitutional, Republican leader Arthur H. Wicks of the Senate contends.

Wicks assailed the local levies last night on the Senate floor, as he rejected a demand by Sen. Louis Friedman, Brooklyn Democrat, that the Legislature restore the power of localities to levy a 5 per cent tax on such betting.

The local taxing power was cut to 4 per cent last year, and will be cut to 3 per cent this season. The reduction will continue each year until the authority expires in 1955.

Wicks argued that the Legislature, in approving the pari-mutuel bill 12 years ago, had intended that the taxing power be reserved exclusively to the state.

Friedman said the 5 per cent rate brought New York city about 13 million dollars a year, and that the hard-pressed city needed the revenue to help balance its budget.

Blast Riddles Pipe

Gerry, Jan. 27 (AP)—An explosion in a natural gas well yesterday blew 246 feet of six inch iron pipe high in the air and into a dozen pieces, but nobody was hurt. The pieces plunged 10 feet into the earth as they fell. One struck a utility pole, knocking it down. Another snapped a high tension power line, cutting off power for an hour and a half in this Chautauqua county community. Warren Langworthy, who was supervising a crew of five men drilling the 600 feet deep well on his property, said the immediate cause of the explosion had not been determined.

Pope Is Much Better

Vatican City, Jan. 27 (AP)—Pope Pius XII was reported "much improved today from the attack of influenza and bronchial pneumonia which has kept him in bed since last Thursday. The 76-year-old pontiff's temperature "has gone down to normal," his doctor reported. There still was no indication when he would be able to leave his apartment or resume his duties. The Pope's condition over the weekend had caused grave concern in the Vatican.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

With the Inauguration of a President of the United States and a Coronation of a Queen in England the best historical writers are bringing forth bits of historical data which are very interesting. In the January Coronet there is a page devoted to The Presidential Touch. Some of the best humorous stories are given on various presidents. Following on George Washington: "He was one of our thriftiest Presidents. There is a yellowed requisition slip calling for one chain for a navy shop. Across the paper, faded but still legible, appear the words: "Approved, but cannot something be realized from the old chain? G. Washington." Perhaps some of that spirit will come back to the White House now.

Another story reads: "Ex-President Grover Cleveland leased his Princeton home and took his lovely wife on a trip. Finally a letter from the lessee caught up with the travelers. There was, it said, water in the basement. Immediately Cleveland sent an answering cable to his harassed tenant, "What do you expect? Champagne?"

During the recent stage tour of the play Apple of His Eye, Edward Arnold, the famous movie star, attended a White House reception and ex-President Truman asked him how the show was going. Arnold reported that everything was fine except for nasty notices by a couple of movie critics. The President smiled as he said: "Would you like me to write them a letter?"

One day, Calvin Coolidge lay down for a nap in the executive offices of the White House. It was one of those busy days when important visitors and matters of state piled up while the President slept peacefully on, past the time he should have been back at work. His secretary tiptoed in anxiously several times, but each time hesitated to awaken the chief. At length, Mr. Coolidge awakened, and seeing the concern in his secretary's face asked, "Is the country still here?"

The late Franklin D. Roosevelt practiced a psychological trick of his own on visitors. Passing through the crowded reception room on the way to his own office, FDR would pause long enough to tell an old but clever joke. He would then make a mental note of those who laughed uproariously and those who merely smiled politely and impatiently. The laughers, he once explained to a friend, were there to seek favors —the others were there on business, which should be attended to first.

The February Pageant, not to be outdone has several pages devoted to The Fifteen Ladies At Ike's New House. Reproductions of paintings of the "first ladies" of the land are shown with a few words about them. It was arranged by Hazel Markel, Washington correspondent. Mamie Eisenhower's portrait which will have its place of honor was painted by her husband, President Eisenhower. The reproductions are excellent of the paintings which hang in the Executive Mansion, but why aren't the names of the artists given. Perhaps one was painted by our own Kingston born Vanderlyn. The one of Mrs. Andrew Jackson, Jr., looks so much like the work of Vanderlyn. History says that Vanderlyn painted several presidential portraits, but so far I do not know about wives of Presidents. Who knows.

Why We Say--

. . . Center of an arch

We call someone in an important position a "keystone" in allusion to the center stone of an arch which acts to wedge the entire arch in position. Without the keystone the arch will collapse. The state of Pennsylvania is called the "Keystone State" because it was in the center of the 13 original states.

As Pegler Sees It

our toil from us, under threat of prison for monkey-business, and spends it all over the globe, except in Russia, and the lesser Iron-Curtain countries.

What can anyone say for the proposition that we should be willing to toil and give up the "reward" of that toil so that the people of France, for example, may go untaxed or, anyway, go free of income-tax? We may go to prison for trying to evade payment of taxes for the comfort and support of Frenchmen.

I think it would have been better for General Eisenhower's understanding if he had not taken the benefit of a technicality in the tax on the profits from his war memoirs. This book brought him about half a million dollars. He was allowed to declare his receipts as a "capital gain." The rate of tax on a "capital gain" is only 25 per cent and the total tax was hundreds of thousands of dollars below that which he would have had to pay on the same amount of money classed as "income."

If Ike had said: "We should have a right ——" that would have been better. And if he had pursued that theme to say, "and I recommend that our right to the reward of our labor shall be restored to us" then he would have been talking.

Judge Warns Men Against Four Types

Penzance, Cornwall, Eng., Jan. 27 (AP)—Judge J. Scobell Armstrong, 75-year-old divorce court veteran, warned men last night against four kinds of women:

1—Cats. "Let him see whether her eyes are warm, bright and kind, or whether they are catty. If they are catty, let him sheer off."

2—Saintly women. "Saints are wonderful, but rather difficult for sinners to live with."

3—The fun-mad type. "The wife who is always wanting you to go to dances, however tired you are, can be very trying."

4—Stupid women. "Marriage with a fool, however sweet and lovely she may be, is a drab affair for the cleverer partner—and she will give him stupid children."

Judge Armstrong delivered this distillation of his long experience to members of the Church of England Men's Society here.

His qualifications?

Beware of 1953! Warn Great Prophecies of the World

A strange man in Los Angeles, known as "The Voice of Two Worlds," is offering, free of charge to the public, an astounding 64 page book analyzing the great world prophecies covering these times. It shows that four of the greatest prophecies could not come true until the present time. But now they can, and world-shaking events are due. He believes everyone should prepare at once for the fateful crisis. Thus many people will avoid catastrophe.

"The Voice of Two Worlds," a well known explorer and geographer, tells of a remarkable system that often leads to almost unbelievable improvement in power of mind, achievement of brilliant business and professional success and new happiness. Others tell of increased bodily strength, magnetic personality, courage and poise.

These strange methods were found in far-off and mysterious Tibet, often called the land of miracles by the few travelers permitted to visit it. He discloses how he learned rare wisdom and long hidden practices, closely guarded for three thousand years by the sages, which enabled many to perform amazing feats. He maintains that these immense powers are latent in all of us, and that methods for using them are now simplified so that they can be used by almost any person with ordinary intelligence.

The 64 page book he is now offering free to the public offers guidance for those who wisely wish to prepare themselves and their affairs for the great crisis ahead. It gives details of what to anticipate, and when. Those who do pull through will have little to fear, because a glorious era will follow. Meantime, it says "Beware of These Days!"

The book formerly sold for a dollar, but as long as the present supply lasts, it is offered free to readers of this notice. This liberal offer is made because he expects that many readers will later become interested in the entire system of mind power he learned in the Far East and which is now ready to be disclosed to the western world.

For your free copy of the astonishing prophecies covering these momentous times, as revealed in this 64 page book, address the Institute of Mentalphysics, 213 South Hobart Blvd., Dept. F-123, Los Angeles 4, Calif. Send no money. Just your name and address on a postcard or in an envelope will do. No obligation. Readers are urged to write promptly, as only a limited number of the free books have been printed.

Opening lead—♣ 5

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Every experienced bridge player has heard the rule "Lead up to weakness" but only a very fine player knows when to break the rule. In today's hand, Leo J. Seewald, president of the Minnesota Unit of the American Contract Bridge League, properly broke the rule in a practice session for the big winter tournament scheduled to be held in St. Paul Feb. 6-8.

West opened the five of clubs, and Seewald, who sat East, won with the ace. When South dropped the king, East did a little careful planning.

Obviously there was going to be only one club trick for the defenders. Three additional tricks were needed to set four spades—and it was hard to see where those three tricks were going to come from.

If West had two defensive tricks, well and good. But there was a way to set the contract if West had only one defensive trick —provided he also held the queen of hearts. So Seewald returned the five of hearts right up to dummy's strength!

Declarer played the seven of hearts, West put up the queen, and dummy won with the king. South's best chance was the trump finesse, but that lost to West's king.

This was Wests' only defensive trick, but he was now in position to lead a heart through the dummy. This made it possible for Seewald to win both the ace and the ten of hearts, setting the contract.

Seewald hadn't known, of course, whether his partner held a trump trick, the ace of diamonds, or both. He just knew that a heart lead at the second trick could not cost anything and might well be the only way to set the game contract.

To Retain 50-Mile Top

Heidelberg, Germany, Jan. 27—The U. S. Army announced today it would maintain its present 50-mile-an-hour speed limit for all American military and civilian automobiles on German highways. The West German Parliament, effective Jan. 22, removed all speed limits for Germans.

Unemployment in Canton

Hong Kong (AP) — More than 130,000 persons are registered as unemployed workers in Canton, metropolis of Communist South China, according to Chinese press dispatches. The city had a pre-Red population of about 1½ million. A labor-migration program has been approved by the Red administrative council, the pro-nationalist newspaper Sing Tao Jih Pao reports. It said 1,000 unemployed men will be sent every 10 days to work projects in other areas.

Hong Kong (AP) — More than 130,000 persons are registered as unemployed workers in Canton, metropolis of Communist South China, according to Chinese press dispatches. The city had a pre-Red population of about 1½ million. A labor-migration program has been approved by the Red administrative council, the pro-nationalist newspaper Sing Tao Jih Pao reports. It said 1,000 unemployed men will be sent every 10 days to work projects in other areas.

PHOENICIA

Phoenicia, Jan. 27 — A card party will be held Friday night, Jan. 30, by Tiskilwa Rebekah Lodge in the lodge rooms over the movie hall. The party will start at 8 p. m.

Tommy Lawless of Pennsylvania is staying at the home of Mrs. Dwyer while she is a patient at Benedictine Hospital.

Mrs. Arthur Kelsey is on the sick list.

Mr. and Mrs. Loren Riley motored to the Veterans Hospital in Albany recently to visit Mrs. Riley's brother, Loren Boice.

Mrs. Rawson is reported to be improved after her recent illness.

The basketball game between Onteora High School and Walton Saturday night was called off due to the heavy fog and rain.

Albert Kirk, Edwin Gale and Berdette Booth have left Phoenicia for service.

A surprise birthday party was given in honor of Mrs. Andrews by her daughter, Mrs. Bessie Quick at her home. The party was held following a meeting of Rebekah Lodge of which Mrs. Quick is a past noble grand. Four members were present from Catskill Rebekah Lodge and three from Saugerties Lodge.

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

The kindred (yet contrary) question of "how high stock prices?" and "how low commodity prices?" are going to be the subject of critical essays and comments for months to come.

What has happened is that common measuring rods with which everyone is familiar do not seem to measure anymore! It is as if someone had changed the number of inches in the yard-stick, but left the stick the same length.

Let us talk a little about stock prices, first.

By any prior measurement of the indexes and averages of stock prices the present level is "high." One cannot argue against that. For example, the very broad index of 420 stocks prepared by Standard & Poor's statistical organization reached a level in 1952 which was above the 1929 peak; it has since moved still higher. This is not true of all stock averages, however, due to the various methods of making up averages and "weighing" factors that enter in price-averages.

In any event, stock prices by any historical measurement are high. And what is significant to the student and to the investor is that a great many people know that "stocks are high." The Ruminator has run into a good many market-minded people during his winter sojourn in Florida and invariably he hears the same remark: "The stock market is due for a real crack; it's too high." Only a week ago, after addressing a Rotary Club luncheon meeting, on the theory of contrary opinion, the Ruminator was told after the meeting by visitors who came up to him that "the economy was due for a set-back and that stocks were too dear."

If this "opinion" is widespread—and I believe it is—then we have not seen the "top" of the Eisenhower bull market. So long as investors and traders doubt the stock market's rise, and believe it is "too high," it is sound contrary reasoning to hold the opposite viewpoint. The Ruminator received some off-the-record information recently from the head of a large Mutual Fund which indicates that these investment trusts are finding the same psychology prevailing among their clienteles; namely, a tendency toward selling their mutual-fund shares, rather than being interested in buying more shares. I do not mean to imply that there has been any marked increase in "redemptions" lately, but rather am reporting a "feeling" among this type of investor.

There has been a modest increase in short selling on the part of the "little fellow" of late, also. This is often indicative of a growing bearish sentiment, which is commonly found to be wrong.

So, taking it all in all—and without regard to temporary reactions and intervening spills—the stock market may yet continue on its skyward trend, regardless of its being "high." It is the old, old question one finds in studying the history of price movements: How high is high, and how low is low? There is no answer, of course, because conditions are constantly changing.

One more thought is worth registering here, I think.

You hear a great deal of talk about the probability of deflation under any sound-money program that may result from the Eisenhower administration. The Ruminator is inclined to doubt that important interests and big holders of stocks would liquidate their holdings because of a fear of a sound-money program. Quite the contrary, I think. It seems to me highly probable that the vast sums of venture money which have been "frightened" of the New Deal and the Fair Deal are likely to be actively interested in the stock market and in other speculative ventures under a sound-money regime.

The fear of money is far and above any fear about such things as fluctuations in prices. If big interests believe the dollar is safe they will use their dollars in active speculation and investment. That is also not bearish on stock prices, regardless of present levels.

There is only space to touch on commodity prices. The fall in these prices has continued so long and has become so much talked about that it would seem a fair contrary guess to expect a recovery in commodities. Support prices will have an influence now that many farm prices have dropped to, and under, support levels. So the Ruminator doubts that the commodity markets will have much affect on the stock market one way or the other. Divergences in the past have not been uncommon.

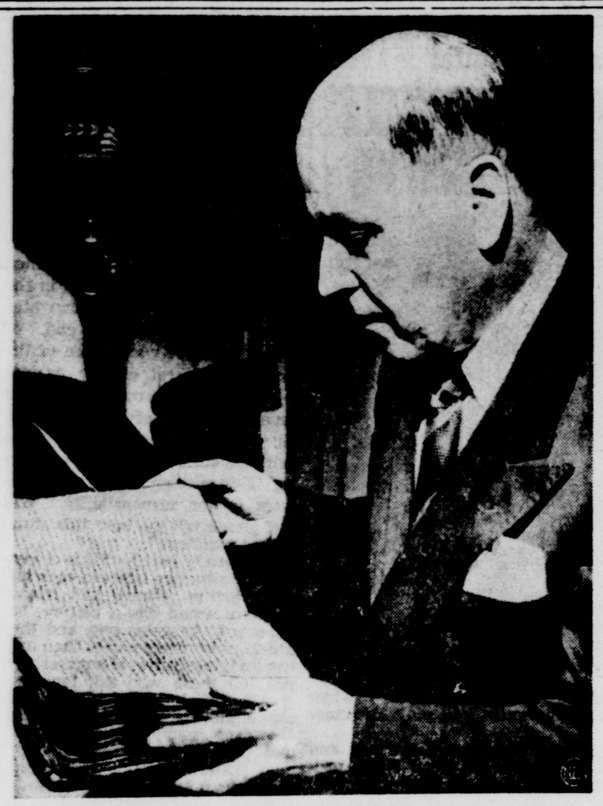

Seek Bull Fighting Ban

Tokyo (AP)—There is no bull fighting in Japan, but the Japanese Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals is asking the government for a ban against the Spanish and Mexican sport. The SPCA's announcement said it was seeking the ban because of word from Spain that a group of bull fighters planned to come to Japan to introduce the sport.

Graci Would Extend State's Feinberg Law

Albany, Jan. 27 (AP)—A bill to extend to publicly supported colleges the law banning subversives from jobs in public schools was introduced in the Legislature today.

Assemblyman Angelo Graci, Queens Republican, said his bill would extend the Feinberg law to "and college or other institution of higher education supported in whole or in part by public funds.

The Feinberg law, enacted in 1949, bans from jobs in the public school system any member of an organization listed as subversive by the Board of Regents. The Regents have not yet published such a list.

Graci's bill would affect the state university system and New York city's four municipal colleges, Queens College, Brooklyn College, City College and Hunter College.

Another Republican, Sen. George R. Metcalf of Auburn, proposed a constitutional amendment to permit registration by mail of voters who are ill or whose business takes them outside the United States on registration days.

Metcalf said his measure had the approval of the Republican State Committee.

Two Manhattan Democrats sponsored a bill to set up a permanent, three-member commission to combat organized crime.

Sen. Julius A. Archibald and Assemblyman Daniel M. Kelly introduced the measure. Their proposal came only a few hours after Gov. Dewey's State Crime Commission had urged the Legislature to set up a permanent watchdog agency.

Beatty and Decker Will Get 25-Year Cattle Club Paper

Harry J. Beatty of Hurley avenue extension will be honored by the USO Holstein Club Thursday evening at its meeting in Pine Bush.

A member of the New York Holstein Friesian Association for 25 years, Beatty has been a member of the USO Club since it was organized in 1945, and was a member of the Ulster County Holstein Club prior to that time.

He will be one of two persons to be awarded a 25-year certificate by Philip Davis of Kerhonkson, delegate to the recent state convention in Binghamton. The other recipient of the award will be Benjamin Decker of Walden.

DuBois Holds Title

The Thursday meeting will also serve as a recognition of the 4-H and FFA members in the three-county area. County Holstein champions from Ulster, Sullivan and Orange counties will be present to receive special recognition and all 4-H and FFA members who have dairy projects at the present time have been invited. Ulster's 4-H Holstein champion is Lawrence DuBois of Gardiner.

Prof. Thomas Wiley of Cornell University, who works with 4-H dairy project members throughout the state, will speak. Plans for the year will be revealed at a brief business session. Reservations may be made with Alan Detch of Bullville.

Met Tenor Chosen For Next Community Concert Series

Two of the three programs for next season's Community Concert Association series were chosen tentatively at the annual meeting of the board of directors Monday night at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Eugene Conley, American tenor of Metropolitan Opera, radio and television fame who sang at President Eisenhower's inaugural last week; and the famous Longines Symphonette, Michael Piastro, conductor, have been selected.

Memberships for the series will be available during the annual campaign week starting April 26. Preliminary plans for the campaign were made with Mrs. Reynolds B. Carr and Mrs. Bernard Forst appointed as co-chairmen.

Officers for the coming year elected at the meeting are Lloyd R. LeFever, president; Mrs. Herbert I. Bloom, first vice-president; Leonard H. Stine, second vice-president; Mrs. Louis Kegler, secretary; and Joseph Craig, treasurer. The slate was presented by the nominating committee: John A. McCullough, chairman, Mrs. Harold L. Rakov and Mrs. Harry C. Seitz. Annual reports of the secretary and treasurer showed that the present series was completely subscribed with one more concert, dePaur Infantry Chorus, March 28, remaining.

Mrs. Marion Sistare, representative of the New York office, met with the local board.

This auxiliary project is made possible through proceeds from the organization's annual dance at the Governor Clinton Hotel. This year, the event is scheduled for Saturday, Feb. 7, when Larry Bloom and his orchestra will play for dancing.

The public is invited to attend the dance and thereby assist in the auxiliary's good cheer program at the hospital. Tickets may be purchased from Mrs. Arthur W. Hazenbush or Mrs. Rifenbary. (Freeman photo)

HOME BUREAU NEWS

Color, Design Workshop

Mrs. Helen Tunison, a former home demonstration agent, of Andes, spoke recently to a group of Home Bureau leaders at a Workshop on Color and Design held in the First Baptist Church hall. Mrs. Tunison pointed out that design is a plan for a definite purpose. It is selecting and arranging materials of line, form, color, texture in an orderly pattern. She illustrated this point by showing articles of good design and color loaned by some of the local stores.

Also taking part in the program was Miss Everice Parsons, county home demonstration agent, Miss Parsons discussed all the various aspects of color. Mrs. Helen Stantial, the assistant county home demonstration agent discussed color and its application to clothing.

After the discussion each leader present had an opportunity to work with several others and plan a color scheme which could be used in a room. These were discussed by those present at the meeting which included the Mmes. William Douglas, Ellenville; William Seitz, Ann DuBois, Forest Glen: Parker Decker, Highland; Dora Immisch, Arnetta Wheeler, Kingston; Oscar Kafka, Henry Rygh, Walter Vollmeke, Ray LeFevre, Lomontville; Olive Clarke, Philip Peters, Milton; Edna Beatty, New Paltz; George Sisti Jr., Plattekill; Emil Wieland, Agnes Smith, Thelma Eckert, Wallkill; C. V. Gunther, Hilda Lamphere, Helen Wendland, Marie Rider, Betty VandeMark, Lulu Thiel, Catherine Cranston, Mary Brodbeck, Wiltwyck and the Misses Helena M. Weight Control

On Thursday, January 29, 1953 the Ulster County Home Bureau Weight Control leaders are meeting at the First Baptist Church Hall at which time the group will discuss plans for the New York State Fair Exhibit on Weight Control which the Home Bureau is having this year. The State Fair will be held the first week in September.

Lomontville Unit

The Lomontville unit of the Home Bureau held an all-day meeting at the community hall on Thursday. Fourteen members present in the morning, assisted Mrs. Henry Rygh, food leader, in the preparation of salads and hot biscuits, for lunch.

Mrs. Walter Vollmeke, presided at the business meeting in the afternoon, when two more members and a guest joined the group. Mrs. Oscar Kafka gave an interesting talk on the first weight control lesson. Mrs. Raymond Elliott reported for the nominating committee.

Officers reelected were Mrs. Walter Vollmeke, chairman; Mrs. Raymond LeFevre, vice-chairman; Mrs. Oscar Kafka, secretary; and Mrs. Henry Rygh, treasurer.

In attendance besides those already named were the Mmes. Otto Kern, Gordon Eckert, M. V. Bryant, Will Kohler, A. Bruntraeger, Karl Bowers, William Dohne, C. M. Hardenbergh, Clara M. Reed, and the Misses Alice and Ethel Sherman and guest, Mrs. Frank Markle.

Wynkoop Evening Unit

The regular monthly business meeting of the Wynkoop Evening Unit was held recently. Miss Everice Parsons conducted an interesting discussion on the establishment of a business center in one's home. Suggestions were given concerning filing and record-keeping.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Alvin May, Mrs. Howard Eaton, Mrs. William Winter, and Mrs. Hollis Burhans.

Kripplebush Unit

The Kripplebush Unit of the Home Bureau met recently at the home of Mrs. Marie Van Aken, who led a class in one-dish easy meals. The group will next meet at the home of Mrs. Viola Christian.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

CONCERNING WEDDING PICTURES

One of the most embarrassing and difficult situations concerned with a wedding is described in the following letter: "Our daughter was married recently and, of course, pictures were taken of the wedding. Several of our nearest relatives have expressed a wish to have a picture of my daughter. As you know these pictures are quite expensive and I am wondering if furnishing them with pictures is our responsibility. Will you please tell me how this situation is handled?"

As already noted, this is a very difficult situation because each and every loving relative and friends not only would like a picture, but expects to be given one, and they are so much more costly than anyone imagines. I would suggest that you tell those who ask for them that you wish you could give each one a picture but that they cost (however many dollars) apiece and that you can not afford to give them. Then if they really want them and can afford to order them—the photographer of course would be delighted to take their orders.

A Grateful Patient

Dear Mrs. Post: I had been ill for some time and was treated at a clinic by a well-known doctor, who put me on the road to recovery. There was no fee for his services. I feel I owe him a debt of gratitude for what he has done for me. Will you please tell me how I can properly show my appreciation?

Answer: An appreciative letter of thanks for his skill in treating you is all that is necessary—and would, in fact, be more pleasing thany any gift you could send.

On Eating an Olive

Dear Mrs. Post: When eating olives, is it proper to hold the olive in the fingers and eat it off the stone, or is the entire olive put in one' mouth?

Answer: Correctly it should be held in the fingers and nibbled off the stone. To put a whole queen olive in your mouth would be very bad form.

Ellen Bryant Weds Thomas P. Staiger

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Ellen Bryant, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bryant of Big Indian, to Thomas P. Staiger, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Staiger of Chichester, on Saturday, Jan. 3, in St. Francis DeSales Church, Phoenicia. The Rev. William Galvin, assistant pastor, performed the double ring ceremony. A reception was held at Al's restaurant, Phoenicia.

White chrysanthemums and poinsettias decorated the church. Traditional wedding selections were played by the organist, Mrs. Nellie Bennett. Miss Pauline Poschner sang Panis Angelicus and Ave Maria.

Escorted by her brother, Thomas Bryant, the bride wore a gown of white Chantilly lace over satin with a matching lace bolero. Her finger-tip veil was secured to a crown of seed pearls and sequins. She carried a white orchid on a pearl covered prayer book.

Miss Patricia Staiger, the bridegroom's sister, was the maid of honor. Attired in an ice-blue satin gown trimmed with ice-blue lace and pearls, and a matching lace cap and mitts, she carried a bouquet of pink roses and white chrysanthemums.

Daniel Donahue of Big Indian, was best man. Gordon Groenwald of New York, and John Staiger, Jr., brother of the bridegroom were ushers.

The bride was graduated from Fleischmanns High School, and is employed in the postal department of American Air Lines, LaGuardia Field, New York.

The bridegroom attended Tannersville High School, and is serving with the U. S. Navy, stationed at Philadelphia.

Met Tenor Chosen For Next Community Concert Series

Two of the three programs for next season's Community Concert Association series were chosen tentatively at the annual meeting of the board of directors Monday night at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Eugene Conley, American tenor of Metropolitan Opera, radio and television fame who sang at President Eisenhower's inaugural last week; and the famous Longines Symphonette, Michael Piastro, conductor, have been selected.

Memberships for the series will be available during the annual campaign week starting April 26. Preliminary plans for the campaign were made with Mrs. Reynolds B. Carr and Mrs. Bernard Forst appointed as co-chairmen.

Officers for the coming year elected at the meeting are Lloyd R. LeFever, president; Mrs. Herbert I. Bloom, first vice-president; Leonard H. Stine, second vice-president; Mrs. Louis Kegler, secretary; and Joseph Craig, treasurer. The slate was presented by the nominating committee: John A. McCullough, chairman, Mrs. Harold L. Rakov and Mrs. Harry C. Seitz. Annual reports of the secretary and treasurer showed that the present series was completely subscribed with one more concert, dePaur Infantry Chorus, March 28, remaining.

Mrs. Marion Sistare, representative of the New York office, met with the local board.

Color, Design Workshop

Mrs. Helen Tunison, a former home demonstration agent, of Andes, spoke recently to a group of Home Bureau leaders at a Workshop on Color and Design held in the First Baptist Church hall. Mrs. Tunison pointed out that design is a plan for a definite purpose. It is selecting and arranging materials of line, form, color, texture in an orderly pattern. She illustrated this point by showing articles of good design and color loaned by some of the local stores.

Also taking part in the program was Miss Everice Parsons, county home demonstration agent, Miss Parsons discussed all the various aspects of color. Mrs. Helen Stantial, the assistant county home demonstration agent discussed color and its application to clothing.

After the discussion each leader present had an opportunity to work with several others and plan a color scheme which could be used in a room. These were discussed by those present at the meeting which included the Mmes. William Douglas, Ellenville; William Seitz, Ann DuBois, Forest Glen: Parker Decker, Highland; Dora Immisch, Arnetta Wheeler, Kingston; Oscar Kafka, Henry Rygh, Walter Vollmeke, Ray LeFevre, Lomontville; Olive Clarke, Philip Peters, Milton; Edna Beatty, New Paltz; George Sisti Jr., Plattekill; Emil Wieland, Agnes Smith, Thelma Eckert, Wallkill; C. Weight Control

On Thursday, January 29, 1953 the Ulster County Home Bureau Weight Control leaders are meeting at the First Baptist Church Hall at which time the group will discuss plans for the New York State Fair Exhibit on Weight Control which the Home Bureau is having this year. The State Fair will be held the first week in September.

Lomontville Unit

The Lomontville unit of the Home Bureau held an all-day meeting at the community hall on Thursday. Fourteen members present in the morning, assisted Mrs. Henry Rygh, food leader, in the preparation of salads and hot biscuits, for lunch.

Mrs. Walter Vollmeke, presided at the business meeting in the afternoon, when two more members and a guest joined the group. Mrs. Oscar Kafka gave an interesting talk on the first weight control lesson. Mrs. Raymond Elliott reported for the nominating committee.

Officers reelected were Mrs. Walter Vollmeke, chairman; Mrs. Raymond LeFevre, vice-chairman; Mrs. Oscar Kafka, secretary; and Mrs. Henry Rygh, treasurer.

In attendance besides those already named were the Mmes. Otto Kern, Gordon Eckert, M. V. Bryant, Will Kohler, A. Bruntraeger, Karl Bowers, William Dohne, C. M. Hardenbergh, Clara M. Reed, and the Misses Alice and Ethel Sherman and guest, Mrs. Frank Markle.

Wynkoop Evening Unit

The regular monthly business meeting of the Wynkoop Evening Unit was held recently. Miss Everice Parsons conducted an interesting discussion on the establishment of a business center in one's home. Suggestions were given concerning filing and record-keeping.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Alvin May, Mrs. Howard Eaton, Mrs. William Winter, and Mrs. Hollis Burhans.

Kripplebush Unit

The Kripplebush Unit of the Home Bureau met recently at the home of Mrs. Marie Van Aken, who led a class in one-dish easy meals. The group will next meet at the home of Mrs. Viola Christian.

Bills Offered in Legislature

Albany, Jan. 27 (AP)—A pay boost of at least $500 a year for teachers outside New York city has been urged by the Republicans who head the Legislature's education committees.

The twin measures have the backing of the New York State Teachers Association, which estimates the pay boosts would cost school districts 15 million dollars a year.

They were introduced last night by Sen. Earl W. Brydges of Niagara Falls and Assemblyman William E. Brady of Coxsackie.

In other top legislative developments:

1. Gov. Dewey uncovered the first section of his 1953-54 state budget, calling for $603,519,780 in state aid to localities. This would give them $18,589,715 more than in the current fiscal year, which ends March 31. Dewey will announce his complete budget and submit it to the Legislature Thursday.

Motion Approved

2. The Legislature unanimously approved moving the deadline for renewal of all truck and trailer registrations from Feb. 2 to March 2. This measure would give the Legislature time to settle a controversy over how to compute vehicle weights for registration purposes.

Dewey was expected to sign the measure soon.

3. The governor proposed to the Legislature that localities be required to take over the state's four temporary Institutes of Applied Arts and Sciences as community colleges, effective Aug. 31. The institutes are scheduled to close then.

4. Democratic legislative leaders revoiced their opposition to any weakening of the state's residential rent control law. They contended Republican leaders planned to abolish controls outside New York city.

The Brady-Brydges bill would raise the minimum salary for teachers from $2,500 to $3,000 a year.

Calls for Increases

It also calls for automatic service pay for teachers in all school districts. No such increments are required nor in districts employing less than three teachers.

The increments would range up to $1,150 a year for teachers in large school districts.

Dewey recommended that the temporary technical institutes be turned over to the counties or cities in which they are located. If the localities reject the plan, the schools would be closed or turned over to communities that wanted them.

The two-year schools were established in 1946 in Buffalo, Binghamton, Brooklyn, Utica and White Plains. They were created on a five-year basis as an experiment in post-high-school technical training. The life of the schools was extended by the 1951 and 1952 Legislatures.

The Brooklyn Institute will be taken over by New York city on April 1 as a community college.

Under this plan, the state and New York city share capital costs and each pays one-third of the operating fees for the community college. The other third comes from students' tuitions.

Health Nurse Back From Philippines

Mrs. Maria Broekema, former public health nurse with the Ulster County Department of Health, has returned to her position here after a tour of duty with the U. S. Public Health Service which included two years in the Philippine Islands.

A graduate of Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, D. C., Mrs. Broekema left Ulster county in 1945 to accept an appointment as civilian nurse, assigned first to Halloran General Hospital and later to the U. S. Marine Hospital at Stapleton. After a tour of duty with the Federal Security Agency's Arlington Farms Infirmary, Arlington, Va., she was assigned in 1948 to the Philippine Rehabilitation Agencies at Manila, where she remained until 1950. Upon her return to this country, she was assigned to Marine Hospitals at Carville, La., and Seattle, Wash.

Mrs. Broekema resumed her duties on the staff of the county health department on Jan. 1 and has been assigned to the towns of Olive, Shandaken and Hardenbergh.

Over $1,500 Made On Variety Show For March of Dimes

A capacity audience enjoyed the 15-act variety show at Kingston High School auditorium Monday night, featuring some of the outstanding talent of the area, and according to Alderman-at-Large Joe Kelly, finance chairman of the promotion, more than $1,500 had been contributed up until last night.

Kelly said more returns are anticipated from patrons of the show, who although they did not attend, will send their contributions to help fight the crippling disease that afflicted 57,000 throughout the nation during the past year.

Frank Oulton, director of the show, was generously applauded by the more than 800 men, women and children in the high school auditorium, when he was introduced by County Judge John M. Cashin, who was master of ceremonies for the entire program that lasted more than three hours.

From the standpoint of variety, the show lived up to its billing. There were vocalists, instrumentalists, dancers, comedians and a snappy minstrelette put on by the Port Ewen Drum Corps, also a dramatic skit by the Coach House Players.

Dance studios of the area were well represented by young talent, and adults had their place on the program too to help in the March of Dimes event.

Addison Jones, campaign director for the March of Dimes, William Kelly, county director and Meyer Kaplan, a member of the committee, expressed their gratitude for the support being given the drive on polio.

Proof of Vaccine Will Be Found in Tests on Children

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
(AP Science Reporter)

New York, Jan. 27 (AP)—Scientists now have a vaccine which they have good reason to believe will protect human beings against polio, ending the dread scourge of a crippling and killing virus.

The proof of the pudding will come through tests on many children, probably to be run this year.

This is the main substance of a report last night by Dr. Harry M. Weaver, research director of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

This vaccine is one pay-off of 18 million dollars devoted to research by the March of Dimes funds since 1938. It looks like the best practical answer yet to the challenge of polio.

Stimulates Few

It has stimulated a few human beings, and many monkeys and chimpanzees, to make their own antibodies or disease-fighters against all three types of polio virus. The monkeys, in fact, went scot-free even when given lethal doses or polio virus after the vaccination.

The acid test for this vaccine still lies ahead—the tests on thousands of children. Even if it works, the vaccine will not be generally available this year, not until some questions are answered about how good and how long its protective effect lasts.

But it is certain that this vaccine is safe, that it can't cause polio in children or adults who get the shots. For it is made out of viruses killed by chemical treatment, with formalin or formaldehyde, so that the viruses cannot damage human nerves.

Could Protect All Three

And it is certain that the vaccine could protect against all three types of viruses that can cause human polio. It took three solid years of work, costing $1,370,000, to learn that there are only three such viruses—named the Brunhilde, Lansing and Leon strains — which are dangerous. This vaccine contains all three types.

Medical research also has learned how to make these viruses in practically unlimited quantities, Dr. Weaver reported.

It's done by growing viruses in glass test-tubes on bits of animal or human tissues. The tissues can be of several kinds, not including nerve tissue. For it's feared that virus grown on nerve tissue might contain contaminants which could damage the brains of persons getting vaccines made with that kind of virus. This vaccine has no such danger.

Viruses in this vaccine, although killed by chemicals, still keep the power to make human beings produce antibodies against polio viruses. Anti-bodies are natural defense agents which can disarm any invading viruses.

And, said Dr. Weaver, the anti-body-producing ability of this vaccine apparently can be stepped up by combining it with certain mineral oils.

The Mature Parent

Youngsters Can Keep Secrets If You Show Them How

BY MURIEL LAWRENCE

One Friday morning, Skip's father was given some news by his executive. His boss said, "Bill, this firm's just about decided to appoint you western manager. Better alert the family and start plans."

That evening, after Skip's father had calmed his son's excitement, he said, "Sure, you'll see Indians. But that's not the point now. Daddy's job is not sure yet. So don't talk around, Skip. Keep it under your hat. Now this is just private family stuff, see?"

Skip promised. The next morning his father registered his house on his real estate agent's sale list.

Two days later, the mother of Skip's best friend telephoned. She said to his mother, "My dear, Skip's told us your wonderful news! When are you leaving? Will you sell the house? Doe it mean a lot more money for Bill? Are you driving or. . . ."

When Skip's mother hung up, she walked out to the yard where her son was inflating a bicycle tire. "Shame on you," she said. "To have told daddy's secret to the Egans! When you were specially told not to talk, too! How do you think daddy will feel to have a boy he can't trust. I just don't know how I'm going to tell him. . . ."

Skip wished he was dead. He looked up from his bicycle with a stricken face. "She asked me," he said. "Mrs. Egan asked me, mother. She ASKED me. . . ."

But his mother was too angry to listen. "It is an awful thing," she pronounced, "when parents can't trust children not to gossip."

It is also an awful thing not to wise them up about what to do when they meet aggressive curiosity.

Children's tendencies to broadcast private family business is a common problem and one in which we often take outraged and virtuous positions. Nine times out of ten, we have no right whatever to sound off. Because nine times out of ten, the children have been given no instruction in their right to resist the prying of aggressive curiosity.

When this curiosity comes from grownups, children find themselves in a tough psychological spot. For Skip has been told repeatedly to be "polite" and "obedient" to adults. Given no authority to discriminate between curiosity and real interest, he has no alternative but to obediently answer Mrs. Egan's point-blank questions.

So someone should say to Skip, "Curiosity is a form of attack upon our right to privacy. No matter who asks you questions about matters that do not concern them, you may first ignore the question. If they persist, you can try to change the subject. If they still persist, you can say politely, 'I do not want to talk about that.' That is the right thing to do."

Children will be most grateful for this assurance. They are often miserable and scared because we have forgotten to give them moral ground for resisting aggressive curiosity.

Skip's mother might have figured her husband's news would get around. A real estate agent has a wide circle of acquaintances.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Dewey Marks . . .

sents about half the entire state assistance budget.

Virtually all of the increase is for aid to common schools, which will require $287,300,000, an increase of $14,300,000 from the current fiscal period. The total is mandated under formula in existing state law and reflects the continued rise in school populations stemming from high birth rates in the post-war years. Dewey noted this cost had climbed 163 per cent since the 1944-45 fiscal year.

The second largest increase is for general per-capita local assistance to cities, counties, towns and villages. It climbed $2,200,000, to $118,300,000. The boost is expected to be balanced by increases in collections from the motor fuel tax and motor vehicle license fees.

The third largest increase is $1,456,000 in public housing subsidies, boosting those appropriations to $8,910,000. Dewey said this increase resulted chiefly from the anticipated completion of 11 additional housing projects, which will become eligible for subsidy payments from the state in the coming year. The subsidies are paid to help keep rents low.

On a volume comparison, the largest amount of the local assistance budget, next to education, will be for social welfare. It will total $125,729,000 in the new budget. This represents a decrease of $3,446,000 from the current year's appropriations of $134,175,000. But the drop was caused primarily by a smaller amount of deficiency appropriations, as compared with the current year.

Dewey earmarked $7,400,000 to help localities finance capital construction projects. These included $4,400,000 for secondary and feeder roads: $1,500,000 for parkway work in Westchester county; $1,100,000 for Long Island shore protection, and $400,000 for rebuilding existing grade-crossing structures.

In addition to aid for common schools, education items were 6½ million dollars for teacher training in New York city; four million dollars for the state's school-lunch program; $2,400,000 in aid to libraries; $2,075,000 for community colleges and $110,000 for physically handicapped children.

The community-college allotment is up $1,300,000 from the current fiscal year.

Dewey served notice that the state expected White Plains, Utica, Buffalo and Binghamton to take over and operate temporary state institutes of applied arts and sciences as community colleges in their localities. He noted that New York city already had agreed to take over the fifth institute, in Brooklyn, on April 1.

The additional community-college money will be used to help finance the Brooklyn school and extend similar aid to the other localities if and when they agree to sponsor the new community colleges, he said.

Remington Guilty

he gave her War Production Board information.

The government can bring Remington to trial again on the two deadlocked counts if it wishes, Judge Vincent L. Liebell said. If convicted on these two counts, Remington could sentenced to a possible maximum of another 10 years and $4,000 in fines.

Defense Counsel John McKim Minton, Jr. told reporters he would seek to have the verdict set aside on the ground it was contrary to the law and the evidence.

All five perjury counts grew out of Remington's testimony at his first perjury trial, two years ago, at which he was convicted and sentenced to five years and a $2,000 fine.

He was found guilty then of perjury in denying before a Federal Grand Jury that he ever had belonged to the Communist Party. The conviction was upset on appeal on the ground that the first trial Judge, Gregory F. Noonan, was vague in instructing the trial jury on what constituted Communist Party membership. The government proceeded to obtain the new perjury indictment instead of going to trial a second time on the first.

No date for sentencing Remington was set today after the jury handed up its verdict following nine hours and 50 minutes of deliberation. Remington was continued free in $7,000 bail pending a hearing Thursday on defense motions. The trial ran through eight court days.

Following the verdict, Liebell told the jury:

"You have done a most conscientious job. I became most concerned and worried as the time went on that some of you might become ill. * * * I discharge you with the thanks of the court, and you can feel that you have conscientiously fulfilled your duty."

Medical research also has learned how to make these viruses in practically unlimited quantities, Dr. Weaver reported.

It's done by growing viruses in glass test-tubes on bits of animal or human tissues. The tissues can be of several kinds, not including nerve tissue. For it's feared that virus grown on nerve tissue might contain contaminants which could damage the brains of persons getting vaccines made with that kind of virus. This vaccine has no such danger.

Viruses in this vaccine, although killed by chemicals, still keep the power to make human beings produce antibodies against polio viruses. Anti-bodies are natural defense agents which can disarm any invading viruses.

And, said Dr. Weaver, the antibody-producing ability of this vaccine apparently can be stepped up by combining it with certain mineral oils.

The Mature Parent

Youngsters Can Keep Secrets If You Show Them How

BY MURIEL LAWRENCE

One Friday morning, Skip's father was given some news by his executive. His boss said, "Bill, this firm's just about decided to appoint you western manager. Better alert the family and start plans."

That evening, after Skip's father had calmed his son's excitement, he said, "Sure, you'll see Indians. But that's not the point now. Daddy's job is not sure yet. So don't talk around, Skip. Keep it under your hat. Now this is just private family stuff, see?"

Skip promised. The next morning his father registered his house on his real estate agent's sale list.

Two days later, the mother of Skip's best friend telephoned. She said to his mother, "My dear, Skip's told us your wonderful news! When are you leaving? Will you sell the house? Doe it mean a lot more money for Bill? Are you driving or. . . ."

When Skip's mother hung up, she walked out to the yard where her son was inflating a bicycle tire. "Shame on you," she said. "To have told daddy's secret to the Egans! When you were specially told not to talk, too! How do you think daddy will feel to have a boy he can't trust. I just don't know how I'm going to tell him. . . ."

Skip wished he was dead. He looked up from his bicycle with a stricken face. "She asked me," he said. "Mrs. Egan asked me, mother. She ASKED me. . . ."

But his mother was too angry to listen. "It is an awful thing," she pronounced, "when parents can't trust children not to gossip."

It is also an awful thing not to wise them up about what to do when they meet aggressive curiosity.

Children's tendencies to broadcast private family business is a common problem and one in which we often take outraged and virtuous positions. Nine times out of ten, we have no right whatever to sound off. Because nine times out of ten, the children have been given no instruction in their right to resist the prying of aggressive curiosity.

When this curiosity comes from grownups, children find themselves in a tough psychological spot. For Skip has been told repeatedly to be "polite" and "obedient" to adults. Given no authority to discriminate between curiosity and real interest, he has no alternative but to obediently answer Mrs. Egan's point-blank questions.

So someone should say to Skip, "Curiosity is a form of attack upon our right to privacy. No matter who asks you questions about matters that do not concern them, you may first ignore the question. If they persist, you can try to change the subject. If they still persist, you can say politely, 'I do not want to talk about that.' That is the right thing to do."

Children will be most grateful for this assurance. They are often miserable and scared because we have forgotten to give them moral ground for resisting aggressive curiosity.

Skip's mother might have figured her husband's news would get around. A real estate agent has a wide circle of acquaintances.

Dewey Marks . . .

sents about half the entire state assistance budget.

Virtually all of the increase is for aid to common schools, which will require $287,300,000, an increase of $14,300,000 from the current fiscal period. The total is mandated under formula in existing state law and reflects the continued rise in school populations stemming from high birth rates in the post-war years. Dewey noted this cost had climbed 163 per cent since the 1944-45 fiscal year.

The second largest increase is for general per-capita local assistance to cities, counties, towns and villages. It climbed $2,200,000, to $118,300,000. The boost is expected to be balanced by increases in collections from the motor fuel tax and motor vehicle license fees.

The third largest increase is $1,456,000 in public housing subsidies, boosting those appropriations to $8,910,000. Dewey said this increase resulted chiefly from the anticipated completion of 11 additional housing projects, which will become eligible for subsidy payments from the state in the coming year. The subsidies are paid to help keep rents low.

On a volume comparison, the largest amount of the local assistance budget, next to education, will be for social welfare. It will total $125,729,000 in the new budget. This represents a decrease of $3,446,000 from the current year's appropriations of $134,175,000. But the drop was caused primarily by a smaller amount of deficiency appropriations, as compared with the current year.

Dewey earmarked $7,400,000 to help localities finance capital construction projects. These included $4,400,000 for secondary and feeder roads; $1,500,000 for parkway work in Westchester county; $1,100,000 for Long Island shore protection, and $400,000 for rebuilding existing grade-crossing structures.

In addition to aid for common schools, education items were 6½ million dollars for teacher training in New York city; four million dollars for the state's school-lunch program; $2,400,000 in aid to libraries; $2,075,000 for community colleges and $110,000 for physically handicapped children.

The community-college allotment is up $1,300,000 from the current fiscal year.

Dewey served notice that the state expected White Plains, Utica, Buffalo and Binghamton to take over and operate temporary state institutes of applied arts and sciences as community colleges in their localities. He noted that New York city already had agreed to take over the fifth institute, in Brooklyn, on April 1.

The additional community-college money will be used to help finance the Brooklyn school and extend similar aid to the other localities if and when they agree to sponsor the new community colleges, he said.

Legal Notice Correction

Through inadvertence the legal notice of the annual report of the supervisor of the Town of Esopus, which appeared in The Freeman Monday, stated under the subtitle Ross Memorial Park "reimbursed from State Crime Commission, $647.43. It should have read "reimbursed from State Youth Commission."

Remington Guilty

he gave her War Production Board information.

The government can bring Remington to trial again on the two deadlocked counts if it wishes, Judge Vincent L. Liebell said. If convicted on these two counts, Remington could sentenced to a possible maximum of another 10 years and $4,000 in fines.

Defense Counsel John McKim Minton, Jr. told reporters he would seek to have the verdict set aside on the ground it was contrary to the law and the evidence.

All five perjury counts grew out of Remington's testimony at his first perjury trial, two years ago, at which he was convicted and sentenced to five years and a $2,000 fine.

He was found guilty then of perjury in denying before a Federal Grand Jury that he ever had belonged to the Communist Party. The conviction was upset on appeal on the ground that the first trial Judge, Gregory F. Noonan, was vague in instructing the trial jury on what constituted Communist Party membership. The government proceeded to obtain the new perjury indictment instead of going to trial a second time on the first.

No date for sentencing Remington was set today after the jury handed up its verdict following nine hours and 50 minutes of deliberation. Remington was continued free in $7,000 bail pending a hearing Thursday on defense motions. The trial ran through eight court days.

Following the verdict, Liebell told the jury:

"You have done a most conscientious job. I became most concerned and worried as the time went on that some of you might become ill. * * * I discharge you with the thanks of the court, and you can feel that you have conscientiously fulfilled your duty."

NFA Protests State Rule Making Bob Spreer Ineligible

DUSO League basketball teams faced the second semester of conference play with high hopes of stopping the Newburgh Academy juggernaut today, following Monday's announcement that brilliant Bobby Spreer has ended his Goldback career.

John K. Archer, principal of Malverne (L. I.) High school and secretary-treasurer of the New York State Public High School Athletic Association announced yesterday that Spreer would not be eligible after last Saturday's game at Fallsburgh.

The Goldbacks scored a 68-65 victory for their 29th straight and seven in a row for the current DUSO campaign.

But the rhubarb continued in the Hill City where Director of Athletics C. Everett Stevens of Newburgh Academy announced that NFA would appeal the ruling to Ellis Champlin, director of New York Health and Physical Education Department.

Documented Proof

Archer said that he had received documented proof that Spreer participated with the St. Patrick's team of Newburgh while he was an eight-grade student at that school during the second semester of the 1948-49 season. He entered NFA in the fall of that years.

"Under our regulations which permit a player only eight consecutive semesters of sports participation, Bobby Spreer will not be eligible at the start of the new semester (which started Monday, Jan. 26)", Archer declared.

The Newburgh News pointed out that although the announcement was rumored over the weekend, notice did not reach C. Everett Stevens and Coach Masterson until Monday morning.

NFA, riding on a string of 29 straight conference triumphs, was to meet the rugged Poughkeepsie High Blues at 4 p. m. today in the Bridge City bandbox. It appeared doubtful if any official word could be received in time to make Spreer eligible for the game.

Masterson Stumped

Asked what he would do with Spreer out, Coach Masterson said:

"I am not sure what I will do."

He did say that he would use Frank Snyder, Bill Huber and Dan Razansky as possible replacements.

The case, pending since October, has been booted about within the councils of the DUSO League, Sectional Committee and Executive Committee.

Though no official word was issued, it is believed that the original cause of the protest was brought on by Coach Sam Kalloch of Poughkeepsie.

Whether this NFA version is correct or not remains to be seen. It has been established that Kalloch knew about the situation but so did many others associated with the DUSO League.

The Newburgh News' position that the protest against Spreer was inspired by Coach Kalloch stems out of a remark purportedly made by the veteran Blue mentor last spring.

During a baseball argument, Kalloch is supposed to have said to Spreer:

Joe Ausanio Pounds 280 Single; Dot Rawding Slams 267

Former Boxer Topples Ten Straight Strikes

Former pugilist Joe Ausanio scaled the bowling heights last night with a new all-time single record of 280 in the City Minor League.

Ausanio's big blast which helped him to a league leading 645 (it was the best in the city, too) came in the third game.

After firing 206 and 159 on alleys 7 and 8, Joe found a steady groove and fired 10 strikes in succession behind a "40" in the second frame. He opened with a strike, left the 7-pin on a solid pocket shot in the second frame, and then embarked on his spree of 10 straight. The 280 is in itself a rather rare score in bowling.

The former record of 278 was held by Lou Secreto.

Ausanio's 645 paced the city field and set the tempo for a scoring spree on alleys 7 and 8 where the league's top five series were rolled.

Maurer Raps 213

Runnerup Joe Maurer pounded 202-216-613 and Ralph Garafola had 208-581. Other topnotchers included Leo Bechtold 203-575; Mannie Colao 572, Len Freer 201-570, Bob Schneider 561, Ed Koskie 219-557, Harry Secreto 556, Ed Smedes 223-555, Joe Dulin 553, Frank Nerone 538, Harold Baltz 212-532, Tom Parker 528, Ralph Dumenigo 528, Bill Murray 525, John Kuzer 201-522, Joe Mahar 521, Jim Pruden 214-520. Leo Mellert toppled a 223 solo.

Johnny's Drive-In boosted its lead over Mannie's Barbers to three full games by taking a 2-1 decision in a clutch match.

Team results:

D-D's Drive In 2, Tommie's Tavern 1; Stone Ridge Firemen 3, Broadway Chop House 0; Veterans Barber Shop 2½, Crystal Gardens ½; Johnny's Drive-In 2, Mannie's Barber Shop 1; Kingston Knitting Mills 2, Cities Service 1; Donato Bros. 2, Hutton Brick 1; Joe Epstein's 2, Mauro's Grill 1.

Callanan's Win Half

Callanans of the Independent League won a split decision over Welch's Grocers while Martin's Market was dropping a pair to Beichert's Studies to nail down the first round pennant by a half-game margin. The Callanans won 35½ games and lost 27½.

Harry Wilber led the firing with 573 on solos of 201-182-190 and Frank Bruno toppled 209-567. Also in the top bracket were Charlie Grunenwald 552, W. Thomas 539, Ray Roux 533, Ralph Halbert 207-533, Tom Welch 529, Leo Everitt 528, Leon Studt 525, Roland Post 522 and Orv Van Alstyne 222-520.

Team results:

Vogel's Dairy 3, Sickler's Delivery 0; Stone Ridge Firemen 3, Jump's Market 0; Callanans 2, Welch's Market 1; Beichert's Studies 2, Martin's Market 1.

Herbie Sleight and Walt Dougherty carried off individual honors in the Junior Major. Sleight's 184-149-200 for 583 was the highest series and Dougherty's third-game 245 led the solo department.

Art Lansnery's 523 took second place; Dougherty finished with 512, Ernie Bartroff 509, Jim Turck 503, Paul Khederian 500 and Tom Orr 494.

Seton Hall Rated No. 1

New York, Jan. 27 (AP)—Seton Hall, rolling along as the nation's only undefeated major college basketball team, was voted No. 1 in the nation today for the second straight week.

The powerful Pirates, who made Memphis State victim No. 19 during the week, were voted tops by 44 of the 85 sports writers and broadcasters in the poll. They piled up 679 votes on the usual basis of ten points for first place, nine for second, etc. for a comfortable margin over second-place Indiana.

The Hoosiers, runner-up for the second straight week, received 12 first place votes and 595 points, while Washington held third place with a dozen firsts and 545 points.

La Salle, which led the poll for the first two weeks only to be supplanted by Kansas State, climbed past the midwesterners this week La Salle took over the fourth spot, shoving K-State down to fifth.

Illinois, still without a first place vote, held sixth place, but all was confusion below that. Fordham jumped back up to seventh from tenth, moving Oklahoma A & M down a peg. Western Kentucky, which last night walloped Tampa, 117-58, took over the ninth position and De Paul, a 58-47 victor over Oklahoma A & M last week, became No. 10.

Out of the select circle were North Carolina State, which lost by 70-69 to North Carolina, and Kansas, 72-68 victim of Colorado, N. C. State in 12th, Kansas 14th.

Four Teams Tied In Junior League

A four-way tie in the Junior Division of the Recreation Basketball League will be settled by a pair of games this week.

Tonight the Royals (5-3) tackle Shaw's Grocery, one of the four teams with a 6 and 2 record. The Waterboys meet St. Peter's at the George Washington School on Wednesday.

These are the last regular games before the playoffs.

The four teams deadlocked at 6 wins and 2 setbacks are Waterboy Juniors, Shaw's Grocery, St. Peter's and Esposito's.

Junior Division

	W	L	Pct.
Waterboy Jrs.	6	2	.750
Shaw's Grocery	6	2	.750
St. Peter's	6	2	.750
Esposito's	6	2	.750
Royals	5	3	.625
Old Hurley	4	5	.444
Salvation Army	2	6	.250
Sicklers	2	6	.250
Boys Club	2	6	.250
Edson Raiders	2	7	.222

New Orleans — Ralph Dupas, 138¾, New Orleans, outpointed Basil Marie, 138, Philadelphia (8).

KHS Ready For Beacon

Varsity Feature Set for 8 P.M.

While the DUSO sports world had its eyes focused on the 4 p. m. clash at Poughkeepsie between Spreer-less NFA and Sam Kalloch's Blues, Coach G. Warren Kias' Maroons awaited tonight's clash with a dangerous Beacon quintet at the municipal auditorium.

In accordance with new rules governing mid-week games, the Jayvee game will start at 6:30 p. m. followed by the varsity feature at 8 o'clock.

Beacon, far more dangerous than its conference record of 4 wins and 3 losses would indicate, will throw a couple of real threats against the Kiasmen. Corny Saddler and Pearly Watkins when right are capable of wrecking an opposing club. They did an artistic 61-39 job on Liberty Friday night.

LSU Cage Coach Needs Nine More Wins to Hit 300

New York, Jan. 27 (AP) — It's Harry Rabenhorst's 25th anniversary. Know what he'd like for a present?

A diamond wrist watch, or a ring. Nope.

This is Rabenhorst's 25th year at LSU, and he'd like nothing better than to reach that coveted 300 figure. And it looks as though he's going to make it, too.

Before the season started, his Tigers had won 280 games against 197 defeats. Add 13 more victories this season (against only one defeat) and that gives him a total of 293.

The Tigers can put Raberhorst over the top; by winning seven of their remaining nine games. It's possible, too, that LSU, leading the Southeastern Conference, will participate in NCAA post-season play—which'll give Harry more of a chance to increase his total.

Victory No. 293 came last night—a 55-51 decision over Tulsa.

It was a good one for Rabenhorst to win. It avenged LSU's only loss this season. Tulsa had whipped the Tigers in December, but now it's all even.

Star Sidelined

With scoring star Bob Pettit still on the sidelines with a virus infection, LSU used a solid defense to stop Tulsa.

The Tigers forced their visitors to shoot mostly from the outside, and Tulsa hit only 24 per cent of its shots. LSU hit 30 per cent, and that made the difference.

Hardwood action was very light last night, due to the mid-year exams. In fact, only one member of the top ten — ninth-ranked Western Kentucky—played. The Hilltoppers breezed past Tampa, 117-58, as Jerry Whitsell poured in 24 points.

In the border conference, pace-setting Arizona ran its league mark to 5-0 by whipping last place Arizona State (Flagstaff), 97-70.

In the Big 10, Minnesota moved into undisputed possession of third place with a 77-72 victory over Purdue. Chuck Mencel led the winners with 24 points. Northwestern upset Ohio State, 82-73, in a battle of also-rans.

• The Eleventh Frame:

Is a slight rhubarb developing with respect to the return match between the Dutch Rathskeller and Kingston Lumber squads? Reports have the Lumberettes doing a slow burn when the Rathskeller showed up with Marge Jansen as a substitute for last Saturday's match, which they won by 290 pins. The current difficulties center around the date for the return clash. March of Dimes trying to lure Morris Cramer and his $2,000 All Stars for a polio benefit here next Sunday night. A doubles match featuring two local keglerettes also is in the making. Jake Chichelsky, former tenpin scribe, didn't hesitate to pick a pair of all-star women's squads based on 1952-53 performances. His first team includes Rose Schatzel, Elizabeth Schoonmaker, Charlotte Lapine, Beverly Port and Ada Markle. It won't be easy to pick a team stronger than that group, but Jake will get stiff arguments for the second team selections. His are Miriam Posner, Jessie Burnett, Marge Jansen, Dot Rawding and Dot Flemings. The KWBA tournament opening this weekend at New Paltz figures to be a lively show.

Port Jervis and Middletown High have agreed to play the 1953 Thanksgiving Day football game at 11 a. m. in conformity with a national trend. Unleashing a spectacular overtime attack, St. Joseph's cagers moved into contention in the Senior Division of the Recreation League with a stunning 68-60 upset of the undefeated Sickler's Delivery last night on the MJM court.

Trailing 43-35 at the end of three periods, St. Joseph's broke loose for a 20-point fourth quarter behind the spectacular shooting of Frank Secreto who rimmed 31 points. They easily dominated the overtime action.

The victory placed three teams in the first place scramble. Village Rest has won 7 and lost 1. Sickler's absorbed their first setback for a 6-1 record, while St. Joseph's is 5 and 1.

Secreto was the man who broke the game apart. His 31 points represented one of the highest individual harvests of the season and he racked up 25 after the intermission.

Led by the effective shooting of Hermie Sickler who bucketed 20 points, the Deliverymen looked like sure winners with an 8-point bulge at the start of the fourth period. That's where Mr. Secreto came in.

Secreto hit 14 times from the field and added three singletons. Paul Giannuzzi posted 13 markers and Tony Altamore had 12. Trailing Sickler in the Sickler individual scoring was Phil McClosky with 10 points.

Perth, Australia—John Landy, Australia's sensational miler, won the 880-yard championship of Australia with a national record time of 1:53.6.

Philadelphia — An anti-trust suit against the National Football League opened with the federal government charging the league with the television restrictions which are illegal.

Phoenix Open Won by Mangrum

Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 27 (AP)—The wandering golfers headed south today for the $10,000 Tucson Open tournament, and leading the procession was the familiar figure of the No. 1 man of the 1953 winter tour, Lloyd Mangrum.

Mangrum registered his third triumph in five tournaments this month when he breezed home an easy winner in the $10,000 Phoenix Open yesterday.

The 38-year-old artist from Niles, Ill., and Los Angeles cooled the field with his spectacular eight-under par 63 in the third round and put the finishing touches on yesterday with, for Mangrum, a conservative one-under par 70.

It gave him a total of 272, which was 12 strokes under par for 72 holes and six in front of his field.

Thus far Mangrum has won the Los Angeles Open, the Bing Crosby and Phoenix events, placed second in the $10,000 Thunderbird County Club Invitational at Palm Springs, Calif., and fourth in the San Diego Open.

It was Mangrum's second successive triumph in the Phoenix, and two strokes better than his 274 in 1952.

Phoeniz, Ariz.—Lloyd Mangrum of Niles, Ill., won the $10,000 Phoenix Open Tournament, shooting a one-under par for 70 for a 72-hole total of 272.

New Boxing Bill Would Have Three Judges for Bouts

Albany, Jan. 27 (AP)—A boxing referee will no longer score a bout if a Buffalo Republican's bill clears the Legislature.

Assemblyman William J. Butler introduced the measure last night.

It calls for three judges, instead of the two now used at all professional matches. The only time a referee would take part in the scoring would be in the case of a foul.

Other provisions of the bill would:

Require a 1½-minute rest period between rounds, instead of one minute.

Provide a 30-day suspension for any contestant who is knocked out in a bout.

Leave it to the ladies to come up with a sensational bit of news in either the Classic or the Major at the Bowlodrome.

A little more than a week ago Elizabeth Schoonmaker rocked the bowling world with a sensational 722—the all-time Hudson valley high.

Last night an established veteran—Dot Rawding—moved into the limelight with a brilliant 267 middle effort in the Woman's Major.

This was a new league record and other counts of 193 and 147 gave her a 607 series to join the rapidly growing list of "600" triples.

Two 582 Triples

While Mrs. Rawding was setting the alleys on fire with her 267, other stars were socking hefty totals. Charlotte Lapine and Ada Markle, two of the finest, tied with 582.

Mrs. Lapine hammered 160-199-223 and Miss Markle sandwiched a 169 with 213 and 200.

Tess Moss, the best bowler in the Moss family, strung a pair of 200s after 174 for 570. Miriam Posner toppled 555. Rose Schatzel shot 209-539. Elizabeth Bruck knocked off 493, Elizabeth "722" Schoonmaker had 481 and Mary Wyant bombed 475.

Bert Bishop's keglerettes carried off high team series of 2481 and Williams Lake shot an 883 middle set for high team single.

NFA Protests State Rule Making Bob Spreer Ineligible

DUSO League basketball teams faced the second semester of conference play with high hopes of stopping the Newburgh Academy juggernaut today, following Monday's announcement that brilliant Bobby Spreer has ended his Goldback career.

John K. Archer, principal of Malverne (L. I.) High school and secretary-treasurer of the New York State Public High School Athletic Association announced yesterday that Spreer would not be eligible after last Saturday's game at Fallsburgh.

The Goldbacks scored a 68-65 victory for their 29th straight and seven in a row for the current DUSO campaign.

But the rhubarb continued in the Hill City where Director of Athletics C. Everett Stevens of Newburgh Academy announced that NFA would appeal the ruling to Ellis Champlin, director of New York Health and Physical Education Department.

Documented Proof

Archer said that he had received documented proof that Spreer participated with the St. Patrick's team of Newburgh while he was an eight-grade student at that school during the second semester of the 1948-49 season. He entered NFA in the fall of that years.

"Under our regulations which permit a player only eight consecutive semesters of sports participation, Bobby Spreer will not be eligible at the start of the new semester (which started Monday, Jan. 26)", Archer declared.

The Newburgh News pointed out that although the announcement was rumored over the weekend, notice did not reach C. Everett Stevens and Coach Masterson until Monday morning.

NFA, riding on a string of 29 straight conference triumphs, was to meet the rugged Poughkeepsie High Blues at 4 p. m. today in the Bridge City bandbox. It appeared doubtful if any official word could be received in time to make Spreer eligible for the game.

Masterson Stumped

Asked what he would do with Spreer out, Coach Masterson said:

"I am not sure what I will do."

He did say that he would use Frank Snyder, Bill Huber and Dan Razansky as possible replacements.

The case, pending since October, has been booted about within the councils of the DUSO League, Sectional Committee and Executive Committee.

Though no official word was issued, it is believed that the original cause of the protest was brought on by Coach Sam Kalloch of Poughkeepsie.

Whether this NFA version is correct or not remains to be seen. It has been established that Kalloch knew about the situation but so did many others associated with the DUSO League.

The Newburgh News' position that the protest against Spreer was inspired by Coach Kalloch stems out of a remark purportedly made by the veteran Blue mentor last spring.

During a baseball argument, Kalloch is supposed to have said to Spreer:

Joe Ausanio Pounds 280 Single; Dot Rawding Slams 267

Former Boxer Topples Ten Straight Strikes

Former pugilist Joe Ausanio scaled the bowling heights last night with a new all-time single record of 280 in the City Minor League.

Ausanio's big blast which helped him to a league leading 645 (it was the best in the city, too) came in the third game.

After firing 206 and 159 on alleys 7 and 8, Joe found a steady groove and fired 10 strikes in succession behind a "40" in the second frame. He opened with a strike, left the 7-pin on a solid pocket shot in the second frame, and then embarked on his spree of 10 straight. The 280 is in itself a rather rare score in bowling.

The former record of 278 was held by Lou Secreto.

Ausanio's 645 paced the city field and set the tempo for a scoring spree on alleys 7 and 8 where the league's top five series were rolled.

Maurer Raps 213

Runnerup Joe Maurer pounded 202-216-613 and Ralph Garafola had 208-581. Other topnotchers included Leo Bechtold 203-575; Mannie Colao 572, Len Freer 201-570, Bob Schneider 561, Ed Koskie 219-557, Harry Secreto 556, Ed Smedes 223-555, Joe Dulin 553, Frank Nerone 538, Harold Baltz 212-532, Tom Parker 528, Ralph Dumenigo 528, Bill Murray 525, John Kuzer 201-522, Joe Mahar 521, Jim Pruden 214-520. Leo Mellert toppled a 223 solo.

Johnny's Drive-In boosted its lead over Mannie's Barbers to three full games by taking a 2-1 decision in a clutch match.

Team results:

D-D's Drive In 2, Tommie's Tavern 1; Stone Ridge Firemen 3, Broadway Chop House 0; Veterans Barber Shop 2½, Crystal Gardens ½; Johnny's Drive-In 2, Mannie's Barber Shop 1; Kingston Knitting Mills 2, Cities Service 1; Donato Bros. 2, Hutton Brick 1; Joe Epstein's 2, Mauro's Grill 1.

Callanan's Win Half

Callanans of the Independent League won a split decision over Welch's Grocers while Martin's Market was dropping a pair to Beichert's Studies to nail down the first round pennant by a half-game margin. The Callanans won 35½ games and lost 27½.

Harry Wilber led the firing with 573 on solos of 201-182-190 and Frank Bruno toppled 209-567. Also in the top bracket were Charlie Grunenwald 552, W. Thomas 539, Ray Roux 533, Ralph Halbert 207-533, Tom Welch 529, Leo Everitt 528, Leon Studt 525, Roland Post 522 and Orv Van Alstyne 222-520.

Team results:

Vogel's Dairy 3, Sickler's Delivery 0; Stone Ridge Firemen 3, Jump's Market 0; Callanans 2, Welch's Market 1; Beichert's Studies 2, Martin's Market 1.

Herbie Sleight and Walt Dougherty carried off individual honors in the Junior Major. Sleight's 184-149-200 for 583 was the highest series and Dougherty's third-game 245 led the solo department.

Art Lanspery's 523 took second place; Dougherty finished with 512, Ernie Bartroff 509, Jim Turck 503, Paul Khederian 500 and Tom Orr 494.

Seton Hall Rated No. 1

New York, Jan. 27 (AP)—Seton Hall, rolling along as the nation's only undefeated major college basketball team, was voted No. 1 in the nation today for the second straight week.

The powerful Pirates, who made Memphis State victim No. 19 during the week, were voted tops by 44 of the 85 sports writers and broadcasters in the poll. They piled up 679 votes on the usual basis of ten points for first place, nine for second, etc. for a comfortable margin over second-place Indiana.

The Hoosiers, runner-up for the second straight week, received 12 first place votes and 595 points, while Washington held third place with a dozen firsts and 545 points.

La Salle, which led the poll for the first two weeks only to be supplanted by Kansas State, climbed past the midwesterners this week La Salle took over the fourth spot, shoving K-State down to fifth.

Illinois, still without a first place vote, held sixth place, but all was confusion below that. Fordham jumped back up to seventh from tenth, moving Oklahoma A & M down a peg. Western Kentucky, which last night walloped Tampa, 117-58, took over the ninth position and De Paul, a 58-47 victor over Oklahoma A & M last week, became No. 10.

Out of the select circle were North Carolina State, which lost by 70-69 to North Carolina, and Kansas, 72-68 victim of Colorado, N. C. State in 12th, Kansas 14th.

Four Teams Tied In Junior League

A four-way tie in the Junior Division of the Recreation Basketball League will be settled by a pair of games this week.

Tonight the Royals (5-3) tackle Shaw's Grocery, one of the four teams with a 6 and 2 record. The Waterboys meet St. Peter's at the George Washington School on Wednesday.

These are the last regular games before the playoffs.

KHS Ready For Beacon

Varsity Feature Set for 8 P.M.

While the DUSO sports world had its eyes focused on the 4 p. m. clash at Poughkeepsie between Spreer-less NFA and Sam Kalloch's Blues, Coach G. Warren Kias' Maroons awaited tonight's clash with a dangerous Beacon quintet at the municipal auditorium.

In accordance with new rules governing mid-week games, the Jayvee game will start at 6:30 p. m. followed by the varsity feature at 8 o'clock.

Beacon, far more dangerous than its conference record of 4 wins and 3 losses would indicate, will throw a couple of real threats against the Kiasmen. Corny Saddler and Pearly Watkins when right are capable of wrecking an opposing club. They did an artistic 61-39 job on Liberty Friday night.

LSU Cage Coach Needs Nine More Wins to Hit 300

New York, Jan. 27 (AP) — It's Harry Rabenhorst's 25th anniversary. Know what he'd like for a present?

This is Rabenhorst's 25th year at LSU, and he'd like nothing better than to reach that coveted 300 figure. And it looks as though he's going to make it, too.

Before the season started, his Tigers had won 280 games against 197 defeats. Add 13 more victories this season (against only one defeat) and that gives him a total of 293.

The Tigers can put Raberhorst over the top; by winning seven of their remaining nine games. It's possible, too, that LSU, leading the Southeastern Conference, will participate in NCAA post-season play—which'll give Harry more of a chance to increase his total.

Victory No. 293 came last night—a 55-51 decision over Tulsa.

It was a good one for Rabenhorst to win. It avenged LSU's only loss this season. Tulsa had whipped the Tigers in December, but now it's all even.

Star Sidelined

The Tigers forced their visitors to shoot mostly from the outside, and Tulsa hit only 24 per cent of its shots. LSU hit 30 per cent, and that made the difference.

Hardwood action was very light last night, due to the mid-year exams. In fact, only one member of the top ten — ninth-ranked Western Kentucky—played. The Hilltoppers breezed past Tampa, 117-58, as Jerry Whitsell poured in 24 points.

In the border conference, pace-setting Arizona ran its league mark to 5-0 by whipping last place Arizona State (Flagstaff), 97-70.

In the Big 10, Minnesota moved into undisputed possession of third place with a 77-72 victory over Purdue. Chuck Mencel led the winners with 24 points. Northwestern upset Ohio State, 82-73, in a battle of also-rans.

Is a slight rhubarb developing with respect to the return match between the Dutch Rathskeller and Kingston Lumber squads? Reports have the Lumberettes doing a slow burn when the Rathskeller showed up with Marge Jansen as a substitute for last Saturday's match which they won by 290 pins. The current difficulties center around the date for the return clash, March of Dimes trying to lure Morris Cramer and his $2,000 All Stars for a polio benefit here next Sunday night. A doubles match featuring two local keglerettes also is in the making. Jake Chichelsky, former tenpin scribe, didn't hesitate to pick a pair of all-star women's squads based on 1952-53 performances. His first team includes Rose Schatzel, Elizabeth Schoonmaker, Charlotte Lapine, Beverly Port and Ada Markle. It won't be easy to pick a team stronger than that group, but Jake will get stiff arguments for the second team selections. His are Miriam Posner, Jessie Burnett, Marge Jansen, Dot Rawding and Dot Flemings. The KWBA tournament opening this weekend at New Paltz figures to be a lively show.

SHERMAN WHITE

This former Long Island University All-America basketeer, who is rated among the college greats of the modern era, leads his College Bombardiers against Billy Loes All Stars in the Lions Club benefit, Thursday at the municipal auditorium.

(By The Associated Press)

Tennis

Adelaide, Australia—Australia's Mervyn Rose staged a spectacular finish to defeat Vic Seixas of Philadelphia for the South Australian tennis championship, 6-4, 3-6, 2-6, 11-9.

General

Perth, Australia—John Landy, Australia's sensational miler, won the 880-yard championship of Australia with a national record time of 1:53.6.

Philadelphia — An anti-trust suit against the National Football League opened with the federal government charging the league with the television restrictions which are illegal.

New Record in Major Figures in 607 Series

New Boxing Bill Would Have Three Judges for Bouts

Albany, Jan. 27 (AP)—A boxing referee will no longer score a bout if a Buffalo Republican's bill clears the Legislature.

Assemblyman William J. Butler introduced the measure last night.

It calls for three judges, instead of the two now used at all professional matches. The only time a referee would take part in the scoring would be in the case of a foul.

Other provisions of the bill would:

Require a 1½-minute rest period between rounds, instead of one minute.

Provide a 30-day suspension for any contestant who is knocked out in a bout.

Phoenix Open Won by Mangrum

Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 27 (AP)—The wandering golfers headed south today for the $10,000 Tucson Open tournament, and leading the procession was the familiar figure of the No. 1 man of the 1953 winter tour, Lloyd Mangrum.

Mangrum registered his third triumph in five tournaments this month when he breezed home an easy winner in the $10,000 Phoenix Open yesterday.

The 38-year-old artist from Niles, Ill., and Los Angeles cooled the field with his spectacular eight-under par 63 in the third round and put the finishing touches on yesterday with, for Mangrum, a conservative one-under par 70.

It gave him a total of 272, which was 12 strokes under par for 72 holes and six in front of his field.

Thus far Mangrum has won the Los Angeles Open, the Bing Crosby and Phoenix events, placed second in the $10,000 Thunderbird County Club Invitational at Palm Springs, Calif., and fourth in the San Diego Open.

It was Mangrum's second successive triumph in the Phoenix, and two strokes better than his 274 in 1952.

Leave it to the ladies to come up with a sensational bit of news in either the Classic or the Major at the Bowlodrome.

A little more than a week ago Elizabeth Schoonmaker rocked the bowling world with a sensational 722—the all-time Hudson valley high.

Last night an established veteran—Dot Rawding—moved into the limelight with a brilliant 267 middle effort in the Woman's Major.

This was a new league record and other counts of 193 and 147 gave her a 607 series to join the rapidly growing list of "600" triples.

Two 582 Triples

While Mrs. Rawding was setting the alleys on fire with her 267, other stars were socking hefty totals. Charlotte Lapine and Ada Markle, two of the finest, tied with 582.

Mrs. Lapine hammered 160-199-223 and Miss Markle sandwiched a 169 with 213 and 200.

Tess Moss, the best bowler in the Moss family, strung a pair of 200s after 174 for 570. Miriam Posner toppled 555, Rose Schatzel shot 209-539, Elizabeth Bruck knocked off 493, Elizabeth "722" Schoonmaker had 481 and Mary Wyant bombed 475.

Bert Bishop's keglerettes carried off high team series of 2481 and Williams Lake shot an 883 middle set for high team single.

Woman Outshoots Men

By WARREN PAGE
(Shooting Editor)

We males, now that the saloons and barber shops no longer offer masculine sanctuary, have rather smugly come to feel that the shooting sports still generally carry a "For Men Only" sign. True, lady skeet shooters make the news now and again, but only by a freak do their scores overshadow the consistency of male shotgun-swingers.

One or two .22 rimfire gallery shooters of the feminine gender have been pictured on sports pages, but as often as not because of the niceness of their features rather than the accuracy of their firing. And a few of the gals go hunting, yet hardly enough to fatten game department revenues.

But certainly in the bench rest shooting game, which demands a certain amount of mechanical aptitude, tremendous attention to detail and exhausting concentration, we males figured we had a shooting sport completely reserved to ourselves.

But, brethren of the gun, 'taint so. The present world's record for rifle accuracy at 100 yards is held by Mrs. M. H. Walker of Ilion, N. Y. At Johnstown, N. Y., last Labor Day, shooting against more than 100 males, Olive Walker put ten consecutive bullets from her trusty .222 Remington into a single hole only .3268 inches between outermost centers. The gross size of that hole is just about the size of the fingernail on an ordinary man's pinky.

No man, firing a centerfire rifle in bench rest competition, or any kind of competition for that matter, has ever held 10 shots so closely. And just to add insult to injury, Mrs. Walker ranked in the top ten of all the hundreds of dead-serious male shooters competing in the National Championships during the past year.

Fortuntely for male vanity, a new record was set by a man in 1952, this for 200 yards. In Seattle, Frank Cooper put 10 shots into a spread of only .6378 inches, ten shots under a penny. He was firing a .22-250 with a custom barrel by Ralph Pride.

When you come right down to it, bench rest shooting does not call for physical strength. The 18-20 pound rifle is set on sandbags during firing and develops virtually no recoil. So there's no practical reason why a woman who is willing to reload her own cartridges should not excel in bench rest competition. During the past three years of the National Bench Rest Shooting Association history, several youngsters have trimmed their fathers at the bench, in individual matches.

The rifle used by the fair new record-holder was a heavy-barrelled musket equipped with a 20-power Lyman scope, made by Mike Walker and chambered in the cartridge he largely developed, the .222 Remington. This newcomer in the .22 centerfire ranks is grabbing off accuracy honors right and left, five rifles in that calibre being used by the top 20 BBRSA competitors.

Singles-Doubles Action Scheduled On Both Weekends

High Powered Local Squads in 'A' Meet

The 12th annual Kingston Woman's Bowling Association tournament will open on Saturday, Jan. 31, at 1:30 p. m. at the New Paltz bowling alleys.

Final registration figures reveal an entry list of 50 teams, 48 doubles and 96 singles.

Mayor Robert Reid of New Paltz will officiate at the opening ceremonies which have been arranged by the New Paltz women's league, Nellie Alverson, chairman.

The team events will be rolled on Saturday and Sunday, with singles and doubles following the next weekend.

Two teams—the six-team Rosendale Chalet Pioneers and eight-team New Paltz Nite Cap circuit—have registered 100 per cent entry.

Power Squads Set

Prominent Kingston teams rated among the favorites include the Kaye Sportwair squad of Dot Flemings, Ada Markle, Emma Pratt, Beverly Port and Elizabeth "722" Schoonmaker. The Dutch Rathskeller squad features Rose Schatzel, Pat Pearson, Jessie Burnett, Kay Brodhead and Betty Bailey.

Manhattan Bowling Balls will show a lineup numbering Rose Schatzel, Prendergast, Betty Bailey, Eleanor Singer and Elizabeth Schoonmaker. Bert Bishop's have Charlotte Lapine, Dot Rawding, Emma Pratt, Reta Frederick and Miriam Posner.

Another standout combination is Rowe's Shoe Store with Charlotte Lapine, Phyl Gehringer, Mayme Hutton, Tess Moss and Rita La Rocca.

The tournament will be operated under WIBC rules which calls for a change of alleys after each game, or three games on six alleys. By the time an entrant competes her all-events (9 games) she will have rolled on 9 sets of alleys.

Maher New NFA Hero

DUSO basketball experts, while predicting a slambang second half in the conference race because of Bobby Spreer's ineligibility, are beginning to wonder if the turn of events hasn't created a new problem at NFA.

A problem for the rest of the league, that is.

Billy Maher, a solid but not spectacular performer in Newburgh's first five victories, has suddenly burst forth as the Goldback player most likely to succeed Spreer in Newburgh headlines.

And, of course, there is always Mickey "The Marvel" Burkoski, who rammed 27 points home against Fallsburgh in NFA's 68-65 victory on Saturday.

Maher was runnerup to Burkoski with 16 points to overshadow the departed Spreer who collected 10 points, all in the first half.

In his previous outing Maher had sparked NFA's triumph over Kingston High with a career high of 25 points.

Just how much weaker will NFA be without Spreer? Billy Maher is likely to furnish the answer.

Bowling Roundup

Runnerup Gladys Schilling knocked off 470, Arlene Raible 463, Fran Hogan 434, M. Leach 431 and Mabel Mackey 422.

Team results:

Rosendale Florist 2, Elston Sports Shop 1; JPs 2, Colonial Cleaners 1; Schilling Sales 3, Mac's Market 0; Tropical Inn 3, Hilltoppers 0.

In the abbreviated BYA session, B. Lindhurst led the league with 435. It was the lone "400" of the day. Runnerup Betty LaTorre posted 374; P. Hutton 359 and Edith Billings 345.

Dick Howard and Jennie Spada grabbed the spotlight in Sunday's Central Mixed League with 564 and 553 respectively. Miss Spada's 231 was high series for the night. She added 181 and 141 for her total. Howard reeled off 175, 201, 188.

Joe Sangi shot 553, John Davis 550, John Sangi 209-534, Tom Graham 524, F. Cone 497 and B. Dodd 492. Mabel Davis with 439 and Kay. Roosa 415 were two-three in the distaff section.

Team results:

Cirone's 2, Howard's 1; Unknowns 2, Martin's 1; Cone's TV 2, Sangi's 1.

Boxscores Cinches Case Against Bobby Spreer

Here is a brief summary on the backgraund of events leading up to the NYSPHSAA ruling that has terminated Bobby Spreer's cage career at Newburgh Academy:

1. A Poughkeepsie source produced a 1948 boxscore in which the names of both Spreer brothers—Richie and Bobby—appeared.

2. An affidavit from Karl Farrar, Pawling coach that the Spreer brothers had played for St. Patrick's of Newburgh against Pawling.

3. Boxscores published in the Newburgh News of 1948 showing the names of the Spreers playing with St. Patrick's against Storm King.

These items were those on which John K. Archer, NYSPHSAA secretary - treasurer, based his ruling declaring Spreer ineligible.

Government Outlines Case Against NFL's TV Policies

Says It Does Not Want to Force TV

Philadelphia, Jan. 27 (AP)—The government has five witnesses scheduled for today's second session of its attempt to prove the National Football League's television policy violates the Sherman anti-trust act.

W. Perry Epes, chief government counsel in the case being tried before U. S. District Court Judge Alan K. Grim, said these witnesses would attempt to acquaint the court with the technical side of TV — size of audiences, marketing areas, and research.

The witnesses, in order of their expected appearance, are Martin Codel, Radio News Bureau of Washington; J. Frank Beatty, Broadcasting Publications, Washington; H. M. Beville, Jr., director of research for the National Broadcasting Company, New York; William F. E. Long, Radio and Television Manufacturers Association, Washington, and David Klein, the Pulse, Inc., New York.

The government made one thing clear in its first day of presentation yesterday. It is not attempting to force teams to broadcast or televise their games. Epes made a point of saying that the government's only interest in this case was to attack what it believed to be a combination of conspiracy, agreement among clubs that takes away freedom of individual choice.

NFL Law Attacked

The chief target for government counsel is Article 10 of the NFL constitution and by-laws. Epes contends that each of the 12 pro teams is given a protected territory within which it has the right to exclude the broadcast or telecast of any other game played by members of the league. All contracts entered into by a league team have to be approved by Commissioner Bert Bell.

Therefore, Epes told the court, each defendant club is deprived of its free choice of deciding whether it will broadcast or telecast its games into large areas of the United States.

One of the effects of this alleged combination and conspiracy, Epes said, has been to prevent radio and television stations in various cities throughout the United States from satisfying the widespread public demand for broadcast and telecast of professional football games.

Epes said the government would prove its jurisdiction in the case by substantiating a claim that broadcasting and telecasting of pro games is interstate commerce. One of the defense's main contentions is that the NFL is not engaged in interstate commerce and that therefore the case should be dismissed.

The government's first witness yesterday was James W. Seiler, owner and director of the American Research Bureau, Inc., of Washington. Seiler never got around to discussing football since court was adjourned before he completed his testimony. He will be recalled at a later date. Seiler merely described how his firm conducts surveys and measures the size of radio and television.

Clowning for Half Century

Imperia, Italy (AP)—A former Latin professor claims to be one of the oldest active clowns in the world. Although 73, Adriano Wettach doesn't feel like an old man yet and has no thoughts of retiring. Making people laugh for the past half century has kept him young, he claims. "My folks wanted me to be a watchmaker," said the clown, known professionally as Grock. Born in Reconvilier in the Swiss Beranese mountains, Grock has played before most of the crowned heads of Europe. He counted among his friends such monarchs as Czar Nicholas of Russia, William II, Albert and Leopold of Belgium and George V of England.

Musicians on Hot Seat

Vienna (AP)—The musicians playing for Vienna's outdoor ice revue now sit on hot seats to keep warm. Since they play half in the open, something had to be done to keep their hands and lips from freezing and their instruments from going flat. Warm air is blown at them from all directions and, besides that, the seats they sit on are electrically heated.

Hint to Motorists

If an automobile motor becomes overheated causing the water in the cooling system to boil, the radiator cap should not be removed until the heat has subsided. Many motorists have been badly scalded in this manner.

John (Hurry) Cain, assistant football coach at Mississippi was a star player at Alabama in 1930-31-32. During that period the Crimson Tide won 27 of 30 games.

Cadillac

Tread Lightly-Proud Foot!

Down under that accelerator is a dynamic 210-horsepower engine—coupled with the smoothest, quickest-acting Hydra-Matic Drive in history.

That great power was put there for the driver's safety in an emergency—and to provide that smooth, effortless, steady ride which is the essence of luxurious motoring.

It was not put there to enable a Cadillac to dominate the highway—or to dash out into the lead when the traffic light turns green—or to out-maneuver the other motor cars on the road.

So don't ever exhaust that accelerator—unless you're in an emergency, and must do so for reasons of safety.

If other drivers covet the honors at the stop light—just let them go. They are first away by your courtesy—and that should be satisfaction enough for anybody.

Just be happy and satisfied with the great luxury this powerful engine brings you—the infinitely smooth, quiet performance . . . the quick "lift" that comes when you nudge the accelerator . . . the great reserve for a burst ahead in case of necessity

And be happy, as you can't help being, with the scores of other wonderful things about this magnificent car—its easy, relaxing ride, for instance . . . its distinguished and inspiring beauty . . . its rich, luxurious interiors . . . its honored and respected name . . . and its truly amazing economy.

Yes—there is so much about a Cadillac to inspire and delight its owner that he doesn't need the additional thrill of unleashing its spectacular performance when it isn't necessary.

That's why we know he'll "Tread lightly!" He isn't in competition with anyone.

Woman Outshoots Men

By WARREN PAGE
(Shooting Editor)

We males, now that the saloons and barber shops no longer offer masculine sanctuary, have rather smugly come to feel that the shooting sports still generally carry a "For Men Only" sign. True, lady skeet shooters make the news now and again, but only by a freak do their scores overshadow the consistency of male shotgun-swingers.

One or two .22 rimfire gallery shooters of the feminine gender have been pictured on sports pages, but as often as not because of the niceness of their features rather than the accuracy of their firing. And a few of the gals go hunting, yet hardly enough to fatten game department revenues.

But certainly in the bench rest shooting game, which demands a certain amount of mechanical aptitude, tremendous attention to detail and exhausting concentration, we males figured we had a shooting sport completely reserved to ourselves.

But, brethren of the gun, 'taint so. The present world's record for rifle accuracy at 100 yards is held by Mrs. M. H. Walker of Ilion, N. Y. At Johnstown, N. Y., last Labor Day, shooting against more than 100 males, Olive Walker put ten consecutive bullets from her trusty .222 Remington into a single hole only .3268 inches between outermost centers. The gross size of that hole is just about the size of the fingernail on an ordinary man's pinky.

No man, firing a centerfire rifle in bench rest competition, or any kind of competition for that matter, has ever held 10 shots so closely. And just to add insult to injury, Mrs. Walker ranked in the top ten of all the hundreds of dead-serious male shooters competing in the National Championships during the past year.

Fortuntely for male vanity, a new record was set by a man in 1952, this for 200 yards. In Seattle, Frank Cooper put 10 shots into a spread of only .6378 inches, ten shots under a penny. He was firing a .22-250 with a custom barrel by Ralph Pride.

When you come right down to it, bench rest shooting does not call for physical strength. The 18-20 pound rifle is set on sandbags during firing and develops virtually no recoil. So there's no practical reason why a woman who is willing to reload her own cartridges should not excel in bench rest competition. During the past three years of the National Bench Rest Shooting Association history, several youngsters have trimmed their fathers at the bench, in individual matches.

The rifle used by the fair new record-holder was a heavy-barrelled musket equipped with a 20-power Lyman scope, made by Mike Walker and chambered in the cartridge he largely developed, the .222 Remington. This newcomer in the .22 centerfire ranks is grabbing off accuracy honors right and left, five rifles in that calibre being used by the top 20 BBRSA competitors.

Singles-Doubles Action Scheduled On Both Weekends

High Powered Local Squads in 'A' Meet

The 12th annual Kingston Woman's Bowling Association tournament will open on Saturday, Jan. 31, at 1:30 p. m. at the New Paltz bowling alleys.

Final registration figures reveal an entry list of 50 teams, 48 doubles and 96 singles.

Mayor Robert Reid of New Paltz will officiate at the opening ceremonies which have been arranged by the New Paltz women's league, Nellie Alverson, chairman.

The team events will be rolled on Saturday and Sunday, with singles and doubles following the next weekend.

Two teams—the six-team Rosendale Chalet Pioneers and eight-team New Paltz Nite Cap circuit—have registered 100 per cent entry.

Power Squads Set

Prominent Kingston teams rated among the favorites include the Kaye Sportwair squad of Dot Flemings, Ada Markle, Emma Pratt, Beverly Port and Elizabeth "722" Schoonmaker. The Dutch Rathskeller squad features Rose Schatzel, Pat Pearson, Jessie Burnett, Kay Brodhead and Betty Bailey.

Manhattan Bowling Balls will show a lineup numbering Rose Schatzel, Prendergast, Betty Bailey, Eleanor Singer and Elizabeth Schoonmaker. Bert Bishop's have Charlotte Lapine, Dot Rawding, Emma Pratt, Reta Frederick and Miriam Posner.

Another standout combination is Rowe's Shoe Store with Charlotte Lapine, Phyl Gehringer, Mayme Hutton, Tess Moss and Rita La Rocca.

The tournament will be operated under WIBC rules which calls for a change of alleys after each game, or three games on six alleys. By the time an entrant competes her all-events (9 games) she will have rolled on 9 sets of alleys.

Maher New NFA Hero

DUSO basketball experts, while predicting a slambang second half in the conference race because of Bobby Spreer's ineligibility, are beginning to wonder if the turn of events hasn't created a new problem at NFA.

A problem for the rest of the league, that is.

Billy Maher, a solid but not spectacular performer in Newburgh's first five victories, has suddenly burst forth as the Gold-back player most likely to succeed Spreer in Newburgh headlines.

And, of course, there is always Mickey "The Marvel" Burkoski, who rammed 27 points home against Fallsburgh in NFA's 68-65 victory on Saturday.

Maher was runnerup to Burkoski with 16 points to overshadow the departed Spreer who collected 10 points, all in the first half.

In his previous outing Maher had sparked NFA's triumph over Kingston High with a career high of 25 points.

Just how much weaker will NFA be without Spreer? Billy Maher is likely to furnish the answer.

Bowling Roundup

Frances Perry moved to the head of the class in the Junior Women's Major with a 493 series on games of 165, 179 and 149.

Runnerup Gladys Schilling knocked off 470, Arlene Raible 463, Fran Hogan 434, M. Leach 431 and Mabel Mackey 422.

Team results:

Rosendale Florist 2, Elston Sports Shop 1; JPs 2, Colonial Cleaners 1; Schilling Sales 3, Mac's Market 0; Tropical Inn 3, Hilltoppers 0.

In the abbreviated BYA session, B. Lindhurst led the league with 435. It was the lone "400" of the day. Runnerup Betty LaTorre posted 374; P. Hutton 359 and Edith Billings 345.

Dick Howard and Jennie Spada grabbed the spotlight in Sunday's Central Mixed League with 564 and 553 respectively. Miss Spada's 231 was high series for the night. She added 181 and 141 for her total. Howard reeled off 175, 201, 188.

Joe Sangi shot 553, John Davis 550, John Sangi 209-534, Tom Graham 524, F. Cone 497 and B. Dodd 492. Mabel Davis with 439 and Kay. Roosa 415 were two-three in the distaff section.

Team results:

Cirone's 2, Howard's 1; Unknowns 2, Martin's 1; Cone's TV 2, Sangi's 1.

Boxscores Cinches Case Against Bobby Spreer

Here is a brief summary on the backgraund of events leading up to the NYSPHSAA ruling that has terminated Bobby Spreer's cage career at Newburgh Academy:

1. A Poughkeepsie source produced a 1948 boxscore in which the names of both Spreer brothers—Richie and Bobby—appeared.

2. An affidavit from Karl Farrar, Pawling coach that the Spreer brothers had played for St. Patrick's of Newburgh against Pawling.

3. Boxscores published in the Newburgh News of 1948 showing the names of the Spreers playing with St. Patrick's against Storm King.

These items were those on which John K. Archer, NYSPHSAA secretary - treasurer, based his ruling declaring Spreer ineligible.

Government Outlines Case Against NFL's TV Policies

Says It Does Not Want to Force TV

Philadelphia, Jan. 27 (AP)—The government has five witnesses scheduled for today's second session of its attempt to prove the National Football League's television policy violates the Sherman anti-trust act.

W. Perry Epes, chief government counsel in the case being tried before U. S. District Court Judge Alan K. Grim, said these witnesses would attempt to acquaint the court with the technical side of TV — size of audiences, marketing areas, and research.

The witnesses, in order of their expected appearance, are Martin Codel, Radio News Bureau of Washington; J. Frank Beatty, Broadcasting Publications, Washington; H. M. Beville, Jr., director of research for the National Broadcasting Company, New York; William F. E. Long, Radio and Television Manufacturers Association, Washington, and David Klein, the Pulse, Inc., New York.

The government made one thing clear in its first day of presentation yesterday. It is not attempting to force teams to broadcast or televise their games. Epes made a point of saying that the government's only interest in this case was to attack what it believed to be a combination of conspiracy, agreement among clubs that takes away freedom of individual choice.

NFL Law Attacked

The chief target for government counsel is Article 10 of the NFL constitution and by-laws. Epes contends that each of the 12 pro teams is given a protected territory within which it has the right to exclude the broadcast or telecast of any other game played by members of the league. All contracts entered into by a league team have to be approved by Commissioner Bert Bell.

Therefore, Epes told the court, each defendant club is deprived of its free choice of deciding whether it will broadcast or telecast its games into large areas of the United States.

One of the effects of this alleged combination and conspiracy, Epes said, has been to prevent radio and television stations in various cities throughout the United States from satisfying the widespread public demand for broadcast and telecast of professional football games.

Epes said the government would prove its jurisdiction in the case by substantiating a claim that broadcasting and telecasting of pro games is interstate commerce. One of the defense's main contentions is that the NFL is not engaged in interstate commerce and that therefore the case should be dismissed.

The government's first witness yesterday was James W. Seiler, owner and director of the American Research Bureau, Inc., of Washington. Seiler never got around to discussing football since court was adjourned before he completed his testimony. He will be recalled at a later date. Seiler merely described how his firm conducts surveys and measures the size of radio and television.

Clowning for Half Century

Imperia, Italy (AP)—A former Latin professor claims to be one of the oldest active clowns in the world. Although 73, Adriano Wettach doesn't feel like an old man yet and has no thoughts of retiring. Making people laugh for the past half century has kept him young, he claims. "My folks wanted me to be a watchmaker," said the clown, known professionally as Grock. Born in Reconvilier in the Swiss Beranese mountains, Grock has played before most of the crowned heads of Europe. He counted among his friends such monarchs as Czar Nicholas of Russia, William II, Albert and Leopold of Belgium and George V of England.

Musicians on Hot Seat

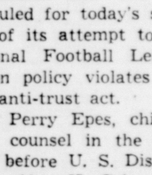

Vienna (AP)—The musicians playing for Vienna's outdoor ice revue now sit on hot seats to keep warm. Since they play half in the open, something had to be done to keep their hands and lips from freezing and their instruments from going flat. Warm air is blown at them from all directions and, besides that, the seats they sit on are electrically heated.

Hint to Motorists

If an automobile motor becomes overheated causing the water in the cooling system to boil, the radiator cap should not be removed until the heat has subsided. Many motorists have been badly scalded in this manner.

John (Hurry) Cain, assistant football coach at Mississippi was a star player at Alabama in 1930-31-32. During that period the Crimson Tide won 27 of 30 games.

Cadillac

Tread Lightly-Proud Foot!

That's a mighty proud foot you see there. It's resting on the accelerator of a gorgeous 1953 Cadillac.

But we have a serious and timely warning for that proud and happy foot: Tread lightly!

Down under that accelerator is a dynamic 210-horsepower engine—coupled with the smoothest, quickest-acting Hydra-Matic Drive in history.

That great power was put there for the driver's safety in an emergency—and to provide that smooth, effortless, steady ride which is the essence of luxurious motoring.

It was not put there to enable a Cadillac to dominate the highway—or to dash out into the lead when the traffic light turns green—or to out-maneuver the other motor cars on the road.

So don't ever exhaust that accelerator—unless you're in an emergency, and must do so for reasons of safety.

If other drivers covet the honors at the stop light—just let them go. They are first away by your courtesy—and that should be satisfaction enough for anybody.

Just be happy and satisfied with the great luxury this powerful engine brings you—the infinitely smooth, quiet performance . . . the quick "lift" that comes when you nudge the accelerator . . . the great reserve for a burst ahead in case of necessity

And be happy, as you can't help being, with the scores of other wonderful things about this magnificent car—its easy, relaxing ride, for instance . . . its distinguished and inspiring beauty . . . its rich, luxurious interiors . . . its honored and respected name . . . and its truly amazing economy.

Yes—there is so much about a Cadillac to inspire and delight its owner that he doesn't need the additional thrill of unleashing its spectacular performance when it isn't necessary.

That's why we know he'll "Tread lightly!" He isn't in competition with anyone.

Red China Says Heller Captured

Tokyo, Jan. 27 (AP)—Red China claimed today that Lt. Col. Edwin L. Heller, a leading U. S. Sabre jet pilot, was captured after his plane was shot down Friday.

Peiping Radio, heard here, said Communist MIG jet cannon fire downed Heller's plane in Manchuria, near Pehcheng (possibly Fengcheng, across the border from Uiju in North Korea).

The air force had announced that Heller, of Wynnewood, Pa., was shot down Friday, one day after he destroyed two Red MIGs and was promoted from major.

Heller, credited with shooting down 3½ MIGs in Korea, also was a leading ace in World War 2 with 19½ German planes.

The Defense Department in Washington declined to comment on the Peiping claim that Heller had been captured.

Chinese Produce 81 Films

San Francisco (AP)—The Peiping radio reports that Red China's film industry attracted audiences totaling 582 million during 1952. State and private film companies produced 81 motion pictures and dubbed Chinese into 53 other productions from Russia and "the people's democracies," the Red radio says.

U. S. Pilot Tells

F-84 pilot, whose name was not revealed, did not see it.

Second Disclosure

It was the second disclosure in a week by air force intelligence of mysterious flying objects over northern Japan near the Russian-Siberia area.

The air force made the two reports public without evaluation or comment.

Brigham was flying a prop-driven reconnaissance craft at 6,000 feet when an F-84 Thunderjet drew alongside.

Then, he said, he saw the disc to the right of and just behind the Thunderjet. He said it appeared to be traveling 30 to 40 miles an hour faster than the F-84, which was going 150-160 miles an hour.

"It closed rapidly and just before it would have flown into his fuselage it decelerated to his airspeed almost instantaneously," Brigham said in his report to intelligence officers. "In doing so, it flipped up on its edge at approximately a 90 degree bank. Then it fluttered within 20 feet of his fuselage for perhaps two or three seconds, pulled away and around his starboard (right) wing, appearing to flip once as it hit the slipstream behind his wing tip fuel tank.

Almost Vertical Climb

"Then it passed him, crossed in front of him and pulled up abruptly, appearing to accelerate, and shot out of sight in a steep, almost vertical climb."

"An unusual flight characteristic was a slow fluttering motion. It rocked back and forth at approximately 40 degree banks at approximately one second intervals throughout its course."

When it pulled away, "it did so more sharply than a plane could have done.

"Its maneuvering throughout was always clear and precise."

The sightings were reported in frozen, ice-locked territory, already tense from harassment by Russian aircraft based on Soviet islands just north and northeast of Japan's northern island, Hokkaido.

By-Product

Glycerine is a by-product of the fat-splitting and stearic acid industries, with soap manufacturing accounting for most of the production.

Liquor Dealers Hold Annual Banquet

Liquor Dealers Hold Banquet

Incoming President Charles H. Hoppe told approximately 250 members, wives and guests attending the 14th annual banquet meeting of the Ulster County Hotel and Restaurant Liquor Dealers Association, Inc., at the Williams Lake Hotel last night that the organization must be strong, with 100 per cent membership and spokesmen in Albany.

"We must have a strong organization which follows any proposed changes in our ABC laws. This prevents us from innocently violating any new rules and regulations. It also prevents the passage of any new law which might injure or hamper us in carrying on our business in which we have a large investment.

"We must have spokesmen in Albany who check this legislation and immediately inform us about it. Remember, we are not lobbyists and cannot do it ourselves. We must hire qualified people to do it. All this will develop an understanding and goodwill between our organization and the State Liquor Authority on a county and state level."

Asks Full Membership

Hoppe called for a "100 per cent membership" in Ulster county "who not only pay their dues but share equally in all expenses and any work that is to be done. Just because we cannot attend meetings doesn't mean that we should not pay our dues." He said that the association had never "leveled any special assessment as several organizations in the city of New York have to do each year in order to protect their interest. We have always managed to raise funds by dances and other social affairs and with your help I intend to continue this practice."

In his opening remarks Hoppe thanked the association for electing him president for 1953 and drew a laugh when he added, "Who could turn it down with a yearly expense account of $10?" He said it was "wonderful" to see such good attendance and to have occasion to "forget about business. As Bob Teetsel would say, 'What business?' "

"But seriously," he continued, "it is lovely to get away from the cares of your bar and kitchen for this get-together tonight—especially for the wives who help their husbands in our type of business . . ."

He urged members to strive to "further good will toward our organization by continuing our charitable practices. The association has received great praise from many organizations throughout the entire state for such efforts in the past and I promise to do all in my power to continue them."

Calls for Support

Henry Doel, deputy commissioner of the State Liquor Authority, spoke briefly, complimented Hoppe as "one of the most competent men in your organization" and called on members of the association to give it their full support.

Peter Katavolos, past president of the State Restaurant Liquor Dealers Association, described the successful efforts of the association to defeat the Female Bill in the state legislature. This bill would have kept women from behind the bar. He pointed to the importance of good organization and urged members to get behind their officers.

Ulster County Sheriff Cluett Schantz expressed appreciation for the way in which the members of the association conducted their business. "I want to congratulate you," he said, pointing out that his office had not received a single report of liquor violation during the entire year.

Larry Jensen, a member of the Ulster county ABC board, expressed appreciation of the board for the invitation tendered its members and wives and complimented the association for the work it was doing. He also expressed the regrets of Sen. Arthur Wicks and County Judge John M. Cashin who were unable to attend. He said that Wicks was "busy up in Albany" and that Cashin was participating in the program at the March of Dimes in Kingston.

James Abernethy, assistant district attorney, appeared as representative of District Attorney Howard C. St. John who was ill with a "virus."

Others Introduced

Also introduced were Ralph Finnegan, executive officer of the county ABC board; Allen Baker, ABC county investigator; Harry Howard, ABC board member; Miss Margaret Burgemeister, ABC secretary; Clayton W. Vredenburg, Ulster county undersheriff; Anthony Saccoman, Raymond Amel, Floyd Scott and Eugene Sottile, members of the ticket committee; Bert Trisider, Arthur Isabella, Thomas Provenzano and Joe Assion, members of the floor committee and Mae Martalto, Eddie Cherny and Emile Jordan, members of the entertainment committee. Robert E. Teetsel, chairman of the banquet committee, served as master-of-ceremonies and introduced guests.

Johnny Woods, the comedian, headed up the entertainment and introduced the acts which were thoroughly enjoyed. Appearing on the program were Carlton King, novelty magic act, Estelle Carol and Alfonso, a modern Afro-Cuban dance team, and Cavin Moore, a Decca recording artist recently featured on Ed Sullivan's Toast of the Town.

Officers of the Ulster county association are Hoppe, president; Walter Williams, vice-president; Teetsel, secretary; Provenzano, financial secretary, and Sottile, treasurer.

Hospital Reports

full-time and three part-time employes to the hospital's personnel to maintain 24-hour service, through the year, and man two ambulances.

The ambulances made 1,111 calls in 1952, the report said.

The hospital reported new "pillow radios" now in use and said that to reduce the noise from the radios brought in by patients, and to enable more patients to enjoy favorite programs, this type was installed on most of the adult beds.

These were obtained on a concession basis. The patient inserts a dime and receives an hour's playing time. The hospital receives 25 per cent of the gross receipts.

"In order to increase the efficiency of the X-ray department," the report said, "individual X-ray machine controls were installed at a cost of $3,663. This will enable technicians to take X-rays simultaneously in both rooms."

The report said seven new cribs were purchased for the children's ward which was "completely redecorated" in December. Four new youth beds will be added to this section "as soon as finances permit."

Rooms Soundproofed

"It was necessary to soundproof the rooms and corridor in the front section of the third floor, and this was done by outside labor," the report said. The nurses sections and immediate areas on the first and second floors were also treated for sound. This was done by maintenance men, and results were reported as "most satisfactory."

The building committee, headed by Frank Matthews, said the report, has been busy. "Meetings were held in Albany, New York and Kingston. The architect, consultant, and state officials have been most cooperative in furthering the program. The hospital has been notified that subject to the 1953-54 federal appropriation, its program was approved for federal support from the Hill Burton funds to the amount of $250,000. All necessary real estate has been acquired."

The hospital thanked all who assisted in carrying on its work and cited for "special acknowledgment" Senator Arthur H. Wicks, for his effort in obtaining federal ail for the building funds, Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy and his staff, who have spent time in inspecting the hospital and instructing student nurses in fire prevention and use of fire-fighting equipment, the Junior League library service, the Red Cross aides, and the thousands of contributors "who have supported it" through the supporting of building funds.

The report said that in addition to the cost of operating the ambulance service $7,530.40 was for other capital expenditures.

Red Activity Reported

Oslo, Norway, Jan. 27 (AP)—The independent newspaper Morgenposten reported today that Soviet air and naval forces are intensifying activity north of the Arctic Circle and that Russia now has at least 900 warplanes stationed at 50 bases bordering Norway and Finland. The military correspondent of the paper quoted allied sources as the basis for his report.

Creates Strategy Board

Yesterday Eisenhower created a strategy board to plan psychological maneuvers in the cold war. Eight men were named and instructed to report back by June 30 on techniques in "the struggle for the minds and wills of men."

Hagerty told reporters it is a "phychological strategy board" empowered to "survey and evaluate the government's information and related policies and activities with particular reference to international relations and the national security."

The executive order dealing with the Rockefeller Committee said it:

"Shall advise the President, the assistant to the President, and the director of the Bureau of the Budget with respect to changes in the organization and activities of the executive branch of the government, which, in its opinion, would promote economy and efficiency in the operations of that branch."

The members will serve without compensation.

Ford Luikart, who is on loan from the Civil Service Commission, will act as staff director.

In reply to questions, Hagerty said Berhard L. Gladieux, who was named as a consultant to the committee when it was set up by Eisenhower in November, will not continue in that capacity. Asked why, Hagerty said he had nothing to say on that point.

Hagerty said Eisenhower plans only one official function today, attending a White House reception (4 p. m., EST) for the chiefs of the diplomatic missions.

Mrs. Eisenhower, too, still is fighting a cold but she also plans to attend the reception, Hagerty said.

Wilson Has . . .

has 125 million dollars worth of uniform contracts with the government. He was understood to be considering a proposal under which he would agree that his firm would take no more defense contracts and he would disqualify himself from acting in any way on pending business with the firm.

One Rule For All

There was doubt, however, that the Senate Committee would consider this enough, since many members said they couldn't apply one rule to Wilson and another to his assistants.

There was no indication that Talbott was willing to assume the tax burden involved in selling about 2,000 Chrysler Motors and 12,000 Owens-Corning fibre-glass shares he said he bought long ago for about $2 a share.

This left up in the air, for a final decision by Eisenhower, the question of whether Talbott's nomination ever will be submitted.

Wilson got Senate approval by a wide margin, but some senators who voted for him made it clear they were doing so only because they felt Eisenhower should have the man he wanted for defense secretary.

Not Any Sacrifice

Sen. Morse told the Senate it wasn't enough for Wilson to sell his GM holdings. Morse said Wilson's proposed sale of GM stock wasn't any sacrifice, because the estimated $600,000 in taxes Wilson will have to pay comes out of his profits in selling the stock for more than he originally paid for it.

Morse, who spoke nearly two hours against the Wilson confirmation, collapsed after leaving the Senate floor but was quickly revived. He said he would be able to take part in Senate proceedings today.

Sen. Lehman and Willis Smith contended that even after Wilson disposes of his personal GM holdings, he will have an indirect interest in the motor firm through stock held by his wife and shares he proposes to give his children and grandchildren.

Calls It 'Unfortunate'

"I believe the appointment of Charles E. Wilson is unfortunate," Lehman said. "It is one I believe will lead to loss of confidence in the Defense Department and less efficiency there."

Sen. Hendrickson (R.-N.J.) told Wilson indirectly that he can't run the Defense Department the way he did General Motors.

"He himself may very soon learn that there is a real difference between the talents of corporate management and the art—the great art of leadership in government," he said.

Sen. Byrd (D.-Va.), who first challenged Wilson's right to the defense post, said the nominee had acted with "admirable patriotism" in agreeing to sell his stock.

"Now that Mr. Wilson has agreed to divest himself of his stock with General Motors, I will give him my very active and cordial support," Byrd said. "I have the utmost confidence in his integrity, which has never been questioned by anyone."

Blast in Store

Aiken, S. C., Jan. 27 (AP)—An explosion wrecked an electrical store in the center of town today and at least six persons were reported killed. The blast in the Jones Electrical Company store demolished the building and a fire broke out. Mayor O'Dell Weeks said it was known definitely that six persons were in the building at the time of the explosion. He expressed belief their bodies were buried in the debris. Identification was not available immediately. The blast occurred while an investigation was being made of a leaking gas line serving the store. Windows in adjacent buildings were shattered and a number of automobiles were buried under wreckage. The fire spread rapidly and was raging in several nearby stores within a matter of minutes.

Destruction Reported

U. S. and Australian jets which swept over the supply route yesterday reported destruction of 23 Red vehicles and 28 buildings.

Fighter-bombers also teamed with marine planes in strikes at Red positions on the western front.

Gen. Collins said he was impressed by the improved condition of the South Korean Army and allied roads in the hilly country.

Collins is expected to remain in Korea several days.

The day's sharpest ground action occurred northeast of the Punchbowl area on the eastern front. A South Korean patrol skirmished with a reinforced North Korean platoon for 13 minutes, then pulled back as allied artillery pounded the Reds.

On the central front, UN tanks destroyed or damaged 40 Red bunkers, 13 caves, 13 gun positions, 11 observation posts and a tunnel.

Car Fire Reported

The car of a patient at Kingston Hospital caught fire last night as it was parked in the area to the rear of the hospital. Police reported at 7:43 p. m. that the car of Wiedner H. Davis, of Guyton street, developed a short circuit in a defroster. Officers William Norton and Sheldon O'Rourke, said a battery terminal was removed by a fireman. A call at 7:33 p. m., was for a chimney fire at the home of Gerald A. Gormely, 253 Lucas avenue. No damage was reported.

Red China Says Heller Captured

Tokyo, Jan. 27 (AP)—Red China claimed today that Lt. Col. Edwin L. Heller, a leading U. S. Sabre jet pilot, was captured after his plane was shot down Friday.

Peiping Radio, heard here, said Communist MIG jet cannon fire downed Heller's plane in Manchuria, near Pehcheng (possibly Fengcheng, across the border from Uiju in North Korea).

The air force had announced that Heller, of Wynnewood, Pa., was shot down Friday, one day after he destroyed two Red MIGs and was promoted from major.

Heller, credited with shooting down 3½ MIGs in Korea, also was a leading ace in World War 2 with 19½ German planes.

The Defense Department in Washington declined to comment on the Peiping claim that Heller had been captured.

Chinese Produce 81 Films

San Francisco (AP)—The Peiping radio reports that Red China's film industry attracted audiences totaling 582 million during 1952. State and private film companies produced 81 motion pictures and dubbed Chinese into 53 other productions from Russia and "the people's democracies," the Red radio says.

U. S. Pilot Tells

F-84 pilot, whose name was not revealed, did not see it.

Second Disclosure

It was the second disclosure in a week by air force intelligence of mysterious flying objects over northern Japan near the Russian-Siberia area.

The air force made the two reports public without evaluation or comment.

Brigham was flying a prop-driven reconnaissance craft at 6,000 feet when an F-84 Thunderjet drew alongside.

Then, he said, he saw the disc to the right of and just behind the Thunderjet. He said it appeared to be traveling 30 to 40 miles an hour faster than the F-84, which was going 150-160 miles an hour.

"It closed rapidly and just before it would have flown into his fuselage it decelerated to his airspeed almost instantaneously," Brigham said in his report to intelligence officers. "In doing so, it flipped up on its edge at approximately a 90 degree bank. Then it fluttered within 20 feet of his fuselage for perhaps two or three seconds, pulled away and around his starboard (right) wing, appearing to flip once as it hit the slipstream behind his wing tip fuel tank.

Almost Vertical Climb

"Then it passed him, crossed in front of him and pulled up abruptly, appearing to accelerate, and shot out of sight in a steep, almost vertical climb."

"An unusual flight characteristic was a slow fluttering motion. It rocked back and forth at approximately 40 degree banks at approximately one second intervals throughout its course."

When it pulled away, "it did so more sharply than a plane could have done.

"Its maneuvering throughout was always clear and precise."

On Jan. 21, the air force disclosed that "rotating clusters of red, white and green lights" had been sighted over northern Japan by American airmen.

The sightings were reported in frozen, ice-locked territory, already tense from harassment by Russian aircraft based on Soviet islands just north and northeast of Japan's northern island, Hokkaido.

Liquor Dealers Hold Banquet

Incoming President Charles H. Hoppe told approximately 250 members, wives and guests attending the 14th annual banquet meeting of the Ulster County Hotel and Restaurant Liquor Dealers Association, Inc., at the Williams Lake Hotel last night that the organization must be strong, with 100 per cent membership and spokesmen in Albany.

"We must have a strong organization which follows any proposed changes in our ABC laws. This prevents us from innocently violating any new rules and regulations. It also prevents the passage of any new law which might injure or hamper us in carrying on our business in which we have a large investment.

"We must have spokesmen in Albany who check this legislation and immediately inform us about it. Remember, we are not lobbyists and cannot do it ourselves. We must hire qualified people to do it. All this will develop an understanding and goodwill between our organization and the State Liquor Authority on a county and state level."

Asks Full Membership

Hoppe called for a "100 per cent membership" in Ulster county "who not only pay their dues but share equally in all expenses and any work that is to be done. Just because we cannot attend meetings doesn't mean that we should not pay our dues." He said that the association had never "leveled any special assessment as several organizations in the city of New York have to do each year in order to protect their interest. We have always managed to raise funds by dances and other social affairs and with your help I intend to continue this practice."

In his opening remarks Hoppe thanked the association for electing him president for 1953 and drew a laugh when he added, "Who could turn it down with a yearly expense account of $10?" He said it was "wonderful" to see such good attendance and to have occasion to "forget about business. As Bob Teetsel would say, 'What business?'"

"But seriously," he continued, "it is lovely to get away from the cares of your bar and kitchen for this get-together tonight—especially for the wives who help their husbands in our type of business . . ."

He urged members to strive to "further good will toward our organization by continuing our charitable practices. The association has received great praise from many organizations throughout the entire state for such efforts in the past and I promise to do all in my power to continue them."

Calls for Support

Henry Doel, deputy commissioner of the State Liquor Authority, spoke briefly, complimented Hoppe as "one of the most competent men in your organization" and called on members of the association to give it their full support.

Peter Katavolos, past president of the State Restaurant Liquor Dealers Association, described the successful efforts of the association to defeat the Female Bill in the state legislature. This bill would have kept women from behind the bar. He pointed to the importance of good organization and urged members to get behind their officers.

Ulster County Sheriff Cluett Schantz expressed appreciation for the way in which the members of the association conducted their business. "I want to congratulate you," he said, pointing out that his office had not received a single report of liquor violation during the entire year.

Larry Jensen, a member of the Ulster county ABC board, expressed appreciation of the board for the invitation tendered its members and wives and complimented the association for the work it was doing. Also introduced were Ralph Finnegan, executive officer of the county ABC board; Allen Baker, ABC county investigator; Harry Howard, ABC board member; Miss Margaret Burgemeister, ABC secretary; Clayton W. Vredenburg, Ulster county under sheriff; Anthony Saccoman, Raymond Amel, Floyd Scott and Eugene Sottile, members of the ticket committee; Bert Trisider, Arthur Isabella, Thomas Provenzano and Joe Assion, members of the floor committee and Mae Martalto, Eddie Cherny and Emile Jordan, members of the entertainment committee. Robert E. Teetsel, chairman of the banquet committee, served as master-of-ceremonies and introduced guests.

Davis, of Guyton street, developed a short circuit in a defroster. Officers William Norton and Sheldon O'Rourke, said a battery terminal was removed by a fireman. A call at 7:33 p. m., was for a chimney fire at the home of Gerald A. Gormely, 253 Lucas avenue. No damage was reported.

The Weather

TUESDAY, JAN. 27, 1953

Sun rises at 7:02 a. m.; sun sets at 4:52 p. m., E.S.T.
Weather, cloudy.

The Temperature

The lowest temperature recorded on The Freeman thermometer during the night was 18 degrees. The highest figure recorded up to noon today was 25 degrees.

Weather Forecast

New York city and vicinity—Increasing cloudiness today, highest temperature well up in the 30's. Cloudy and not so cold tonight with temperatures remaining in the 30's. Mostly cloudy with a chance of some showers Wednesday. Milder than today but turning colder late in the day. High Wednesday in the upper 40's.

Eastern New York — Cloudy with some light snow likely tonight and Wednesday, probably mixed with rain in south portions Wednesday. Lowest tonight 22 to 28. Slowly rising temperatures Wednesday.

The city engineer's weather records today showed a temperature of 22 degrees at 10 a. m., a barometric pressure of 29.73 inches, a humidity of 68 per cent, and a southwest wind with a velocity of six miles an hour. The high temperature yesterday was 30 at 3 p. m., and the low was 17 at 11 p. m. The mean temperature was 24 and the normal is 25. The humidity was 64 at 11 p. m., and 32 at 4 p. m. The barometric pressure was 29.72 at 10 p. m., and 29.10 at 2 a. m. The top velocity of a northeast wind was 16 miles an hour.

Handyman Sought In Rape Slaying

Westport, Conn., Jan. 27 (AP)—Police today sought a 29-year-old Negro handyman as the rape-slayer of a young mother whose knifed and garroted body was found last night in a house here she had occupied only two weeks.

State Police Sgt. Louis Marchese said that William Davis was accused of the crime by his wife, Dolly.

Marchese said that Davis and his wife did parttime housework for Mrs. Penny Evans, 30, whose nearly nude body was found by two Westport policemen, after Stamford authorities reported that Mrs. Davis had telephoned them saying:

"My husband has just killed a woman."

The state policeman said the Davises had gone to Stamford by separate taxicabs to visit their child.

Mrs. Evans' body, clad only in sweater and brassiere, was found sprawled grotesquely on a bed, an electric clock cord tightly coiled about her neck in which there were five stab wounds.

Had Been Assaulted

Medical Examiner Harry Phillips said that Mrs. Evans, a native of Kansas City, Mo., had been sexually assaulted. He said her blood was spattered on the walls of the bedroom indicating she had attempted to fight off the attack.

The body was removed to Norwalk Hospital where an autopsy was scheduled to be performed today.

Marchese and Det. Capt. Edward Capassi said that Mrs. Evans and her husband, Montgomery, whom they identified only as a writer, were separated. The couple have one child, a two and a half year old boy whom police found crying in a room near where his mother was assaulted.

Police after questioning Mrs. Davis, who was brought here from Stamford after midnight, said they had learned only that the couple had worked at separate homes during the day and agreed to meet in Stamford last night, going there in separate taxicabs.

They quoted Mrs. Davis as saying that when her husband told her he had killed Mrs. Evans, she left him and called Stamford police, who in turn notified local authorities.

Road blocks set up in the Stamford area failed to find Davis up to a late hour, and a nine-state police alarm was sent out over an interstate police communications system.

Dr. Phillips said that Mrs. Evans came to this town about two weeks ago from Greenwich, where she had lived at 421 Field Point Road. He said that Davis had lived in Ridgefield before coming here.

Happy at Losing $2,000,000 Headache

Mrs. Robert R. Brintnall smiles with her husband, a store clerk, in Boston despite news that Canadian law prevents her from inheriting $2,000,000 from a cousin and uncle who died recently in Toronto. Mrs. Brintnall says she has had severe headaches and been bothered by strangers seeking money every day since she was notified she might inherit the estate. Now that she has been told she can't expect the money her headaches have gone and life is more peaceful. (AP Wirephoto).

Mt. Marion, Ruby Plan New Fire Call Cards

The Mt. Marion-Ruby Fire Company is planning to distribute new alarm call cards because it has been found that changes in telephone numbers have made existing ones obsolete.

Announcement about the new cards was made by Chief David Scheffel of the Mt. Marion-Ruby Fire Districts, who suggests that changes be made on the old ones for the present in order to save time in sounding a fire alarm:

Mt. Marion firehouse — First call, Saugerties 434 (noon to midnight); second call Saugerties 361-J; third call, Saugerties 312.

Ruby firehouse — First call Kingston 1390-M-1; second call Kingston 1383-W-2; third call Kingston 140-J-2.

Borrower's Directory

The first directory of London had a royal origin. It was started by King Charles I, who wanted a list of the citizens who could loan him money.

Didn't Know, He Says

New York, Jan. 27 (AP) — The president of an AFL Teamsters' local told the New York State Crime Commission today that he did not know the dues of his local had totaled $180,000 a year. Joseph Papa, president of Local 202, eagerly took the witness stand 24 hours after the crime probers heard that he shared in $700,000 profits from a New York produce center. Earlier today his union chieftain ordered Papa suspended pending an investigation as a result of the testimony .

Bill Is Approved

Albany, Jan. 27 (AP)—The Legislature has unanimously approved a bill extending from Feb. 2 to March 2 the deadline for renewal of all truck and trailer registrations. Final action came last night in the Assembly. The bill went to Gov. Dewey, who is expected to sign it promptly. The extension is intended to give the Legislature time to settle a controversy between truck drivers and the state between truck drivers and the state over the system of computing registration fees.

Dulles Will Speak

Washington, Jan. 27 (AP)—John Foster Dulles tonight makes his first public statement on America's foreign policy since he became secretary of state six days ago. The 30-minute address, recorded yesterday, will be carried on radio and television (CBS) at 10:30 p. m. Eastern Standard Time.
